LINDY'S BABY SLAIN

HOOVER URGES 1½ BILLION FOR JOBLESS RELIEF

Outlines Substitute for Robinson Plan.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Following his indorsement in principle of senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson's 2 billion 300 million dollar unemployment relief plan President Hoover after a conference with Republican leaders at the White House tonight outlined his own proposals.

Under the Hoover plan, the Reconstruction Finance corporation would loan not to exceed 1 billion 500 million dollars for the various purposes contemplated. Of this amount, from 250 millions to 300 millions would be loaned to states for the relief of unemployment distress and the remainder would be loaned to public and private agencies to aid in the financing of "income producing" construction projects.

Would Sell Debentures.

To procure funds for this undertaking the Reconstruction Finance corporation would be authorized to sell debentures in the amount of one billion 500 million. For this purpose its borrowing power would be increased to 3 billion dollars.

Late today Senator Robinson called a conference of Democratic senators to formulate action on his 2 billion 300 million unemployment relief proposal. Only a dozen senators responded to the call. They wrangled for two hours over the proposition without reaching any conclusion and broke up with Senator Robinson announcing he would call another meeting tomorrow.

Few of the Democrats present evinced any enthusiasm for the Robinson scheme. Most of them favored the Wagner bill providing for the completion of federal construction projects already authorized but not appropriated for.

Attend White House Parley.

Those attending the White House conference chiefly were Republican members of the senate banking and currency committee—Senators Goldsborough of Maryland, Townsend of Delaware, Walcott of Connecticut, Carey of Wyoming, Watson of Indiana, Couzens of Michigan, and Steiwer of Oregon. In addition to these Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and Walter Newton, secretary to the President, participated in he conference.

When the senators emerged from the White House Senator Walcott in response to a question said the conference was "very harmonious," while Mr. Couzens said the harmony was not anything to boast of.

"Harmonious, if not enthusiastic," was the way Watson put it.

Hoover Outlines His Plan.

While the senators were leaving the White House issued the President's outline of his plan. It had been prepared in advance of the meeting and submitted to the senators. The statement follows:

"The policy steadfastly adhered to up to the present time has been that responsibility for relief of distress belongs to private organizations, local communities, and the states. That fundamental policy is not to be changed. But since the fear has arisen that existing relief measures and resources may prove inadequate in certain localities and to insure against any possible breakdown in these localities, it is proposed that authority be granted to the Reconstruction Finance corporation to assist such states as may need it by underwriting only state bonds or by loaning directly to such states as may not be in position temporarily to sell securities in the market. The funds so obtained to be used for relief purposes and the total limited to 250 millions or 300 millions of dollars.

Self-Supporting Projects.

"Without entering the field of industrial or public expansion, there are a large number of economically sound and self-supporting projects of a constructive replacement character that

Says Walker Got $26,000 Bus Bonds

New York, May 12.—[Special.]—J. A. Sisto, who had a hand in financing the Parmelee Transportation company, gave Mayor James J. Walker bonds worth $26,535 before the municipal assembly passed the mayor's bill creating a board of taxicab control, he testified today before the Hoftstadter committee.

Just before Samuel Seabury, chief counsel to the committee, sprang this surprise upon a silent courtroom crowd, B. M. Seymour, vice president and general manager of the Terminal Cab company, admitted that his company had paid $26,183 in salary to State Senator John A. Hastings, the mayor's friend.

Borrows from Companies.

Senator Hastings had been under fire all day as Mr. Seabury sought to show that he had borrowed heavily from companies with which the three backers of the Jamaica Central railways, an applicant for a Queens bus franchise, while that company's application was pending in the board of estimate.

Park A. Rowley, president of the Manhattan company, admitted that Hastings had borrowed $7,500 and had not repaid it. William M. Grove, president of New York Investors, was the victim of a $25,000 touch which he said he would make good himself. H. P. Williams, chairman of the executive committee of the New York Title and Mortgage company, admitted that business exigencies had forced him to recommend that Senator Hastings be excused from making good a collateral bond on a $350,000 mortgage.

Refuses to Waive Immunity.

The courtroom became gravely silent when Mr. Sisto, a slim, gray haired man, took the stand and unfolded as sensational a story as the legislative investigation of the city government has yet brought to light. He began by refusing to waive immunity.

The witness identified himself as a partner in the firm of J. A. Sisto & Co., members of the New York Stock exchange, with offices at 68 Wall street. His firm, with White-Weld & Co., issued the securities of Checker Cab Manufacturing company, owners of the Parmelee Transportation company, which owns the Yellow Taxicab corporation, the New York operating subsidiary.

In the spring of 1929 Mr. Sisto said he found his company preparing to join in distributing the securities of Parmelee corporation which was then being formed. He had a talk with Morris Markin, president of the Checker Cab company, who said it would be a good thing if New York would follow the lead of other cities and adopt regulatory measures for the taxicab industry. About that time Sisto met John J. McKeon at the Sea View Golf club in Absecon, near Atlantic City.

Meet at Atlantic City.

Mayor Walker, a close friend of McKeon, was staying at the Ritz-Carlton hotel in Atlantic City. Mr. McKeon took Mr. Sisto to meet the mayor. He was introduced as a figure in Wall street and the man who had floated the securities of Cosden Oil company.

Afterward, the exact date was not fixed definitely, Mr. Sisto selected some bonds and put them in an envelope for Mr. McKeon to give his friend, the mayor. Mr. McKeon did not peek into the envelope, so he did not know what it contained. Mr. Sisto recalled, however, that the envelope contained thirteen bonds of the Hi-Grade Food Products company, ten bonds of the Reliance Bronze and Steel company, and ten bonds of Parmelee Transportation company.

Mr. McKeon put them in his pocket and hurried off to the city hall. When the mayor came out, Mr. Sisto testified, McKeon said nothing to Mr. Walker of the gift he bore until together they were riding uptown in the mayor's limousine, when he took the envelope from his pocket and handed it to his friend, who in turn put it in his pocket.

Starts After U. S. to Paris Air Record

Newark, N. J., May 12.—[Special.]—Lou T. Reichers of Arlington, N. J., 31 year old speed flyer, took off at 11:05 tonight from the municipal airport here on a two-stop solo flight to Paris. He hopes to cover the 1,700 miles in seventeen hours, thus cutting by half the time taken by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for the same distance in 1927. Reichers intended to refuel at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and at Baldonnel field, Dublin.

He was flying a Lockheed-Altair, low winged monoplane, Liberty, painted black and gold with a drawing of the Statue of Liberty on either side of the cockpit and powered by a big Curtiss-Cyclone 550 horsepower motor.

Reichers expected to be at the Newfoundland field in five and one-half hours.

Wife Sees Start.

Mrs. Muriel Reichers, the aviator's wife, who was at the field with others of his relatives, ran to the side of the plane and kissed her husband good-by. She handed him three chicken sandwiches on rye bread, a bottle of coffee and a package of malted milk tablets.

When the chocks were pulled from the wheels of the retractable landing gear, Reichers waved farewell and gave the plane "the gun." He needed but half of the 3,400 foot runway to get the ship into the air, and banking, disappeared into the east.

Reichers had been awaiting a favorable weather report from Harbor Grace, Dublin, and from Lieut. Harry Connor, his "remote control" navigator, who, as first officer aboard the steamship City of Hamburg, was more than half way across the ocean enroute to Havre.

Lieut. Connor had radioed that the aviator might expect a 10 mile an hour tail wind all across the Atlantic, and weather reports from the landing field where Reichers' refueling crews were waiting told of good conditions there.

To Refuel at Harbor Grace.

The refueling at Harbor Grace, Reichers thought, should not take more than forty-five minutes, with four men at the pumps. He expected to reach the Irish coast between eight and nine hours later, if he maintained the 200 miles an hour cruising speed and had the tail wind helping him all the way, and to set the plane down on Le Bourget field about two hours after that.

The flier had in his plane fifty pounds of merchandise from Newark to prove that a "pony express" service across the Atlantic in a fast plane is practical.

FOUND HALF BURIED IN THICKET FOUR MILES FROM HOME, HEAD CRUSHED

"Jafsie" and Curtis Being Questioned by the Police.

New York, May 13 (Friday).—(Special.)—Dr. J. F. (Jafsie) Condon, the Bronx lecturer who acted as intermediary in the futile payment by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of $50,000 ransom for his son, and John H. Curtis, the Norfolk boat builder, who also has been conducting negotiations, were taken to Hopewell for questioning by the police early this morning.

They were scheduled to go to the prosecutor's office in Mercer county later today.

They arrived at the Lindbergh home shortly before 2 o'clock this morning and were at once closeted with the police.

Held for Questioning.

A few minutes before their arrival Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commanding the New Jersey state police, made this announcement:

"Dr. Condon and Mr. Curtis will be at these headquarters in a few minutes for questioning in connection with this case and they will be turned over by the police authorities at this point to the prosecuting authorities in the morning."

It is believed that the two intermediaries may have confidential information about the kidnapers which they are willing to turn over to the authorities.

New Search for Clews.

The police started their new search for clews immediately with a close though apparently unpromising examination of the place where the body was found.

"No footprints were found in the vicinity of where the baby's body was located," said Col. Schwarzkopf in a statement early this morning. "This whole territory was thoroughly scoured by investigators from this office, even to the extent of scraping the surface of the ground around where the body was found and putting it all in containers and bringing it to these headquarters for the purpose of test and analysis."

Before the questioning of Curtis and Condon had begun, the Jersey police had announced that they expected to arrest a group of suspects and launch a rigorous inquisition. At the same time the federal government and the state of New York threw off all the restraints that have hampered them thus far in their attempts to solve the crime and prepared last night for an intensive search for the murderers.

"Get the Murderers."

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey promised that everything possible would be done to "get the murderers" and announced that he expected to confer today with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police. Meanwhile a grand jury investigation of all the "Jafsie" incidents that took place in the Bronx in connection with the case was predicted by an aide of the Bronx district attorney, Charles B. McLaughlin.

That a more intensive hunt for the baby's murderers would be

TRAGEDY AROUSES THE PUBLIC; NEWS SPEEDS OVER CITY

News of the finding of the body of the Lindbergh baby spread throughout Chicago within a few minutes after the official announcement was made by Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey.

W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, carried the news to the public in a broadcast about 5:15 p. m. Within 20 minutes 1,000 telephone calls were made to THE TRIBUNE switchboard seeking confirmation of the announcement. By midnight 12,000 calls had been received with only a slight letup in their volume.

Early editions of THE TRIBUNE were sold almost immediately after reaching the street. Sales far exceeded the normal average. Calls were also received at the detective bureau and police stations in numbers which swamped facilities.

Gather to Discuss Case.

Throughout the city people left their homes to discuss the case with their neighbors. In the loop traffic was tied by knots of people who swelled over sidewalks.

W-G-N made several announcements with further details after the initial broadcast which interrupted the regular program at 5:15. The chain broadcasting system flashed their first bulletins to the country a few minutes after 5:30 o'clock.

Miss Anna Garrow, chief telephone operator of THE TRIBUNE reported the crew of operators was swamped with almost 6,000 calls in the first two hours after the flash. Another 6,000 calls was received between 7:15 and midnight.

Many Inquirers in Tears.

The operators reported that many of the inquirers cried when they were told the report was true. All expressed sorrow. Calls were received by THE TRIBUNE from persons offering to make contributions to a fund for the capture of the slayer or slayers.

The first flash was relayed to the police teletype system and a message broadcast to all stations and radioed to all police squads within a few minutes after its reception. The message was relayed to all policemen reporting to their stations. Everywhere in the city policemen were stopped and asked to confirm or deny the report.

Mayor Offers Sympathy.

Mayor Cermak was one of the first persons to hear of the finding of the body.

"I am stunned at the tragic ending of the sad case," he said. "I am sure my reaction is that of every citizen of the city. We have only the greatest of sympathy for the bereaved parents.

"I firmly hope that the assassin or assassins will be brought to justice. From this stark tragedy will come an overwhelming public sentiment, which, I believe, will stamp out kidnapers and all of the vile breed of crime."

Emmerson Makes Statement.

At Springfield Gov. Louis L. Emmerson said:

"Finding of the body of the Lindbergh baby comes as a paralyzing shock to the citizens of Illinois who for weeks had hoped and prayed for the safe return of the famous child. With the whole civilized world, and Identification Made from Clothing by Betty Gow.

New York, May 13 (Friday).—(Special.)—The baby son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was found dead late yesterday. The child had been murdered.

The body, lying face down in a depression and partly covered with dead leaves and wind blown debris, was discovered by a Negro truck driver in a patch of woods in the Sourland mountains, less than five miles from the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J.

Method of Slaying Unknown.

The child evidently had been killed soon after he was stolen from his crib in the Lindbergh nursery on the night of March 1. Whether he had been killed with calculating purpose by criminals who found it advantageous to get rid of the child, or whether he had been thrown from a fast moving automobile by kidnapers fleeing in a panic, was not determined.

The body showed the marks of a compound fracture of the skull and there was a hole the size of a quarter over the child's right ear.

"Unquestionably it was a brutal murder," said Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, county physician of Mercer county, after he had completed an autopsy.

Murdered Weeks Ago.

The condition of the body indicated that the child had been dead at least two months. The kidnaping occurred seventy-three days ago.

Col. Lindbergh and John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, were together on a yacht off the New Jersey coast when the discovery was made. They had been investigating clues to the identity of the supposed kidnapers there, hoping to make a ransom arrangement.

In some manner the colonel and Mr. Curtis heard of the new tragic development. Mr. Curtis then called his home in Norfolk on the telephone and announced they were on their way to the Lindbergh home.

About midnight an automobile, believed to have been occupied by Col. Lindbergh, Mr. Curtis and Edwin B. Bruce, of Elmira, a friend of the flyer, arrived at the Hopewell estate. No official confirmation of the presence of Col. Lindbergh was given, however, by the police.

Spends Days at Sea

In the recent past the colonel had made several mysterious trips to the vicinity of Block island. At times he was known to have been on the yacht Marcon, owned by Charles H. Consalvo of Baltimore. Two days ago it was reported he had transferred to a larger ship—presumably joining Mr. Curtis.

One of the rumors was that they intended to keep a sea rendezvous with the kidnapers, supposed to be on a tramp ship with a foreign flag which stayed outside the twelve mile limit.

Mrs. Lindbergh had been at the home of her mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, in Englewood, N. J., for the last few days and returned with Mrs. Morrow to the estate near Hopewell only a few hours before the body was found.

Within Sight of Home.

There was a tragic irony in the manner in which the baby's body was found. Though the search had extended up and down the Atlantic coast, had stretched from one border of the United States to the other, and had even included many cities in Europe, the child had been lying all those weeks within sight of the home from which he had been stolen, and only a little more than a mile from Hopewell, N. J., the center of much of the activity surrounding the case.

Rural neighbors of the Lindbergh family had complained almost from the beginning that the police had made no thorough search in the vicinity of the estate itself, and many discredited tales, purporting to place the scene of the child's imprisonment near the estate, were broached early in the hunt.

Once Lived Near Scene.

The place where the body was found is the downward slope of a hill, directly across the valley from the Lindbergh home. Before Col. Lindbergh's new home was built, he and Mrs. Lindbergh lived for a time within a mile of the place where their child was to meet his death.

The body lay in scrubby second growth maple and locust trees, thickly grown with underbrush, 45 feet back from the turnpike—the main traveled road—which runs from Hopewell to Princeton over the crest of Mount Rose. Within 75 feet of the body were emergency telephone lines laid down by the police to facilitate the search. The property is believed to be owned by St. Michael's Roman Catholic orphanage. Mount Rose itself is a cluster of a half dozen modest houses in the heart of the farming country. It is five miles from the Lindbergh house by road, and four miles as the crow flies.

Body Found by Chance.

The finding of the body was a sheer accident.

William Allen, a Negro truck driver, was driving along the turnpike toward Hopewell in a truck owned by S. William Titus of Glenmore, N. J. The truck was loaded with timber and riding with Allen were Orville Wilson, Livingston Titus, 26 year old son of the owner, and Orville Kraft, 32. Allen, whose reputation is good, lives in Trenton, with his wife and four children.

It was by chance that they stopped at that particular spot in the road and that Allen stumbled upon the body. Allen and his companions all remained at the Lindbergh home last night for further questioning, at the request of the police.

The curly hair on the dead child was what first inclined the police to believe that the body was that of Col. Lindbergh's baby. It was the identity of the clothing with that worn by the Lindbergh baby that increased their conviction. The body also had characteristics which identified it with the Lindbergh baby, such as its eight teeth and its overlapping toes.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Coroner Frank W. Swayze in Trenton, where an autopsy was immediately performed.

Fracture Causes Death.

In his report, which is to be delivered today to County Prosecutor Irwin E. Marshall, Dr. Mitchell will say:

Informally he announced that the child had been murdered, presumably by being struck on the head by a blunt instrument.

"Apparently the child had been dead for about two months," said Dr. Mitchell. "The appearance of the body indicates that this time had passed, if we accept the belief that it had been exposed to the air and weathers all that period.

"The body bore a markedly fractured skull, apparently due to external violence."

Later it was announced the body showed the marks of two fractures of the skull, one on the left side and the other on the right. The latter was a hole the size of a quarter. It was not definitely established whether this was a bullet hole or the result of a blow with a blunt instrument, but since no bullet was found the authorities leaned to the belief that it was the latter.

Sure of Identification.

Col. Schwarzkopf issued a statement late yesterday regarding the identification in which he said:

"A preliminary telephone report from the county physician indicates that a number of positively identifying characteristics have been discovered in the body found today which would identify it as being the body of the Lindbergh baby.

"Betty Gow [the baby's nursemaid] has positively identified the garments found on the body discovered today as being the garments in which the Lindbergh baby was clothed on the night of the kidnaping. The sleeping suit was not on the baby, but the two shirts on the body have been positively identified by Betty Gow. Miss Morrow and Mrs. Lindbergh were at the Hopewell home when it became known that the baby found today was the Lindbergh baby."

Miss Gow, it was learned later, was escorted by state troopers to Trenton and taken into the morgue there to which the baby's body had been taken. She viewed the body only a few minutes and declared that it was that of the Lindbergh child. She then was escorted back to the Lindbergh home.

News Quickly Circulates.

News of the finding of the body, which had circulated far and wide by rumor even before it was officially announced, brought stunning grief to intimates of the Lindbergh family. Among the first to call were President John Grier Hibben of Princeton and Mrs. Hibben, who have been almost daily visitors at the home on Sourland mountain. Yesterday following the same route they have generally taken they passed within a hundred feet of the spot where the body was discovered. They stayed a short time and then returned to Princeton.

The white walled Lindbergh home looming above the countryside was brightly lighted last night as other friends motored in, through the police guard, to comfort the bereaved family. Robert Thayer, Col. Lindbergh's secretary, drove into the estate, accompanied by Mrs. Thayer. Col. Henry Breckinridge, counsel to Col. Lindbergh, who has spent most of the two months and a half since the baby was kidnaped in the Lindbergh home, was in New York when news of the finding of the body was made public, but he motored at once to the estate with Mrs. Breckinridge.

The first inkling that important developments in the search for the kidnaped boy were at hand came shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Col. Schwarzkopf sent word to the press room at the statehouse for all newspaper reporters to assemble at the Lindbergh estate. Word also was sent to the reporters at Hopewell. The reporters hurried to the Lindbergh estate. Early arrivals waited impatiently and with no knowledge of the nature of news that was to be forthcoming.

The general impression was that the news would be favorable. Reporters sat at a long wooden mess table in the garage and whispered and waited.

Statement Bares Tragedy.

At 6:45 p. m., when all had arrived, Col. Schwarzkopf, with a grave expression on his face, took a stand at one side of the room, and, flanked by other officials who have been concerned with the long hunt, fingered a typewritten statement.

In a low crisp voice he began reading. His first sentence told the doom of the child whose fate has so gripped the world.

"We have to announce that apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found."

Every one of the two dozen reporters sat silent and stunned. Col. Schwarzkopf stood silent, too, a moment. Then the pencils began moving as the reporters wrote down the tragic statement and Col. Schwarzkopf continued reading steadily until he had almost reached the end.

Correspondents Detained.

Col. Schwarzkopf had announced in the beginning that no telephone calls would be permitted from the Lindbergh estate and just before he finished three correspondents of news services left the garage and started a rush for Hopewell to get the news to their services. Col. Schwarzkopf realized the meaning of their maneuver after they had gone and stopped reading his statement long enough to telephone down to the state police guarding the entrance to the estate. In obedience to his order the correspondents were detained at the gate until the other reporters had finished and all were permitted to leave the estate together.

With Col. Schwarzkopf in the garage at the time the statement was made public were Lieut. E. J. Dunn, Lieut. W. J. Coughlin, and Capt. J. J. Lamb, all of the state police, and Inspector Harry Walsh of the Jersey City detective force.

Text of Statement.

Col. Schwarzkopf's statement was as follows:

"We have to announce that apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found. At 3:15 this afternoon William Allen, colored, of Trenton, N. J., was driving from Mount Rose, N. J., toward Hopewell. He was riding with Orville Wilson on a truck load of timber. They stopped the truck to step into the woods. Allen went into the woods on the Mount Rose hill in Mount Rose, N. J. Going under a bush, he lowered his head and as he raised his head he saw a skeleton on the ground.

"He said in his statement that what he saw 'had a person's foot on it.' He called back to Wilson. Wilson ran into the woods, saw what it was, and decided to go to Hopewell and get the police. They notified Chief Wolfe of the Hopewell police, who notified these headquarters, and Inspector Harry Walsh of Jersey City, Sergt. Warren Moffat of the Newark police, Lieut. Arthur Keaton of the New Jersey state police, and a number of other detectives immediately went to the scene.

"They reported finding the body of a child estimated to be between one and a half and two years old in a bad state of decomposition, but having blond hair and wearing what appeared to be an undershirt and a flannel band around the body.

"Not satisfied with this as identification, men were sent back to Hopewell to the Lindbergh estate to get samples of the undershirt the baby wore and of the flannel shirt the baby had on the night of the kidnaping. This flannel shirt had an embroidered scalloped edge on it. These articles were taken back to the scene and compared with the clothing found on the body and were matched closely enough to afford an identification of the body as that of the Lindbergh baby.

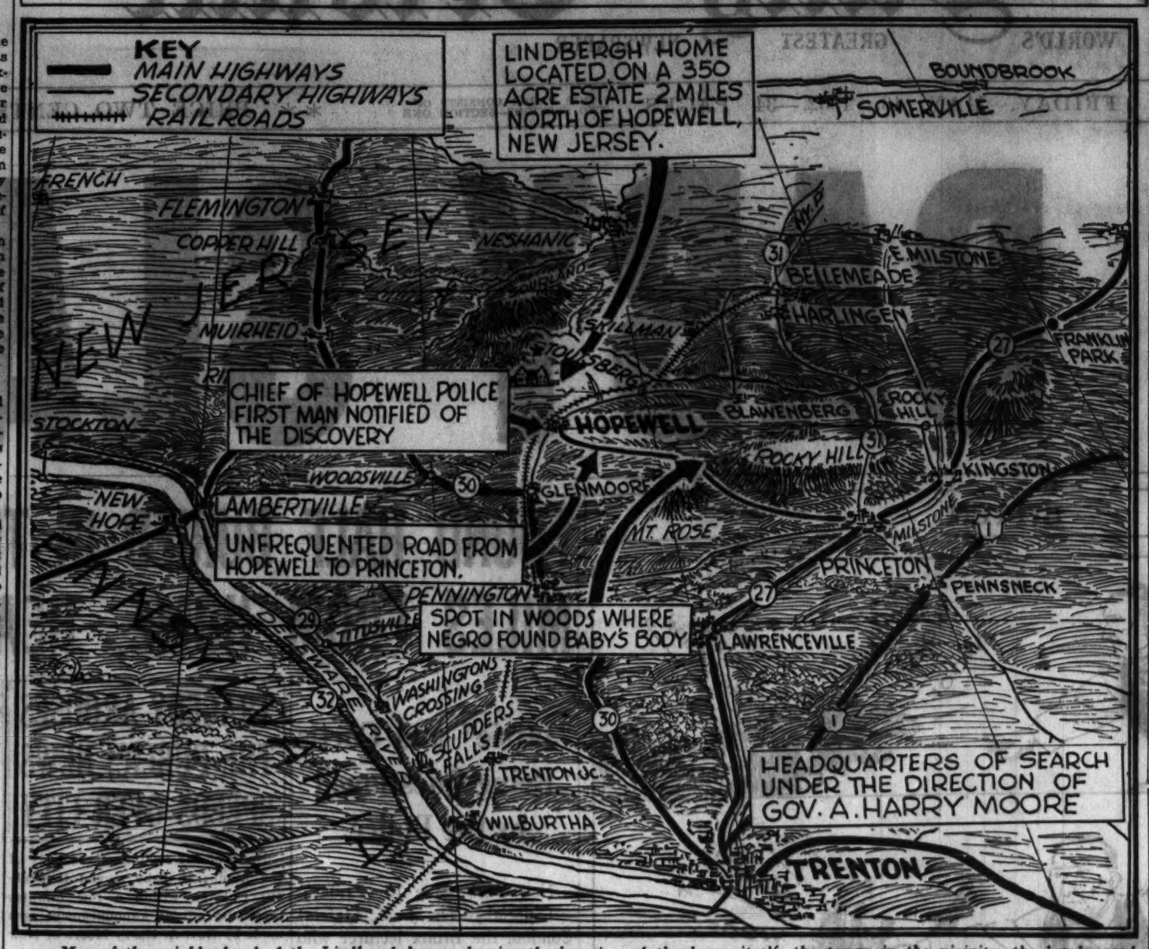
"The statement of William Allen and Orville Wilson says the body was pretty well concealed by leaves, dirt and brush.

"The skull had a hole in it about the size of a 25 cent piece above the forehead. There apparently had been an attempt to bury the body face downward. It was in a bad state of decomposition. The Mercer county coroner and the county physician were immediately called. The physician is Dr. Charles H. Mitchell. The coroner is Walter Swayze, both of Trenton.

"The body was found about forty-five feet off the road in the woods."

Col. Schwarzkopf answered a few questions, but could add little then to what he had just announced. The body was found in Mercer county, he said. The Lindbergh house is in Hunterdon county, but part of the estate and the town of Hopewell are in Mercer county.

Where Body of Lindbergh Baby Was Found Near Parents' Home



Map of the neighborhood of the Lindbergh home, showing the location of the home itself, the towns in the vicinity, the lonely road leading from Hopewell to Princeton, and the spot near Mount Rose where the body was found. The probable route of the kidnapers from the Lindbergh home to the place where the body was found can be traced on the map.

Air view of some of the territory shown in the above map. It gives an idea of the character of the scrubby second growth maple and locust trees and underbrush which covers most of the region, and explains how the body could remain where it was without being encountered by any of the searching parties which must have passed within 75 feet of it. Sketch of Locality Where Body of Baby Was Found

Hopewell, N. J., May 12.—[Special.]—Mount Rose, near which the body of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's son was found, is a hamlet of about a dozen houses and a general store on the road connecting Princeton with Hopewell and about a mile and a half from the latter. During part of the time that his Sourland mountain home was under construction Col. Lindbergh lived in a house in the hamlet.

The village of Hopewell lies between the Lindbergh home and the scene where the body was found. The dirt road leading from the house crosses the paved highway which is also the main street of Hopewell, within the limits of the town but approximately eight city blocks from the center of habitation. This road leads into Mount Rose, but it is practically untraveled.

Coming from the Lindbergh home, the kidnapers could have gone into Mount Rose along that road turning there onto the macadam and asphalt road leading on into Princeton, about seven miles away.

But One Other Route.

The only other way they could have reached Mount Rose from the Lindbergh home without taking the circuitous route through Stoutsburg and doubling on their trail for the greater part of a mile was to pass through Hopewell.

The road to Princeton turns off Hopewell's main thoroughfare one block from the postoffice and center of the town. Along that road within the city limits, the kidnapers would have had to pass several blocks of residences.

The fact that the body was found about 75 yards off the Princeton road and between Mount Rose and Hopewell indicated that the child was driven directly through Hopewell.

Lindbergh Home Visible.

Mount Rose sits near the top of a long, sloping hill, from which in clear weather Col. Lindbergh's home four miles away is visible. Along parts of this road, which is asphalt at that point, fairly thick and wild woods come within ten to fifteen yards of the road. The state of wilderness was indicated by the fact that small animals, such as foxes and skunks, were seen from time to time crossing the road at night at that point.

The woods in this vicinty, however, were not combed at the time that Col. Lindbergh and New Jersey state police searched through other woods and underbrush following the kidnaping.

It was along this road that the emergency telephone lines into Col. Lindbergh's home were strung, partly on poles and partly on the ground. The road was the principal connection between Hopewell and the trunk highways leading from New York, and was used constantly by police officials and by Col. Lindbergh himself.

DR. DEAN LEWIS HEADS AMERICAN MEDICAL BODY

New Orleans, La., May 12.—[Special.]—The American Medical association today elected Dr. Dean De Witt Lewis of Baltimore as president and selected Milwaukee as the 1933 convention city. Dr. Lewis defeated Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon-general of the United States public health service, 93 to 54.

Dr. Rudolph Matas of New Orleans was named vice president, and other officers were elected as follows: Dr. Olin West, Chicago, secretary; Dr. Austin A. Hayden, Chicago, treasurer; Dr. F. C. Warnshius, Grand Rapids, Mich., speaker of the house of delegates; Dr. Albert E. Bulson, Fort Wayne, Ind., vice speaker; Drs. Arthur W. Booth, New York, and Rock Sleyster, Wauwautosa, Wis., trustees for five years each.

Chairmen of committees appointed and approved were: Judicial committee, Dr. A. P. Sloan, Bloomington, N. Y., medical education and hospitalization, Drs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, member of President Hoover's cabinet, and Dr. A. A. Washburn; scientific research, Drs. Irving Abell and Frank Labey.

Dr. Lewis, the newly elected president, was graduated from Rush Medical college in Chicago, was formerly professor of surgery at that institution, and then was at Illinois College of Medicine; he now is at Johns Hopkins at Baltimore. He was a lieutenant-colonel in the world war and was awarded the distinguished service medal.

HUNT MURDER SUSPECT NAMED BY CHILD CLEWS

Roy Wright, 6638 South Keating avenue, was being sought yesterday by police as one of two bandits who shot and killed Wilfred J. Hanamann, 6216 Newark avenue, a driver for the Bowman Dairy company, in a holdup in the rear of 3437 Janssen avenue Wednesday. Wright was traced through the license number of an automobile which school children saw speeding from the scene of the shooting.

At an inquest yesterday afternoon Beatrice Muller, 13 years old, 3404 Southport avenue, and Muriel Ludeke, 13 years old, 1436 Roscoe street, told of seeing an automobile speed away after the shooting. Each of the girls remembered three numbers of the license. These, put together, made the number 990-141. William Leebody, also a student of the Hamilton school, jotted the number on a fence. His number was identical with that remembered by the girls.

Police traced the number to Wright. They learned that Wright had not been seen at his home since Tuesday night. A guard was posted at the home to await his return. The inquest into the death of Hanamann was continued until May 28.

DOCTOR'S REPORT OF AUTOPSY ON LINDBERGH BABY

Body Shows Evidence of Prolonged Exposure.

Trenton, N. J., May 12.—(AP)—The report of the autopsy performed upon the Lindbergh baby by Dr. Charles Mitchell, county physician, after stating that the body was badly decomposed, with part of it missing, and gave evidence of prolonged exposure, continued:

"Special characteristics: Unusually high and prominent forehead and cranium, apparently greater in circumference than would be found in a child of this age. First toe of the right foot completely overlaps the large toe and the second toe of the right foot partially overlaps the large toe.

"There are eight upper and eight lower teeth. The upper incisors are well formed and rather prominent, but do not protrude. The two lower canines tend to divert inward and the incisors are below the line of the adjacent teeth.

Description of Child.

"Height, 33¼ inches. Light curly hair, about 3 inches in length, and a section of skin on the right foot which had not become discolored indicated a child of the white race. The facial muscles, the only ones of the body that had not deteriorated, would indicate a well developed child.

"Autopsy findings: General decomposition of the muscles of the entire body and other soft tissues except the face, but marked discoloration and some disfigurement of this part of the body existed due to the softening of the eyeballs and a swollen condition of the lips and tongue.

Fractures of Skull.

"There was a fracture of the skull extending from the fontanel down the left side of the skull to a point posterior to the left ear, where it bifurcated into two distinct fractures. There was also a perforated fracture of half an inch in diameter on the right side of the skull posterior to the right ear.

"There was evidence of a hemorrhage on the inner surface of the left side of the skull at the point of fracture, but the scalp was so badly decomposed that it was impossible to find any contusions or hemorrhagic conditions external to the skull.

"The fontanel was not closed, the opening in the skull at this point being about one inch in diameter.

STORY OF HUNT FOR CHILD THAT LASTED 72 DAYS

Baby Kidnaped on Night of March 1.

On Tuesday evening, March 1, between 11 o'clock and midnight, a nation preparing for slumber heard to its amazement that the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Morrow Lindbergh had been kidnaped.

By means of newspaper extras, by radio, and by word of mouth the news, tragic and seemingly unbelievable, spread within the short space of an hour and a half. It had been only at 10 o'clock that the baby's nurse, Betty Gow, had visited the nursery on the second floor of the secluded Lindbergh estate at Hopewell, N. J., and found that her charge was gone. It had taken less time than that, however, to galvanize into action the police systems of four states and of scores of communities within their borders.

The first police officer to reach the scene was Charles Williamson, deputy chief of Hopewell, that isolated community in the heart of the Sourland mountain section of New Jersey. He had been called by Col. Lindbergh himself. Williamson saw to it that the alarm was spread, and then began in earnest the search for whatever clews had been left. They were few.

Footprints on Floor.

There were muddy footprints on the floor of the nursery. The window was open. Below the nursery window were marks where a ladder had stood and also footprints. They told little, as the kidnaper or kidnapers apparently had worn moccasins or socks.

Sixty feet away, in rocky ground where the clearing surrounding the house ended and the thick Jersey shrubbery still grew, the footprints ended. There also a makeshift ladder was found, a ladder the police since have come firmly to believe was the one used by those who committed the crime.

A note had been left behind in the nursery. That it contained warning to the parents, that it contained a demand for ransom, reported to have been $50,000, and that it contained assurances that the baby would be safe if the proper steps were taken are all that the public the next day knew of the contents. And even that was unofficial.

It seemed to those who rushed to Hopewell both in the interests of news and in the interests of the law that a better spot for a successful kidnaping could not have been found. The Lindbergh home was built especially for seclusion, so that its two famous occupants might lead their lives away from the prying eyes that the world turns on celebrities.

Kidnapers Had 1½ Hours' Start.

Isolated and yet so near to main highways that a speeding car could carry the kidnapers and the child many miles away to comparative safety before the crime was discovered.

The kidnapers had a maximum head start of one hour and a half, for it was at 8:30 that the nurse last saw the curly headed infant, slightly ill with a cold, sleeping peacefully in its crib, according to the story she told the police. The kidnapers more than made up for the shortness of time, however, by the carefulness with which the job apparently had been planned.

It had not been the intention of the Lindberghs to spend Tuesday night at Hopewell. Previously they had spent only week-ends there during the winter and stayed the rest of the week at the Morrow home in Englewood, in a far more populous community, and where the kidnapers would have had a minimum chance of success. But there was a change of plans and the Lindberghs stayed at Hopewell, giving the kidnapers the chance for which they apparently had been waiting for weeks.

Familiar with Layout of House.

The persons who planned it were familiar, it appeared, with the layout of the Lindbergh house. They knew, it seemed, that there was only one nursery window that could not be locked, and it was this window that they chose as their means of entry. They seemed also familiar with the habits of the household—putting the baby to sleep at 7:30, the nightly visit of inspection by Miss Gow an hour later, and then the interval of an hour and a half before another visit to the nursery. The terrier pup that had the freedom of the house did not bark, the baby did not cry when it was taken from its crib—all pointed to coöperation on the part of some one "on the inside." But the three employés of the Lindbergh household, vouched for by their employers, came through the ordeal of questioning cleared by their inquisitors. They were Betty Gow, nurse; Ollie Wheatley, butler, and Mrs. Wheatley, cook.

Hundreds Aid in Search.

With clews failing, with searches of the nearby woods and countryside yielding nothing, deduction shortly gave place to mass attack. There was gathered around the Lindbergh homestead at Hopewell the greatest collection of sleuths, amateur and professional, that any one crime ever has brought together. They were supplemented by countless state and local constabulary. It became evident in the short space of a day that with the mass formation of the law, with every road watched, every car stopped for miles around, the vicinity of Hopewell, while it remained the center of interest and activity, was no longer—if it ever had been—the place to seek the criminals and the child.

During all this a nation and the world waited anxiously. Broadcasting stations stayed on the air all night, ready to flash to the legion who awaited the latest news. In the streets, in the homes, in the subways and the commuters' trains world news, the depression, unemployment, and the six day bicycle races dropped from the minds of the citizenry and the subject of the Lindbergh baby remained the first and virtually the only topic of discussion.

It became almost impossible to separate the "crank" notes that came in hundreds to the Lindberghs, to the police, and to the newspapers from those that might mean something. One that gained the widest publicity was one addressed to "Charles Linberg, Princeton, New Jersey," crudely printed in pencil on an ordinary postal card, read: "Baby safe. Instructions later. Act accordingly."

Post Card Mailed in Newark.

It was mailed from Newark, but a house to house search conducted by the police with the thoroughness of a fine comb yielded nothing of value in tracing the sender of the card.

Mobilization of police forces continued. A clearing house for news was set up in the office of Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey in Trenton. Throughout all this Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh stood up under the strain of uncertainty as well as any parents could have.

With the search still yielding no tangible result, a more dramatic step was taken by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. Over their own signatures they broadcast a public appeal to the kidnapers, pledging their honor not to try to injure the persons who had taken the child if it were only returned unharmed. The fault in this, however, lay in the fact that the New Jersey authorities, sworn under their oaths of office to enforce the law, could not openly promise their coöperation in the immunity offer.

Hundreds of Suspects.

On Friday night, March 4, after the nation had heard of the questioning and release of hundreds of suspects all over the east, police in Hartford, Conn., took into custody for prolonged questioning Henry Johnson, a sailor and friend of Betty Gow, the nurse. It seemed to be the first break.

His record was searched and yielded nothing discreditable except that he entered the United States from Sweden in violation of the immigration laws. He had been employed and was to be employed again shortly on the yacht of Thomas W. Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. and friend of the Lindberghs. Even the yacht was searched to see if any of its ladders might be missing. The search yielded, as far as is known, no information.

An appeal to the kidnapers that went out over the radio at midnight took the spotlight away from Johnson, temporarily at least. The appeal was from Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh and read: "If the kidnapers of our child are unwilling to deal directly we fully authorize 'Salvy' Spitale and Irving Bitz to act as our go-betweens. We will also follow any other method suggested by the kidnapers that we can be sure will bring the return of our child."

Hold Police Conference.

In the interim between the kidnaping of the baby and the entrance of Spitale and Bitz into the case Trenton, from which news of developments in the case were given to the press, was the scene of a conference of all of the law enforcement agencies concerned with the case. It was held on Saturday at the request of Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey. To it came J. Edgar Hoover, chief investigator of the department of justice; Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney of New York; State's Attorney John A. Swanson of Chicago; his chief investigator, Pat Roche; Mayor Hague of Jersey City; Police Chief Joseph A. Gurk of St. Louis, Police Commissioner Austin Roche of Buffalo, Gov. Moore, and others. More than fifty were present.

Out of the meeting came only, as far as could be learned officially, the complete agreement of opinion that the abductors of the baby would make every effort to return the baby safely and soon.

Rosner Appears in Case.

Spitale and Bitz were but the first of a long series of unofficial investigators and go-betweens to whom Col. Lindbergh turned in the vain search for his son. Another who appeared on the scene shortly after he authorized the two New York gangsters to act for him was Morris Rosner.

Rosner had mysterious connections in the underworld. He had served the government as a department of justice agent during the world war. He kept close company with Col. Lindbergh and New Jersey officials engaged in the search for some weeks.

But the most spectacular of the unofficial searchers for the baby were Dr. John F. Condon ["Jafsie"], the retired public school teacher who lived in the Bronx in New York, and the Norfolk, Va., triumvirate, consisting of Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, the retired naval officer whose flagship carried Col. Lindbergh back to the United States after his flight to Paris; the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, who had been dean of the Episcopal cathedral in Mexico City during Ambassador Morrow's tenure there, and John Hughes Curtis, builder of fast motorboats, whose trade had brought him in contact with rum runners.

Believes Contact Established.

Dr Condon entered the case uninvited, by inserting the series of blind want ads in New York newspapers signed "Jafsie" [J. F. C.], through which he established contact with a gang whose members convinced him that they were holding the baby. He was well known to old time newspaper men in New York—had the reputation of having "never dodged a headline."

The 72 year old educator convinced Col. Lindbergh that the parties with whom he had established contact by his personal column ads were the kidnapers. There followed a series of mysterious midnight excursions. One night "Jafsie" went to a graveyard in New York City. A man vaulted a wall and sat on the other end of the bench which he occupied. Dr. Condon was given directions for payment of the $50,000 ransom which the gang demanded.

On the night of April 2 he took the money, in $5, $10, and $20 bills, and returned to the cemetery. As he walked along a stone wall, a voice from the other side told him to throw the money over. He complied. He was then told to go to a spot off the New England coast, where he would find the baby.

He made the trip to the designated island in a plane with Col. Lindbergh. The baby was not there. The story of the fraud in which he had been an unwitting intermediary was made public after it was learned that the treasury department had sent a list of numbers on the bills in question to banks throughout the country.

The bills turned up in Boston, in Illinois, in England, and at other spots, but no trace was ever found of the gang which had got the money.

Curtis, the boat builder, was approached while the "Jafsie" negotiations were going on by a bootlegger who said he was an emissary of the kidnapers. Curtis attempted to see Col. Lindbergh, but for some days was barred from the Hopewell estate by the cordon of state troopers which had been thrown about the place.

Turn to Norfolk Trio.

Then he took his news to Rear Admiral Burrage and the Rev. Mr. Dobson-Peacock, both of whom were personal friends of the flying colonel. Through their intercession he told the story to Col. Lindbergh.

Curtis' negotiations were carried on for a month, interspersed with conferences with Col. Lindbergh and his advisers. Finally the stage was set for a new payment of ransom, on a new promise of delivery of the baby. The navy was drawn into coöperation, with submarines and aircraft ready for instant summons.

Curtis took a fast motorboat and made a trip out to sea on April 21. He carried with him the ransom money, but he failed to find the kidnapers at the designated rendezvous. Two days later he made another trip, while an ambulance plane belonging to the navy waited for a summons to pick up the baby and carry it back to its parents. The summons never came.

Gaston Means Accused.

The final flareup of the case, prior to the discovery of the body yesterday, was the work of Gaston B. Means, the former department of justice agent who has seen the inside of prisons several times and stood trial on charges of a number of other crimes, including murder.

Means had no negotiations with Col. Lindbergh, but Mrs. Edward B. McLean, estranged wife of the millionaire Washington publisher, had him arrested on May 6, charging that he had mulcted her out of $100,000 which he said was to be ransom for the baby.

Mrs. McLean charged that after she gave him the $100,000 he put her off with one excuse after another for the failure to produce the baby.

2 CHICAGOANS OFFER REWARDS FOR KIDNAPERS

Want Public to Raise a Large Fund.

Two Chicagoans, their sentiments touched by the news of the finding of the body of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., last night of their own volition offered rewards to total $1,100 for the apprehension and conviction of the kidnaper-killers.

They are William A. Doyle, 3220 Washington boulevard, a master in chancery of the Circuit court, whose offer was $1,000, and C. A. Coey, 6226 South Western avenue, owner of the Dynell Spring Water company, who pledged $100.

Calls Crime an Outrage.

"I have just read in THE TRIBUNE of the killing of this innocent child," said Mr. Doyle. "It is an outrage that our governments can spend millions of dollars to find which of our citizens have bottles of beer—and that the same governments are helpless in the face of an atrocious crime like this one.

"Although I am not a wealthy man, I feel that I can well afford to spend $1,000 to ferret out the kidnapers. My check will be ready in my office in the morning."

Wants Public Subscription.

Mr. Coey said that he hoped a public subscription of hugh proportions would be opened and that it would be centralized and handled by men who are interested solely in solving the crime.

It is the belief of both Mr. Doyle and Mr. Coey that a fund large enough will bring forth information that will disclose the identity of the criminals.

L. E. Whitney of 744 Gordon terrace volunteered to contribute to a fund to reward captors of the slayers of the baby. He suggested that contributions be received throughout the country to make a reward of such proportions that capture would be assured.

SANITARY BOARD WORKERS TO GET TWO WEEKS' PAY

Plans for a pay day for the first half of February amounting to $128,000 for sanitary district employés were authorized by the trustees at a meeting yesterday afternoon. Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, announced that the pay checks would be mailed out within a week.

The money comes from the sale of $500,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants three weeks ago. At that time a part of the sum was used for paying employés for the last half of January and in giving pay to more than 400 employés who had been dismissed since the first of the year.

Before yesterday's meeting the trustees were closeted in the office of Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, to hear pleas of union business agents for their men who had been ousted.

BABY'S MOTHER BEARS HER GRIEF WITH USUAL CALM

Friend of Family Tells of Fortitude.

Hopewell, N. J., May 12.—(AP)—An intimate friend, who visited Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh late today, described her as bearing up with her "usual equanimity" upon hearing that her kidnaped son had been found dead.

The friend, whose name was withheld upon request, has been a frequent caller at the flyer's estate since the kidnaping.

From the outset Mrs. Lindbergh's courageous demeanor has served to maintain the composure of those about her.

On the day after the kidnaping Mrs. Lindbergh quietly and quickly prepared and made public a diet which was widely circulated in the hope it might be followed by the kidnapers of her son.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who is expecting a child within several months, has had her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, as her constant companion.

TRAGEDY STIRS THE PUBLIC; NEWS SPEEDS OVER CITY

with the nation, Illinois shares the grief of the illustrious young parents of the victim of one of the most brutal and fiendish crimes in history.

"Only prompt apprehension of the perpetrators of this cowardly crime, and the swift infliction of the law's severest penalty upon those who are guilty, can assuage in some small measure the heartbreaking sorrow of Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Demands Swift Justice.

"Justice demands that this be done; and until it is done the search for the arch-criminals should be continued relentlessly.

"Illinois stands ready, if information that now may come into the possession of authorities should lead them into this state, to throw all of its resources into efforts to see that the ends of justice are served."

Others Tell Their Views.

Several Chicago leaders in the war on crime attributed the killing of the Lindbergh child to a maniac rather than to a gang of professional kidnapers. The statements were as follows:

FRANK J. LOESCH, president of the Chicago Crime commission—I do not believe a gang was responsible for this crime. Evidently the authorities must look for clews in the immediate vicinity of the crime scene.

ROBERT I. RANDOLPH, head of the Secret Six—The kidnaping was the work of a fiend, and the finding of the body positively discredits boasts of gangsters that they could return the baby. Those with whom Col. Lindbergh was supposedly negotiating have been guilty of attempting a hideous confidence game.

ALEXANDER JAMIE, operating director of the Secret Six—The circumstances under which the baby's body was found would incline one to believe the kidnaping and murder were the work of a fiend living in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home.

NATION JOINS IN SYMPATHY

New York, May 12.—[Special.]—Shocked by the news that the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had been found dead, flashed to all parts of the world by wireless, cable and telegraph, officials and civilians who had hastened to join the international search for the kidnapers when the abduction became known, offered their sympathy to the bereaved parents and the American people.

Evidence of the grief and horror with which the nation received the final answer to its premier question—the safety of the victim—was felt at once in Washington where the report reached the President and Mrs. Hoover among the first. Attachés at the White House immediately got in touch with the New Jersey authorities to obtain official information.

Deeply moved, Vice President Curtis said, "They have my deepest sympathy and my most heartfelt condolences go out to the bereaved mother and Col. Lindbergh and to their families in their sorrow. It is a most shocking thing."

Calls Discovery Most Tragic.

"It is too awful to talk about," Senator Norris of Nebraska said. Senator Norbeck of South Dakota called the discovery "most tragic," adding "my most heartfelt sympathy goes out to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Similarly was the report received in official circles in Mexico City, where the Lindbergh romance began and from whose American embassy the engagement of the aviator and Anne Morrow was announced.

Immediately upon being informed, President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico issued a statement in which he said he was "deeply impressed by the cruel murder of the son of the aviator, Col. Lindbergh. I have sent my sincerest condolences to the relatives and the American people. Mexico has great affection for the famous flyer and has not forgotten former Ambassador Morrow who did great service to Mexico by initiating an era of cordiality in its relations with the United States."

An Infamous Crime.

Dr. Manuel Telle, Mexican foreign minister, refused at first to believe an unconfirmed report conveyed to him by Ambassador Clark, and said he still was hopeful "for the love we have for the family and for children" that the child would be found alive. Later he declared "to conceive of cruelty being refined higher than this is impossible to imagine. It cannot be understood by the civilized world."

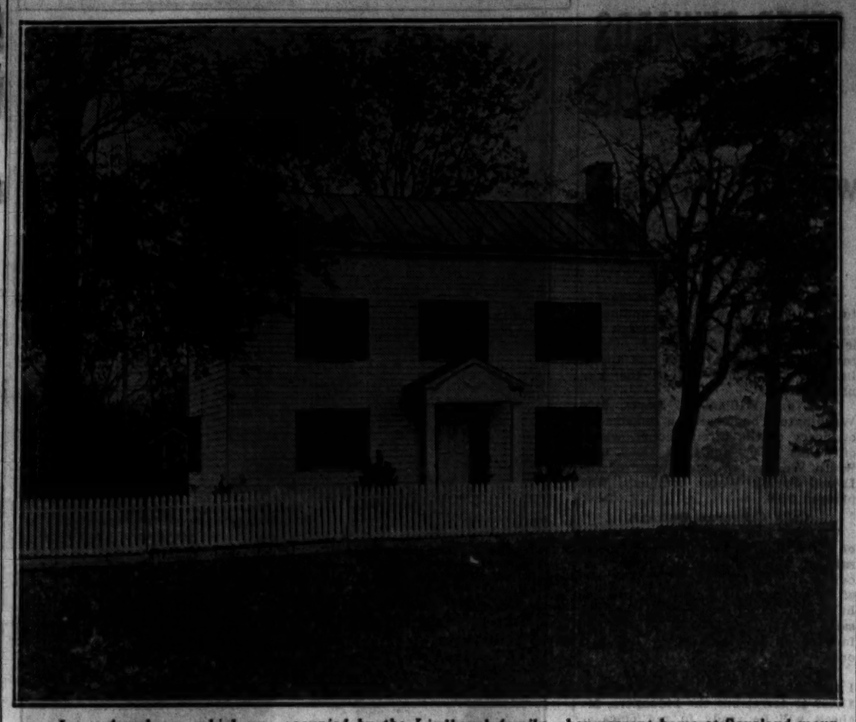
"What an infamous crime!" former President Calles declared upon receipt of the news in Mexico City. "The death of the Lindbergh baby truly causes me profound grief. I have only the deepest sympathy for the colonel and his wife."

Voices Clergy's Sympathy.

The sentiment of the clergy was expressed by the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free synagogue. Dr. Wise at first was so overcome with grief that he was unable to speak. Later he said, "If sympathy can sustain, the parents of the Lindbergh baby will be upborne by the loving sympathy of the nation. The heart of America, which first went out to Col. Lindbergh four years ago in living admiration, now reaches out tenderly to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh alike in deepest sympathy.

"May the cruelly bereaved parents," Dr. Wise added, "find strength in divine sources of healing and peace in the worldwide fellowship of love which it embraces."

TWO HOMES FIGURE IN LINDBERGH TRAGEDY



Large farmhouse which was occupied by the Lindbergh family when present home at Sourland mountain was being completed. It is within two miles of Lawrenceville, N. J., and within a mile of the hill slope where the baby's body was found. The home was in the hamlet of Mount Rose.

CHARITY CARD PARTY TO AID PUPILS' FUND

A charity card party for the Hungry School Children's fund will be given on May 18 by the Fay-Lamad club at the Copeland hotel. Plans are being made to accommodate 300 guests. The hostesses will be Clarice Jacobson, Marie Meltzer, and Sally Wyman. The pupils of Miss Ruth La Rue, dramatic art teacher will furnish the entertainment. Phyllis Isaacs and Irene Coffman have charge of the ticket sale.

A contribution of $103.50 from the Mothers Singers Parent Teacher association and $16.50 from the pupils of Harriet M. Carpenter, La Follette park, Hirsch and Laramie avenue, reached the fund yesterday. The day's total was $150.45, sent by the following:

Advertising Man Plunges to Death from Third Floor

Carl Kuderling, 63 years old, president of the Advertising Record company, and also a dentist, leaped or fell from the bathroom on the third floor of his home and offices at 4247 Hazel avenue late last night and was fatally injured. He died early this morning at Ravenswood hospital. He had left Miss Laura Boland, 3749 Monticello avenue, manager of the company, and E. C. Conley, a clerk, at work on the first floor and gone to his rooms. A few minutes later they heard a crash and found him on the ground. He had been in ill health.

Britain Scoffs at Report She Will Pay War Debt

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 12.—A report that the British cabinet had decided to pay the full war debt annuity due the United States on Dec. 15, regardless of whether Germany defaults or whether France and the other allies pay Britain, was scouted in government circles here tonight as a wild speculation. The cabinet, it was declared, will make no decision on debts until after the Lausanne reparations conference in June.

Latin America May Take Tariff Reprisal on U. S.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LIMA, May 12.—Leading republicans of Latin America have begun diplomatic negotiations looking toward the formation of a Latin American customs union for united defense and concerted reprisals against the United States tariff policy, according to a statement by Foreign Minister Freundt in the Times today.

POLICE DISCARD CAUTION IN HUNT FOR BABY KILLERS

Jafsie and Curtis Are Questioned.

launched at once was promised by Col. Schwarzkopf, whose men had hitherto worked slowly and with caution for fear their intervention might directly bring harm to the child at the hands of his abductors.

Col. Schwarzkopf made this plain in the following statement:

"As long as there was a possibility of the baby being alive the police have been acting with a certain amount of suppressed activity in order not to interfere with any negotiations that might result in the safe return of the baby.

"Now that the body of the baby has been found, every possible effort will be used and all men necessary will immediately exercise every possible effort to accomplish the arrest of the kidnapers and murderers.

Group Under Suspicion.

"We have had under suspicion a group of persons suspected of being the kidnapers and immediate steps will be taken and are being taken to accomplish their arrest.

"Emergency telephone lines for this case are lying on the ground where they were placed by telephone men within seventy-five feet from where the body was found."

Col. Schwarzkopf declined to elaborate on his statement or to indicate the identity or whereabouts of the "group" of suspected persons. Shortly after making the statement at the state police headquarters in Trenton he ordered it flashed to the country at large over all police teletypes.

Gov. Moore was at his home in Jersey City when Col. Schwarzkopf notified him by telephone shortly after 6 p. m. that the baby's body had been found.

Governor Pledges Action.

He issued this statement:

"Now, of course, we will do everything in our power to get the murderers. It is a perfectly horrible crime and we shall do everything in our power to find those responsible for it."

The governor added that "this is a great shock to the whole country." He said that he had received a number of telephone calls from London inquiring for news of the baby.

The New York City police, who also have been compelled to submit to the same restraints that have hampered the New Jersey authorities thus far, will coöperate in every way with the New Jersey police in tracking down the murderers, Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney promised.

"We have never relaxed in our search for the kidnapers," Commissioner Mulrooney said. "What new steps will be taken will depend on any additional information we receive."

Grand Jury to Investigate.

The prospect of a Bronx grand jury investigation of events connected with the case in that county was indicated by Charles F. Brodie, chief clerk in the office of District Attorney McLaughlin.

The view taken by the district attorney's office, Mr. Brodie explained, has been that "as soon as the case came to a head" an investigation would be started of "every activity" in the Bronx connected with the kidnaping. Such an investigation he said, would include questioning of Dr. Condon, who gave $50,000 ransom money to the supposed kidnapers in St. Raymond's cemetery after having talked with one of their representatives in Woodlawn cemetery, and also of Dr. Condon's bodyguard, Al Reich, a former heavyweight prize fighter. Mr. Brodie stated, however, that Dr. Condon is not under any suspicion.

Hibben asks National Drive.

President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university called upon the law enforcement forces of the country to unite in their hunt for criminals, in a statement issued after he visited the Lindbergh home with Mrs. Hibben.

"A national systematic effort must be made right away," he said. "The authorities have been holding off from the beginning in the fear that their actions must cause the death of the child. Now that is over. The forces of law in the country must unite to get the persons who have done this thing."

Federal action in connection with the baby's kidnaping and murder also was spurred by the news of the finding of the body.

As soon as the report reached the White House, President Hoover's aids communicated with the New Jersey authorities for official information. At the same time, officials of the department of justice gave assurances that they, too, would continue to help in any way possible.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation, said: "It is quite possible that now the police may have definite clues as to the kidnapers. It is quite certain that they will go after them hard, and we, of course, will help in any way we can."

Push Federal Kidnap Bill.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Legislation pending in both houses of congress making kidnaping a federal offense punishable by death, which had been sidetracked pending disposal of the Lindbergh case, will be pushed to immediate passage, its sponsors said tonight.

Members of congress felt that passage of the bills while the Lindbergh child was still thought to be in possession of kidnapers might endanger the chances for the child's recovery. Finding of the body today, it was said, removes the hesitancy which was felt regarding enactment of the legislation.

Neither the house bill, introduced by Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] nor the senate bill sponsored by Senator Roscoe C. Patterson [Rep., Mo.] will be retroactive with respect to the Lindbergh case, they explained tonight. Each hopes, however, that passage of the legislation will serve as a deterrent to future outrages.

Expect Immediate Passage.

Senator Patterson said that he apprehends no reason why his bill should not be passed without any objection immediately. Representative Cochran expressed the same opinion.

Asked for the comment on the outcome of the Lindbergh tragedy, Senator Patterson said:

"Like everybody else I am shocked beyond measure. I have been fearful for some time that this had happened."

Representative Cochran said: "There are no words to express the horror everyone feels. It seems impossible that this could have happened in a civilized world and one cannot help but feel that only a degenerate would kill a baby like that. It is too terrible to talk about."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] called the finding of the baby a "fearful and startling thing."

"I feel," he said, "that kidnapers who held the child for money would not have killed the baby. To me, it has all appearances of a deliberate act of murderous vengeance, committed by some one in revenge against the Lindbergh family."

U. S. OPENS QUIZ AS UNIONS DENY BARKER LEADS HOSPITAL STRIKE

Officials of various building trade unions denied yesterday that the racketeering methods of George [Red] Barker, ex-convict and head of one of the teamsters' unions, had anything to do with the strikes on the addition to the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary building at 904 Adams street.

Barker's alleged activities in preventing the delivery of material to the building are being investigated by the government, however, with the view of prosecuting him for interfering with interstate shipments.

The strike was called by the plumbers, steamfitters and electricians because the contractor, Schmidt Brothers, is a non-union concern, Patrick Sullivan, president of the building trades council, declared.

Charles P. Pierce, executive vice president of the Landis Award Employers' association of which Schmidt Brothers is a member, said Barker is the chief offender on the state building project.

The state architect, Charles H. Hammond, said a conference would be held soon with building trades union officials in an attempt to reach an agreement under which the work can proceed. The addition to the building is greatly needed by the infirmary, he said.

LINDY TRAGEDY RECALLS SCORE OF PARALLELS

Charlie Ross Case Among Long List.

The murder of the Lindbergh baby has a score or more of parallels during the past half century, in which parents have striven for weeks or months to find their kidnaped children, only to have their searches brought to tragic ends by discovery of the children's bodies. In other cases their anxiety was prolonged for years, and their children remained vanished from them forever.

The most famous kidnaping mystery prior to the Lindbergh case was that of Charlie Ross. The 4 year old boy was abducted from the home of his parents in Germantown, Pa., on July 1, 1874, by two men riding in a buggy. The boy's father, Christian K. Ross, was moderately wealthy, and at the time of his death in 1897 it was estimated that he had spent $60,000 in the vain search for his son. Before the father's death, Joseph Douglas and William Mosher were fatally shot while breaking into a house on Long Island. Douglas confessed that they were the kidnapers, but he said Mosher alone knew where the boy was, and the secret died with Mosher.

Keet Slayer Never Caught.

Michael Schimeca, kidnaped in New York in 1910; Catherine Winters, kidnaped from Newcastle, Ind., in 1913, and Jimmy Glass, kidnaped from his Jersey City, N. J., home in 1915, are all believed to have been killed by their abductors, who were never caught.

The kidnaping and murder of Lloyd Keet, 14 months old, furnished a sensation during the world war. He was abducted from the home of his parents in Springfield, Mo., on May 30, 1917, and his body was found in a farm yard well 10 days later. His father, J. Holland Keet, was a wealthy munitions manufacturer and the kidnaping plot, which was accompanied by a demand for ransom, was suspected of being the work of German agents. The slayers were never caught but the hue and cry resulted in the arrest of a gang which confessed other kidnapings in Missouri.

Loeb-Leopold Case.

The kidnaping in New Jersey, in 1919, of Billy Dansey was another unsolved murder mystery. His body was found months later in a swamp.

The "thrill murder" of Bobby Franks in 1924 by Dick Loeb and Nathan Leopold started out as a kidnaping plot. The two youths wrote a letter demanding ransom to the Franks family after they had murdered the boy and concealed his body in a culvert on the far south side.

In 1920 a case resembling in many respects the abduction of the Lindbergh baby took place at Norristown, Pa., only 40 miles from Hopewell, N. J. Blakely Caughlin, 13 months old, was stolen from his crib on the second floor of his parents' home outside Norristown. His father, George H. Coughlin, paid a $12,000 ransom without effecting the return of the child, but police traced the money to August Pascal, who confessed that he had murdered the baby. He is serving a life term in a Pennsylvania prison.

Girl, 6, Slain by Insane Youth.

Mary Daly, 6 years old, was kidnaped from her parents' home in Little Falls, N. J., on Sept. 4, 1925. Harrison Noel, 19 year old son of a New York attorney, and a former inmate of an insane asylum, confessed the murder of the child and led police to a lonely mountainside where he had hidden her body. He confessed two other murders, was sentenced to the electric chair, but later found insane and confined in an asylum.

Marian Parker, 12 years old, was kidnaped in Los Angeles in 1927 by William Hickman. He delivered her mutilated body to her father when the latter met him to pay a ransom, and fled. He was captured, convicted of murder, and hanged.

The Gaffney Tragedy.

In the same year Baby Billy Gaffney was kidnaped from the home of his parents in Brooklyn. He was never found, although interest in the Lindbergh cases turned up several clews to his location, all of which proved false.

Grace Budd, 6 years old, was abducted on June 3, 1928, at Farmingdale, N. Y., by Frank Howard, an elderly business man and acquaintance of her parents, who asked permission to take her to a birthday party. Neither has been seen since.

An outgrowth of the Hickman and Loeb-Leopold murders was the abduction and murder in 1928 of Gill Jamieson, 10 year old son of a Honolulu banker. The murderer, Yutaka Futunaga, a Japanese youth, said that he got his idea from reading of the Franks and Parker abductions.

The cradle of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., as it was left after kidnapers took the baby from it on March 1. The crib was in the nursery on the second floor of the Lindbergh home at Sour mountain, near Hopewell, N. J., the kidnapers using a ladder to enter through the second story window.

LINDBERGH'S MOTHER, SHOCKED BY NEWS OF BABY'S DEATH, SILENT

Detroit, Mich., May 12.—(AP)—News that her kidnaped grandson was dead came as unexpectedly to Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh as to the general public, Mrs. Lindbergh, shocked at the news which came after weeks of strain, declined to see visitors at her home here.

Mrs. Lindbergh received the news after teaching her classes in Cass Technical High school as usual.

Shortly after extras announcing the statement of Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey that the baby was dead appeared, Mrs. Lindbergh's brother, C. S. Land, left the home hurriedly in an automobile. He told newspapermen that his sister would receive no one and had "nothing to say."

15 CENTS IS BID FOR 2 MILLION DOLLAR BUILDING

Minneapolis, Minn., May 12.—(AP)—Fifteen cents was bid for a 2,000,000 dollar building here yesterday, but it wasn't accepted.

The occasion was the seventeenth time an attempt had been made to auction the Foshay tower, a 32 story structure, one of the W. B. Foshay enterprises now in receivership.

C. C. Darnell, assistant receiver, went to the courthouse and read a court document announcing the tower was for sale. His audience was a group of men awaiting help at the city poor relief bureau.

"I'll offer 15 cents," said one man.

"No sale," said Mr. Darnell.

LINDY JR. BORN ON MOTHER'S BIRTHDAY, ON JUNE 22D, 1930

New York, May 12.—[Special.]—Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was born on June 22, 1930, his mother's 24th birthday, at the home of his grandfather, the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, in Englewood, N. J. From the moment of his birth the world was intensely interested in his career.

Gifts for the baby poured in from all over the world and the family was besieged for pictures of him. His father took his first pictures before he was a month old and made them public. Then in accordance with his parents' wishes Charles Augustus Jr. lived a secluded life, spending most of his time in Englewood under the watchful care of his mother.

The first separation for the family came the following summer when Charles Jr. was taken to the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me., while his parents made their trip by air to Japan and China.

On their return the Lindberghs took a house at Mount Rose, not far from the site of their Hopewell home, which was then being started, and the baby spent much of the fall there under the watchful eye of his nurse, Betty Gow, and his mother. When the new home was finished late in the fall the family had gone again to the Morrow home in Englewood and during the winter spent only their week-ends in the new house on Sourland mountain.

TELLS HOW HE FOUND BODY OF LINDBERGH BABY

Discovers Child 45 Feet Back from Road.

Hopewell, N. J., May 12.—(AP)—William Allen, 46 year old Negro, tonight gave the following account of how he discovered the body of the Lindbergh child:

"After I got into the woods I went under a branch and looked down. I saw a skull sticking up out of the dirt which seemed to have been kicked up around it. I thought I saw a baby, with its foot sticking out of the ground.

"I called Williams [Orville Williams, his companion], and he came into the woods. I said, 'I think it's a baby.'

"He said, 'Well, what are you going to do about it?'

Reports to Police.

"I said 'I guess I'll report it to Charley Williamson' [one of the two members of Hopewell's police force].

"We stopped at Hopewell and after looking around for Charley found him in the barber shop.

"I said, 'Could you talk to me for a couple of minutes?' He said, 'Sure, he'd talk to me for five if I wanted to.'

"Williamson went and got the state police. He took me back to the truck and after I delivered the load of blocks I had on the truck I took him to the road—where we found the baby.

"The baby was about 45 feet back from the road. After I showed it to Charley he went and got some state policemen and I drove my truck back home and went to dinner.

Taken to Lindy's Home.

"After I got home Williamson and some plain clothes men came and got me and took me to Lindbergh's house. When I got there they asked me a lot of questions, like what time I seen the baby and where I seen it and all about it.

"Then they brought me back home and I ain't had no dinner yet.

"I just hope they get the man that did it. Nothing would be too bad to do to him."

Allen, who lives in a plain little house with his wife and five children, jogged the two youngest Allen babies slowly on his knee as he related his story.

He said he didn't "want no reward for finding the baby; he just wanted to keep his job."

ARREST MEANS FOR DRUNKENNESS; HITS A NEWSPAPER MAN

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Gaston B. Means was back in jail today on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct growing out of a fight between himself and a newspaper reporter in a drug store. He had been released from the district jail not 24 hours before under $50,000 bail in connection with his indictment for defrauding Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $104,000 intended as ransom money for the Lindbergh baby.

According to Lee Somers, the reporter, Means mistook him for a department of justice agent when he was unable to produce newspaper credentials. Somers said he had an appointment with Means and that they went into the drug store for a drink.

"When we got inside," Somers said, "he demanded to see my credentials. Then he said I was a department of justice man. He struck me in the chest."

Means was held by police "until he could sober up." He made the following explanation:

"I had just sat down in the drug store when a man came up to me and said he was from the Washington Times. He had no credentials.

"I immediately turned to my wife, grabbed him and held him for the police, telling her to call the officers. I thought he was an undercover agent. Then the officers came and arrested both of us. When they locked me up I told my wife to bring all the political pressure to bear that she could to get me out."

A TEXAS RANGER CARRIES HIS OWN JAIL WITH HIM

W. R. Crane, a Texas ranger with an eight quart hat, arrived yesterday at the Joliet penitentiary with papers for Tony Gonzales, a convict who escaped from Huntsville, Tex., penitentiary several years ago and who had more recently been completing a term for robbery in the Illinois prison.

Ranger Crane was asked what train he intended to take.

"I'll give him a ride in my car," he replied.

Then he displayed the automobile. It had a truck body and on the rear was an iron cage, about 5 feet by 5 feet. Gonzales was locked into this and the ranger set off on his 900-mile trip to Huntsville. It was Crane's intention to make the journey in three days.

FUGITIVE GIVES UP.

George W. Locke Jr., 25 years old, yesterday asked Chicago police to help him get back to Ventura, Cal., to face a charge of embezzlement. He read of the charge in Philadelphia and started west to seek vindication, he said, but ran out of funds here. Police are holding him.

SPIKE O'DONNELL FREE; DENIES HE'S BEER MERCHANT

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, once a considerable figure in the beer business on the south side, was released from the detective bureau late yesterday, twenty-four hours after he had been taken into custody by two detectives in the loop.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus by O'Donnell's attorney, George Crane, caused the police to charge O'Donnell with disorderly conduct and let him go on bonds.

There have been rumors that Spike stepped out of the beer racket shortly after the killing of his brother Charles about a month ago. It has also been reported that he was told by Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, leader of the so-called beer syndicate on the south side, that he would be "taken for a ride" if he tried to hang on.

At his home last night O'Donnell said he was no longer in the beer business, but that if he were Quinlan could not run him out.

SENATE CHECKS LONG'S ATTACK ON ROBINSON

Denounces The Tribune in Violent Speech.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Huey P. [call me Kingfish] Long got the floor of the senate this afternoon, brandished Carey Orr's recent cartoon depicting Louisiana's junior senator under the red flag of communism, and let loose a blast of almost incoherent denunciation against "the nefarious CHICAGO TRIBUNE" for "this nefarious engraving and its nefarious editorials on me."

Yelling, perspiring, swaying, he accused THE TRIBUNE of spreading "spurious propaganda" to create race riots in the south, and gloried in the charge that this propaganda had boomeranged back and brought race riots to East St. Louis, and "even to the city of Chicago itself."

Attacks Robinson.

Then he turned his venom on to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, whom Mr. Orr had pictured standing under the banner of patriotism. Listing the various wealthy corporations which are clients of Mr. Robinson's law firm, Mr. Long screamed out:

"This man came down here with not enough clients to make a corporal's guard. Now he is attorney for every nefarious corporate interest in the United States."

Senator Reed, regular Republican from Pennsylvania, across the aisle, glowered at him. But Huey wiped the sweat out of his eyes and yelled:

"Will the fact that he represents a powerful chain store interest influence his vote here in the senate? O, no. Will the fact that he represents great power trusts influence his vote? O, no. Will the fact that——"

Ordered to Halt Tirade.

He didn't finish the question.

Senator Reed interrupted angrily:

"This violates rule 19 of the senate."

It was still in the chamber as Vice President Curtis tapped his gavel lightly and ordered:

Mouth open, hair flopping, eyes bulging, Huey Long sat down.

Senator Blaine [radical Rep., Wis.] stood up.

"I cannot sit idly by," he announced, "and see a senator compelled to take his seat, no matter what I may think of his views."

Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.], dignified constitutional lawyer, raised his right hand, called for a vote on permitting Long to continue. But he was beaten when the chair announced, "The noes have it."

Read Senate Rule.

Then Senator Walsh asked for a reading of rule 19. The clerk read:

"No senator in debate shall, directly or indirectly, by any form of words impute to another senator or to other senators any conduct or motive unworthy or unbecoming a senator."

Slowly the color was returning to Huey Long's face. When Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.] asked for specific citation of what had been said in violation of the rule Long jumped to his feet in glee. He looked about him; sat down suddenly.

By this time the stenographer was reading the provocative paragraph.

Senator Trammell [Dem., Fla.] urged that Long be given the floor, provided he "proceed in an orderly manner."

Once more the vote was taken. "The ayes have it," declared the Vice President.

Huey Tries Again.

And Huey, sassy now instead of scared, flung himself forward and essayed a wise crack:

"You see, I always said 'no' to each question, didn't I?"

But the trick did not work, for Senator Reed remarked scornfully:

"The passage is capable of but one interpretation. The senator's words and manner combined clearly reflect on the senator from Arkansas."

"I'm within the rules as far as words are concerned. As for my looks and expressions, I can't look at myself."

Then, backing down in a mock serious protestation that he was really defending Senator Robinson, he announced airily:

"Glancing from that subject, feeling I have explained it, I go on. Tallyrand says——" And he was off quoting books.

Returns to Tribune Attack.

Presently he was back on THE TRIBUNE, serving notice on it that he would "not be run by any such corn cob and lightning bug display."

Pounding the desk and jumping up and down, he repeated his charge that "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE infuriated Negroes in the south and undertook by spurious propaganda to create race riots in the south, which finally broke out in East St. Louis and Chicago, where hundreds and thousands of lives were destroyed."

Then, in a burst of words that did not make sentences he yelled an attack on "the fusillades of this nefarious publication to put any man under the flag of communism who advocates the redistribution of the profits of the land."

In the midst of it, Senator Reed walked down the aisle.

Even Huey Can't Say It.

"Wait," Huey hollered, "I don't want the senator from Pennsylvania to leave. I want him to keep track of the rules and see that I'm in 'em."

Mr. Reed shrugged his shoulders, kept on walking.

And a little later when Long had swung back again to an attack on Robinson for going to the White House conferences he shouted: "If I'd gone to the White House and taken orders and then Mr. Hoover had sent over these verbal spankings to me, I'd tell ——." He paused; began over again, "I'd tell him ——." Again he stopped; yelled, "No, I wouldn't say it."

Connecting the several outbursts of the speech, was a thread of his favorite theme: The hookup of Mr. Hoover, Banker Baruch and the Democratic leadership.

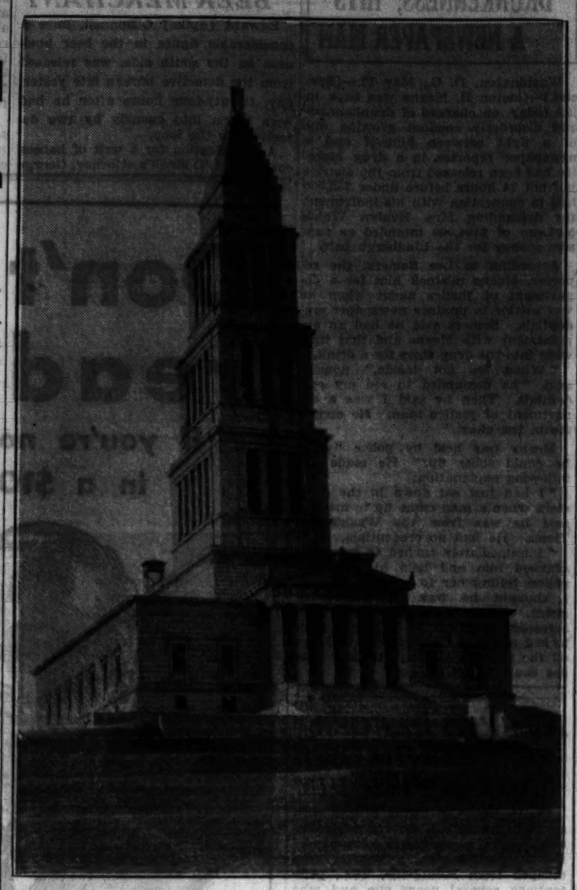
And he concluded the tirade by hurling the adjectives "nefarious" and "sinister" once more at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

MASONS HONOR WASHINGTON



Granite temple erected in Alexandria, Va., just across the river from the national capital, in honor of George Washington, Freemason, which was dedicated yesterday.

MASONS' SHRINE TO WASHINGTON IS DEDICATED

Rain Drenches Hoover, Other Dignitaries.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Through one of the wettest rains that ever drenched a President, Herbert Hoover today went to Alexandria, Va., to see Free Masonry dedicate its five million dollar shrine to Masonry, to virtue, to universal benevolence and to George Washington, man and Mason.

High up on Shooter's hill, one time scheduled to be our national capital, the national monument stood out today clear and cold in the driving rain. All about it red, white and blue bunting ran its colors into the oozing clay on the ground. Thousands of grandstand seats, festooned for the celebration, were empty. Automobiles were stuck in the mud; important generals wrung gallons of water from their dress gloves. White plumes and gold encrusted Masonic aprons shriveled and crumpled up in the downpour.

Auditorium Is Packed.

Inside, the graceful marble auditorium, built to hold 1,200, was packed with as many Masons as could get in to attend the ceremony which was planned, picturesquely, for the sunlit outdoors and which, at a disappointed last moment, had to be changed to the indoors.

At 1 o'clock the President and Mrs. Hoover drove up the hill. The motor went past the tall marble steps of the entrance and went to the back door where the passengers could run into the building more quickly. There they were met by Harry K. Green, Virginia grand master, who led them up the back stairs to the platform.

Corn, Wine, and Oil in Urns.

In front stood three men with slender urns; one of gold containing the corn that was scattered on the small shrine; one of silver filled with the wine that was poured over the corn; a third of silver from which the oil was poured.

Another official came impressively forward and turned over to the master of ceremonies the square and compasses, dear to Masonry. As the solemn ritual continued, Mr. Green said:

"This building is not only dedicated to Masonry, virtue, and universal benevolence, but to the memory of America's greatest son and Masonry's brightest star—Washington. Virginia honors him because he is her child, born on her soil, and raised to Masonic light in one of her lodges. We present the Bible on which he was initiated, the charter of the lodge over which he presided, and the trowel used by him in laying the corner stone of the nation's capitol."

Melvin M. Johnson, past grand master of Massachusetts and orator of the day, called the national shrine "a tangible symbol of intangible ideals."

At the conclusion of the dedication proper the President was introduced to the assembly, but did not make a speech.

AMEND U. S. PART IN ADHERENCE TO WORLD COURT

Senate Committee Votes Reservation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The senate foreign relations committee, by a vote of 11 to 8, today agreed to report out the Walsh resolution for acceptance of American adherence to the world court.

The resolution emerges, however, in an amended form which virtually restores to the protocols the former fifth senate reservation, previously rejected by the other signatory nations.

In addition to this amendment the resolution carries the amendment offered by Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], and approved by the committee yesterday, which stipulates that the signature of adherence of the United States shall not be affixed to the protocol until the other signatory powers shall have formally signified their acceptance of the American terms.

These terms specify, under the amendment restoring the limitation of the old fifth resolution, that the senate consents to American adherence "with the clear understanding of the United States that the permanent Court of International Justice shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

On Shelf Until Next December.

The resolution goes to the senate floor without an definite plans for its consideration. Senator William E. Borah (radical Rep., Ida.), chairman of the foreign relations committee and long standing foe of court and league, made it plain that he would make no move to call the resolution up for action.

It is, therefore, a virtual certainty that no definite move will be made until congress meets next December. There are those among the opponents of American adherence who wish immediate consideration, on the theory thta they can count on sufficient votes to defeat the resolution. A majority, however, are anxious to defer the subject until after the coming campaigns and elections.

The committee vote today was as follows:

Yeas—Capper, Reed, Fess, and Vandenberg, Republicans; Swanson (proxy), Pittman, Walsh of Montana, Harrison, George, Black, and Connally, Democrats.

Amendments Safeguard U. S.

Two further amendments, proposed by Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] were added to the Walsh resolution before it was agreed to. These provide that recourse to the court in any dispute involving the United States may be had only through treaties between this country and other states parties to the difference and that "adherence shall not be so construed as to require the United States to depart from its traditional policy of not intruding upon, or interfering with or entangling itself in the political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state; nor shall adherence be construed to imply a relinquishment by the United States of its traditional attitude toward purely American questions."

AUSTRALIA BARES FASCIST PLOT TO CAPTURE CAPITAL

'New Guards' Raided; Documents Seized.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 12.—(AP)—Police reported today that they had discovered evidence of an elaborate anti-government plot in a series of raids on headquarters of the "New Guard," a Fascist organization formed more than a year ago and which now claims 100,000 members.

Documents seized in the raids, said the police, included plans to capture the disused Berrima jail, where the organization proposed to place "certain ministers of the crown and high police officials."

There were plans for kidnaping certain other officials, formulated before the recent opening of the Sydney bridge, and a scheme for a march on Canberra, capital of Australia.

The Fascists, police think, planned to capture the capital and imprison the cabinet. Canberra is the site only of the legislative and administrative buildings, with homes of members of parliament and civil servants, and its capture would be comparatively easy. Canberra is populated by only 5,000 officials and 1,000 tradespeople.

Police said they had discovered plans for establishment of ammunition dumps. The government has for some time placed a special guard over military deposits and arsenals.

Eric Campbell, general officer commanding the "New Guard," has taken up the defense of some of his men who were jailed for assault after a riot here on Monday. He declared they were victims of a police frameup. Chief Police Commissioner Childs called him a "deliberate liar."

WIFE SUES POLICEMAN.

Patrolman Barney Axelrod of the Town Hall police used his wife, Marie, as a punching bag to keep himself in trim for crime fighting, she charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Circuit court.

BAIN BANK TRIAL OPENS MAY 23 WITHOUT JURY

An agreement was reached yesterday under which John Bain, south park commissioner and head of a chain of twelve banks which were closed by the state auditor, will be tried before Judge John M. O'Connor of the Appellate court, starting May 23.

Bain is under indictment on a charge of conspiracy to embezzle. His co-defendants are his two sons, John H. and Robert Bain; his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, and Dr. Walter H. Buhlig and Frank A. Mulholland, a south side realty dealer.

Edwin Raber, special prosecutor in bank cases, has reported to State's Attorney Swanson that Bain and the other defendants have agreed to waive a jury, and Judge O'Connor has consented to preside at the trial.

The maximum penalty on the charge against Bain and his associates is five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000.

North Side Store Blast Hurls Vegetables in Street

An explosion, believed caused by a gas heater, demolished the fruit store of Thomas Taducci at 615 Montrose avenue last night and shattered windows in the neighborhood. Vegetables were scattered in Montrose avenue by the blast. Division Fire Marshal John Stahl estimated the damage at $10,000.

Peeling dollars from our prices

They wait. Rogers Peet tailors keep on working—and we intend that they shall. But the slowing down of trade dams the customary flow of fine suits through our shops. We must break the dam.

$55. Our entire stock of Spring suits of the finest imported fabrics—English Worsteds and Gabardines, Clay Serges, Scotch Cheviots and Saxonies—regardless of the prices they should bring, are on sale at the one price of $55. (Most of them were $75.)

There are no finer fabrics in any suits, not even from the best custom tailors, for better suit cloth is not woven. And every suit is hand tailored in the current season's style.

Please remember that at the sale price of $55 we include only suits of the highest grades of imported cloth with linings and trim of unexcelled quality. We have many other suits, four piece sport suits from $35 and business suits from $30 to $50.

INFLATION BILL DEFENDED BEFORE SENATE GROUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—The Goldsborough bill for deflation of the dollar to its 1921-'29 level through inflation of the currency and credit was defended today before the senate banking and currency committee by sponsors who claimed that all the bill did was to give direction to a process which the federal reserve board and the federal reserve banks were already carrying out.

The effect of the bill, said its author, Representative Thomas A. Goldsborough [Dem., Md.], would be the approval by congress of a mandate to the federal reserve to continue its present policy with respect to a low rediscount rate and its open market purchases of some 100 millions of government securities a week.

Under this mandate the inflation policy would be continued until the department of labor's index figures for wholesale commodities reached approximately the 1926 level, said the witnesses. From that point on, they believed, currency and credit could be so controlled as to stabilize the dollar's purchasing power and through it the general commodity price level.

No Change in Reserve Policy.

What the commercial banks and the public need to know now is that the present policy of the federal reserve system will be continued, said Representative Goldsborough and the others. Some 500 millions of government securities having been purchased during the last few weeks, the member banks' debts with the regional banks having been largely reduced but some 300 millions of this sum and their reserve accounts increased by the remainder, proponents of the bill were confident that the inflationary process now going on would soon be reflected in a revived movement by the member banks to make loans and investments.

"If the banks begin making loans, within 90 days the upswing will begin," Mr. Goldsborough maintained.

The debts incurred at the average level of 1926 and totaling 203 billions constituted the key to the situation, said George F. Warren, professor of agricultural economies of Cornell university.

Cites Remedy.

They may be liquidated in only two ways, he asserted, either through bankruptcy or through inflation. If we keep on with the present process of deflation—and he saw no sign to indicate that the process tended to halt—it will take, he said, another generation for things to settle back to an equitable state.

"A rise in commodity prices to the level that prevailed when public and private debts were incurred would quickly restore equities, stop bankruptcies, start the sale of commodities, and restore employment," he said.

"This does not mean that any commodity would be freed from fluctuations in its value due to changes in the production of it or demand for it.

"A restoration of prices to the level to which debts are adjusted is commonly said to be injurious to creditors. This is not the case. A slight decline is a benefit to creditors by the amount which it unjustly takes away from debtors, but a drastic decline, such as the present one, leaves such a high percentage of the debts unpaid that creditors lose. Even if creditors do lose an opportunity for an unjust gain there would be few individuals who would not be benefited by stable prices, because there are only a few persons who are not interested in the prosperity of some industry or in employment and who do not have dependents thus interested. The person who owns a house and who has life insurance and a job is a capitalist, a lender, and a wage worker.

"Commodity prices can be raised by increasing the amount of currency in circulation. A considerable amount is necessary for a time. Every bank is trying to improve its liquid position which means that it is increasing its ratio of currency to credit. In many regions there are no banks and persons must use currency instead of bank checks. Some persons are afraid of banks and prefer to use currency. The proposed tax on checks is also a deflationary measure because it will cause some substitution of currency for checks. Under these circumstances a material increase in currency is necessary to start recovery."

Hospitals Honor Memory of Florence Nightingale

LAYMEN HONOR PIONEER NURSE ON HOSPITAL DAY

Laymen, once reluctant to cross a hospital threshold to view the white beds or shudder in the silent corridors, streamed into forty Chicago hospitals yesterday, on National Hospital day.

Their coming was a testimonial to the success of the medical and nursing professions in removing through education the fear of the hospital, and a tribute to the memory of Florence Nightingale, pioneer in nursing service.

The scene at Wesley Memorial hospital, 2449 South Dearborn street, during the afternoon, was typical of hospitals in Chicago and throughout the country. Members of the hospital board formed a receiving line at the tea for visitors, and speakers called attention to the humanitarian service of Miss Nightingale, the improvements in hospitals, and plans for the future.

Last night the staff of the Visiting Nurses' association presented a tableau, "The Spirit of Nursing," at a meeting of the Illinois League of Nursing Education at the Y. W. C. A. at 1001 North Dearborn street.

The sisters of St. Casimir's convent were hostesses yesterday to more than 1,000 persons who visited the Holy Cross hospital. Nearly 300 babies, all born at the hospital in the last three years, were among the "guests" and pictures of them were taken on the hospital lawn. Each baby was presented with a gift.

FUND IS TRACED TO SECRETARY OF CHRIS PASCHEN

U. S. Shows Check Was Taken to Office.

Attempting to trace money to Chris Paschen, former city building commissioner, to prove that he evaded income tax payments in 1927 and 1928, government prosecutors yesterday succeeded in showing that a $2,310 check reached Miss Helen Reynolds, his secretary. The check was made payable to the Commercial Building Cleaning company, one of the concerns the prosecutors allege Paschen operated secretly.

This company had cleaned a city pumping station and Miss Reynolds was sent to the city controller's office to receipt for the check and take it to Paschen's office. She did not remember, she said, who sent her for the check nor did she know into whose possession it eventually passed.

Takes Check to Office.

She was questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson.

Q.—Did you receipt for the check? A.—Yes, I signed "Christian P. Paschen," and below, "per H. M. Reynolds."

Q.—What did you do with the check? A.—I brought it back to Mr. Paschen's office and put it upon my desk.

Q.—Do you know if it went to Paschen? A.—No.

On cross-examination by Attorney Cassius Poust, Miss Reynolds said that there was a possibility that Joe Sladek, Paschen's manager, or D. J. O'Connell, another alleged Paschen employé, might have sent her for the check.

O'Connell Indorses Checks.

Evidence preceding the woman's appearance on the stand showed that O'Connell indorsed checks made payable to the Commercial company, the Commonwealth Cleaning company, L. Kuhn & Co., and the Able Wrecking company, the concerns the government says Paschen operated.

O'Connell referred to himself in these indorsements as "co-partner" of the company to which the check was made payable. The work done was for the city and Albert C. Barbaras, paying teller in the controller's office, testified to the cashing of the checks on O'Connell's indorsement.

When Prosecutor Clawson came to the check receipted by Miss Reynolds, he asked Barbaras: "Can you recall how that came about—Miss Reynolds receipting for the check?"

Barbaras said that he couldn't recall the reason for it, but added, "We are sometimes instructed by our superiors, but I don't remember if that took place in this instance."

O'Connell is expected to be called as a government witness before the case is rested this week or early next week.

Calls Job Incomplete.

Patrick Fleming, operating engineer of the Central Park avenue pumping station, testified that the Kuhn company cleaned the station in 1927 and that he regarded the work as incomplete when the job was finished. He called Irving 1861, the number given him as that of the company's, he said, and men returned and the job was completed to his satisfaction. The telephone company said last night that their records for 1927 and 1928 have been destroyed but that the phone in 1931 had been in use by Louis Kuhn.

Another witness during the morning session, H. A. Davis of the Lundoff-Bicknell company, Cleveland, testified that Paschen's firm cleaned the St. Luke's hospital there in 1927 and received $20,000 for the job.

Christian Peterson, employed in the controller's office in the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, a witness in the trial, yesterday called THE TRIBUNE's attention to the fact that Frank L. King is the bank controller and not Mr. Peterson, as was stated in THE TRIBUNE.

NATION TO JOIN IN TAX WARNING TO CONVENTIONS

2 Day Demonstration Will Open in Chicago June 2.

Chicago is to be the scene of a national demonstration against high taxes and excessive governmental expenditures on the eve of the Republican and Democratic national conventions here in June.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, announced last night that officials of more than 1,100 organizations in every part of the country have been invited to come here for the demonstration on June 2 and 3. Already more than 400 organizations in more than 30 states have signified their intention of participating.

Taxpayers Mean Business.

Organizations which will join in the huge tax protest, designed to impress those attending the national conventions that the taxpayers mean business in their demands for reduced governmental expenditures, include chambers of commerce, trade organizations, farm groups, and many well known national corporations. The meetings will be held at the Hotel La Salle.

One of the purposes of the demonstration is to coördinate the activities of the myriads of chambers of commerce and taxpayers' organizations now working haphazardly against the tax burden which, they assert, is helping to hold back the return of better times.

Nation Responds to Call.

Mr. Rossetter in his statement with respect to the tax demonstration said:

"Suggestions have come to us from all over the United States for such a national meeting of America's business leaders for the one purpose of serving definite and final notice on congress and other governmental bodies—state, county, and municipal—that unless tax demands are reduced immediately business must crash, with resultant increases in unemployment, destitution, and general unrest.

"Calls for a national meeting of business were sent out less than 48 hours ago. Yet in the brief interim we have heard from more than 400 prominent business groups in more than 30 states, all expressing approval and announcing their intentions of making their voices heard in a common protest. Others are pouring in hourly.

Individual Protests Fail.

"Many of these groups have previously protested individually and without results in congress. Now they mean to talk en masse.

"A few months ago we organized in Chicago a middle west tax conference that united the business organizations of the seventeen Mississippi valley and lake states in a joint campaign against overtaxation and government waste. This was all right as far as it went. But to satisfy rapidly mounting demands that the movement be national in scope and authority, we are now going to make the June meeting truly representative of every taxpayer in the country.

Congress Ignores Warnings.

"During the past fortnight unemployment has increased; hundreds of big companies have passed dividends, many for the first time in generations; insurance companies, usually our most solidly entrenched institutions, have sounded warnings of impending danger. Yet, congress has gone right along, disregarding sound warnings from the White House and piling up new appropriations that are staggering in their very audacity.

"In the past when there was no unemployment those who sought special privileges and congress, which supplied them at the taxpayer's expense, had easy sailing.

"Now things are changed. Every time a new appropriation is voted and a higher tax levied it means higher production costs, a smaller margin of profit, more lay-offs and unemployment, less purchasing power and general hardship for every one. The wage earner has finally begun to realize that, no matter how few dollars he makes weekly, the politician today is taking an average of about 35 per cent from his pay envelope in some form of tax, either direct or indirect.

Tax Authorities to Talk.

"While the plans for the June meeting here still are somewhat tentative, we expect to bring before the conference such outstanding students of the mounting cost of government as Thomas S. Adams, professor of economics at Yale university; Mark Graves, tax commissioner of the department of taxation and finance of the state of New York; Thomas R. Cain, president of the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association; and Dr. Leonard Fox, tax expert of the Pennsylvania state chamber of commerce. In addition, invitations to address the meeting have been extended to Silas H. Strawn, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States; Fred W. Sargent, president, Chicago and North Western railway, and D. F. Kelley, president of The Fair and chairman of the advisory board, Chicago committee on public expenditures."

Among the business groups which have promised support and representation at the meeting here are those of the following communities: Shreveport, La.; Mobile, Ala.; Annapolis, Md.; Houston, Tex.; Baltimore, Md.; Coral Gables, Fla.; Jamestown, N. Y.; West Point, Miss.; Casper, Wyo.; Ogdensburg, N. Y.; San Antonio; Beckley, W. Va.; Asheville, N. C.; Fremont, Neb.; Sweetwater, Tex.; Olean, N. Y.; Staunton, Va.; Hoboken, N. J.; Richmond, Va.; Butte, Mont.; Dallas, Tex.; Bismarck, N. D.; Nashville, Tenn.; Mitchell, S. D.; Lyons, N. Y.; New Bedford, Mass.; Birmingham, Ala., and Eldorado, Colo.

Telegraph Hoover.

At a meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday in the Union League club telegrams were sent to President Hoover and members of the special senate bi-partisan committee, commending them for their efforts to reduce federal governmental costs by 350 million dollars and pointing out that "the first step in this program, in view particularly of the depressed condition of business, should be drastic economy."

Among the organizations to sign were the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, Illinois Coal Operators' association, Iron league of Chicago, Insurance Federation of Illinois, National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, Illinois Society of Architects, Chicago Auto Trade association, and the Manufacturers' association. Twenty organizations were represented at the meeting.

REED, PENNSYLVANIA COMES OUT FOR CHANGE IN PROHIBITION LAW

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, who may be chairman of the resolutions committee of the Republican national committee, came out today for modification of the eighteenth amendment to permit government controlled sale of liquor. He made public a letter to a constituent in which he said:

DAVID A. REED.

"In a nutshell my opinion is this: The eighteenth amendment represents a positive benefit in that it puts an end to the licensed saloon and this benefit ought not to be lost by any action that we take now. I have no illusions on the subject of speakeasies racketeering and encouragement of criminals, and I believe that a change in the law is urgently needed. I should support a system such as either the Swedish or the Quebec systems, which would provide for the licensed sale of spirits in government owned or government controlled dispensaries.

"I refused to sign the Tydings petition and will oppose any outright repeal that does not provide for the continued prohibition of the licensed saloon. Needless to add, I favor the continuance of complete prohibition in those states which by referendum votes decide that they want to retain it."

Outlines a Substitute for Robinson's Plan.

would unquestionably be carried forward were it not for the present situation existing in the capital markets and the inadequate functioning of the credit machinery of the country. They exist both in the field of public bodies and of industry.

"There is no dearth of capital and on the other hand there is a real demand for capital for productive purposes that have been held in abeyance. The problem is to make the existing capital available and to stimulate its use in constructive capital activities. This involves, under existing conditions, resort to special machinery which is adapted to furnish the necessary element of confidence.

"It is proposed to use the instrumentality of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has a nation-wide organization, by authorizing the corporation either to underwrite or make loans for income-producing and self-sustaining enterprises which will increase employment, whether undertaken by public bodies or by private enterprises.

Proper Security for Loans.

"In order to safeguard the program beyond all question it is proposed that there must be proper security for the loans, that, as said projects must be income producing, borrowers must have sufficient confidence to furnish part of the capital, and that the project must contribute to early and substantial employment:

"It is proposed to provide the necessary funds as they are required by the sale of securities of the Reconstruction corporation and its total borrowing powers to be increased up to 3 billion dollars. It is not proposed to issue government bonds. It is hoped that this further project of speeding up the economic machinery will not involve any such sum. But, in view of the early adjournment of congress, it is desirable to provide an ample margin.

"It is necessary to sharply distinguish between the use of capital for the above purposes and its use for unproductive public works. This proposal represents a flow of funds into productive enterprises, which is not taking place today because of abnormal condition. These, being loans on securities and being self-liquidating in character, do not constitute a charge against the taxpayer or the public credit. The issue of bonds for public works nonproductive of revenue is a direct charge either upon the taxpayer or upon the public credit, the interest on which and the ultimate redemption of which must be met from taxation.

"An examination shows that to increase federal government construction work during the next year beyond the amounts already provided for would be to undertake works of largely artificial character far in advance of public return and would represent a wasteful use of capital and public credit."

Call Robinson to White House.

Although Mr. Hoover has been discussing a project of this character with his advisers for several days, the Robinson speech in the senate yesterday proposing a 2 billion 300 million dollar bond issue for unemployment relief had the effect of forcing the administration to a showdown of approval or disapproval.

After discussing the matter with Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, over the White House breakfast table and later with Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve board, the President invited Senator Robinson to the executive office. Mr. Hoover told the Democratic leader that he favors a federal unemployment relief program and that he has been at work on one.

The President welcomed the cooperation evidenced by the Robinson speech. The Democratic leader welcomed the coöperation of the President.

Radicals Grin Broadly.

Supporters of the La Follette-Costigan 375 million dollar unemployment relief bill which was defeated in the senate early in the session largely because of White House opposition are grinning broadly over what they regard as the surrender of the President in the pinch of political exigency and of Senator Robinson to the temptation to make political capital.

Administration defenders say that the President is as much opposed to a dole as ever and that his relief plan will not be open to that criticism.

The present disposition of the President to approve a huge financing of unemployment relief represents a radical change of front since he condemned further enormous expenditures on public works construction with the comment that we cannot squander our way to recovery.

Among politicians the view is widely held that with eminent Democratic leaders coming out for a federal relief project Mr. Hoover could not stand out against it without sacrificing whatever chance he still may have of re-election. Some of them are convinced that the most powerful influence operating at the White House was the information that the Robinson plan originated with Owen D. Young of New York, a leading dark horse candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. Republicans who think that if Franklin D. Roosevelt, with his radical backing, is the Democratic nominee, Mr. Hoover will stand an excellent chance of reelection are far from confident of the President's ability to defeat a conservative such as Newton D. Baker or Mr. Young.

DRYS STILL USE WOMEN DECOYS, SAYS INFORMER

Tells How Agent Trapped Young Defendant.

Kenneth S. Brooks, 8852 South Elizabeth street, who voluntarily became a dry informer and now regrets it, yesterday explained the ease with which a prohibition agent obtained evidence against a speakeasy by using a woman as a decoy.

About nine months ago Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock issued orders that no women were to be used by prohibition agents in their investigating work. Deputy Administrator A. E. Hamilton said yesterday that so far as he knew no women have been used by Chicago agents since that time.

Makes a Complaint.

Here is the story told by Brooks:

"I had complained to the prohibition department against the home of Harry Schleis at 6648 Imlay street. Prohibition Agent A. Turner came to see me and we went over to the place. On the way we met a woman on the street and Agent Turner picked her up and took her along. We had several drinks at the place.

"Turner called for me on the day of the raid, April 22, and I went along with the raiding party, assisting with the arrest of Schleis. Turner cautioned me to say nothing about his taking the woman along when we bought the drinks."

The records at the federal building show that Schleis, who is only 21, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker on May 3 and held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,500. Brooks now wants to help the young defendant.

"I have had a change of heart," said Mr. Brooks. "I don't think the boy got a square deal and I am sorry I informed against him."

One Way of Using Women.

One manner in which the agents are said to circumvent the ban on women was explained by a saloonkeeper while waiting to be arraigned before Commissioner Walker.

"They put up at cheap hotels where speakeasy hostesses stay," said the saloonkeeper. "They take the girls out to dinner and pose as big dealers from Buffalo or some place, and then suggest having a little beer.

"The girls, anxious to make an impression on the boss, take them into their own place as old friends from the home town. The agents only get acquainted on the first visit. Then they return alone and make their official buys."

LOUISIANA ACTS TO KILL STATE PROHIBITION LAW

New Orleans, La., May 13.—[Special.]—Three bills were introduced in the house and senate at Baton Rouge today, demanding the repeal of the Hood act, the Louisiana enforcement law. Each bill was greeted with tremendous applause. Members of both houses also demanded, although no official action was taken, that the Volstead act be repealed.

Resolutions also were introduced in both the house and senate memorializing congress for a referendum on national prohibition. There is no doubt that the resolutions will be adopted. The bills nullifying the prohibition law in Louisiana, from present indications, also will pass.

DRYS ASK PROBE OF RUM PARTIES IN PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRURO, N. S., May 13.—The Sons of Temperance, in convention at Windsor, today passed resolutions demanding a public investigation of reports that members of the provincial government had at the recent session of the house of assembly participated in demonstrations in which liquor was used and that parties were held on the floor of the legislative building.

Acting Premier Percy C. Black today said he knew nothing of the demonstration and that an inquiry "might be held if charges were made."

John W. Hughes, field secretary of the Sons of Temperance, said that charges would be filed soon "that the public might know the truth, if liquor was being consumed in the provincial legislature."

WIFE DROPS HER MARRIAGE SUIT; JUDGE AROUSED

Urges State Act Against Plaintiff's Lawyers.

Mrs. Kathryne Fricks yesterday brought to a voluntary close the suit for separate maintenance she had filed in Circuit court against Charles W. Fricks, head of an auditing company.

Technically, Mrs. Fricks took a nonsuit—after she had made charges of undue intimacy against her husband and a widowed grandmother. Judge Craig Hood, before whom the trial was being held, termed the withdrawal of the litigation, which gives Fricks and the alleged co-respondent no opportunity to combat her allegations, 'outrageous and dastardly."

Reveal Previous Suit.

News dispatches yesterday from Waterloo, Ia., related that in 1926 Mrs. Fricks brought a $25,000 suit for alienation of her husband's affections against Mrs. Matilda Caward of Waterloo, in the Blackhawk county court and closed the action with a non-suit. In that case she charged Fricks and Mrs. Caward with undue intimacy and alleged that as a result of their association she became ill and went to a hospital.

The dispatches stated that after Mrs. Fricks' attorney, Judge A. B. Lovejoy, had presented a portion of his evidence the counsel for Mrs. Caward arranged a settlement. Judge Lovejoy yesterday said he remembered the case and added that the settlement had given Mrs. Fricks $10,000.

Fricks, the judge said, filed a divorce action but the bill was dismissed soon after the alienation suit was dropped.

Judge Hood Is Angered.

His face red and eyes snapping, Judge Hood yesterday denounced Mrs. Fricks and her attorneys, Rudolph and Arthur S. Frankenstein, for dropping her suit here without giving Fricks or Mrs. Mary Thompson McGregor of Pontiac, Ill., the grandmother, an opportunity to answer the charges in the separate maintenance action.

He declared that he would ask the Bar association to start an investigation if the case were ever brought into court again. Later he told Clyde Thompson, city attorney of Dwight and brother of Mrs. McGregor, to present the matter to the state's attorney. Mr. Thompson said he would.

Mrs. Fricks, who described herself as a southern girl, showed a mastery of Chicago gang argot in her testimony yesterday morning before the entry of the nonsuit by her lawyers. She rolled out such terms as "bumped off," "Moran gangster," and "scram" as she charged that she had been subjected to threats by her husband and Attorney Thompson.

Husband on Stand.

During the noon recess the Frankensteins, who are father and son, held a long conference in their office. Fricks was the first witness at the afternoon session. Before he took the stand Judge Hood dismissed a crossbill in which Fricks asked a divorce for desertion on the grounds that Mrs. Fricks had not been served when it was filed on May 2.

Fricks, who had been called as a witness by the plaintiff, answered three questions regarding money he had given his wife. Then Attorney Rudolph Frankenstein turned and said: "Your honor, I move for a nonsuit."

Silence greeted his motion. Judge Hood was legally bound to grant it. Attorney Frank B. Teed, representing Fricks, broke the silence.

"A business man has been arrested and held in this state," he said. "He had paid out money to his wife and their attorneys. The woman she attacks is a lady. At least we should have a chance to clear her name, and my client should have his money returned to him."

Condemns Defense Lawyers.

"I can't altogether right the wrong that has been done," Judge Hood replied. "I take cognizance of the fact that only one side of the case has been made public—the very damaging testimony of the plaintiff. The woman whose name has been attacked has had no defense.

"Counsel has a right to a nonsuit. I am going to allow him to take it. But I condemn the conduct of counsel and his client, and suggest, if this case ever comes up again in court, that a representative of the bar association be present. This action was dastardly and outrageous."

Judge Hood then called the attorneys to his chambers.

"I'm constrained to believe," he said, "that this suit was brought for two reasons only—for money and for publicity. This is shocking. I wouldn't treat a dog as the defendants have been treated.

"I hate to think that the court has been used for such a thing. The results are so damaging. Return of the $550 is so paltry a sum to pay for libel—not legal libel, but moral libel."

Urges State's Attorney Act.

Attorney Thompson said:

"Your honor, this situation is most reprehensible. An agreement was made with you and with us in these chambers to hear the whole case fully."

"The sympathy of the court is a small recompense for what you have gone through," replied the judge. "I recommend to you that you take the whole thing to the state's attorney's office."

"I'll certainly do that," said Attorney Thompson.

The return of the money to which Judge Hood referred was $250 in solicitors' fees and $300 in temporary alimony which were paid to Mrs. Fricks.

CAPT. ZIMMER CELEBRATES HIS 65TH BIRTHDAY

Capt. Matthew Zimmer of the police department celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday yesterday at work in the detective bureau. Today Capt. Zimmer will have been a member of the department forty years.

CAPT. MATTHEW ZIMMER.

Capt. Zimmer is in charge of the division of stolen automobiles, which he reorganized three years ago. All yesterday congratulations and telegrams poured into his office. City officials, including Mayor Cermak and Police Commissioner Allman, congratulated him. His office was decked with flowers, all of which were later sent to nearby hospitals.

Capt. Zimmer, who was once a deputy superintendent of police, has seen some of the most active service of any man in his two score years on the force. He joined the department in 1892 and was assigned to the Maxwell street station. Prior to that he was a baseball player.

MEANEST THIEF MEETS NEMESIS IN BOYS' COURT

Judge Compensates for Quirk in Law.

A strange pair stood before Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court yesterday. One was a typical hoodlum, a man of perhaps 30 years, with bold features and defiant attitude. The other was a boy of 17, who hung his head.

JUDGE J. WILLIAM BROOKS.

"Another smart crook," commented the judge, addressing the older man. "I suppose you thought that by engaging this boy as a partner in crime you would get off easily in the Boys' court. You are going to learn differently. The very fact that you involved this boy in crime will be held against you in this court."

Leader Given a Year.

The older man was held to the grand jury on a charge of robbery with a gun and also sentenced to the house of correction for one year for carrying concealed weapons. His youthful partner, who the evidence showed had been unarmed and also was a first offender, was placed on probation for a year.

The judge's comments revealed the latest trick of the underworld in its struggle against the law. It is a trick based upon an unusual quirk of the law which provides that all persons arrested for crime shall be tried in the Boys' court if one of those arrested is between the ages of 17 and 21.

Thus, a man of 50, a hardened criminal with a long record, may be arraigned in the Boys' court if his companion is a minor. The law does not so specify if the minor is under 17 years of age. In that case only the minor goes to the Juvenile court.

Court Defeats Hoodlums.

"I've been in the Boys' court for ten months and heard over 12,000 cases," Judge Brooks declared. "Some months ago I became aware that in some cases a youth was taken along on a criminal expedition merely in order to bring his older companions into the Boys' court in case of an arrest.

"It is possible that some older men thus were dealt with less severely in the past. But the practice now is almost abandoned, because it is my habit to give the maximum sentence to the man who has a youthful companion. Such a man is doubly guilty. He breaks a law and trains a boy in crime at the same time."

Why Driver Is a Boy.

A common habit of automobile thieves, the judge said, is to operate in gangs of four. One of the quartet is a boy, and he always is put at the wheel of a stolen car. In case of arrest the older men claim exemption and the youth pleads guilty, hoping for the leniency which is usually extended to a minor.

"But they don't get away with it," Judge Brooks asserted. "The older men are just as guilty of stealing the car as is the youth at the wheel. The boy may be dealt with mercifully or he may not. But the adults are sure to get the maximum."

Sixty-one per cent of the youths arraigned in the court are first offenders, statistics compiled by the clerk show. In most cases of minor crimes the boys are put on probation. If they violate this probation and are brought before the judge a second time they are no longer treated leniently. The assistant state's attorney in the court, Max L. Libby, then prosecutes the youths vigorously and demands that they be severely punished.

"Of course in crimes of violence, such as robbery with a gun, burglary and the like, all offenders are held to the grand jury, without regard to age," said the judge. "In the less serious crimes, it is remarkable how many repeaters there are. In the month of April, 372 of the defendants were first timers, 119 were second timers, 14 were third timers, and 72 had been arrested more than three times previously."

Many of the youthful criminals who parade before him daily are smokers of marijuana cigarets, the judge said. He has waged a campaign against peddlers of this drug, he revealed, and has jailed a number. The peddlers are active at most of the high schools, questioning of the boys indicates.

"They tell me," Judge Brooks said, "that one marihuana cigaret and a shot of gin makes a boy 'brave' enough to go out and hold up a regiment. After six months the cigaret loses its kick for the youths and they often switch to some other drug such as cocaine."

Police Probe Bomb Blast at Soft Drink Parlor

Deering street police yesterday were investigating the bombing earlier in the day of a soft drink parlor at 901 West 35th street. The blast caused damage estimated at $400. Dominick Slotkus, the owner, who lives with his family on the second floor of the building, said he had been threatened recently because he was not buying his beer from "the syndicate."

QUARTERLACKING A DATE STILL IS WORTH 25 CENTS

A quarter still is a quarter and Chicagoans were assured last night by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, Chicago chief of the United States secret service, that each and every one still is worth 25 cents.

The announcement was prompted by the appearance of thousands of quarters which bear no noticeable dates, which gave rise to a variety of rumors, all to the effect that some gigantic counterfeiting ring was flooding the country with spurious coins.

The reports gained such credence in the east, it is said, that several large mercantile establishments instructed their employes not to accept them.

The most frequently repeated of the rumors was that soviet Russia, burdened with a large surplus of silver for which it had no market, was taking advantage of the situation by minting the metal and shipping the spurious coins to the United States with the intention of undermining the American monetary system.

Investigation has shown, Capt. Callaghan said, that the coins are genuine and that the obliteration of the date was due to a fault in the die which caused the metal to wear away rapidly with handling.

SUMMON SPECIAL SCHOOL SESSION TO CUT EXPENSES

Board to Begin Budget Slashing Monday.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

President Lewis E. Myers yesterday called a special meeting of the school board for next Monday afternoon to cut expenses. The trustees are beginning to recognize that the board's $90,180,263 budget is impossible to finance.

It is likely that the board at this meeting will order economies totaling $962,932, on a yearly basis, as a starter toward a goal of $20,000,000 or more in savings.

Judging from talks with a majority of the trustees, the annual cost of the Normal college—the training school for teachers—will be eliminated in June. President Myers has repeatedly urged the closing of the school as an emergency measure.

Savage Plan Favored.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage said yesterday he will ask the board to require the students to pay the cost of the Normal school in tuition fees. It is reported probable that the Savage plan will be adopted Monday. The 1932 appropriation for the college is $275,893.

Another saving, totaling $561,000, was recommended by Dr. George D. Strayer, head of the Columbia university survey of the Chicago schools, in his preliminary report. He explained that the regular teachers of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades are now unoccupied part of the day while special teachers instruct the pupils in those grades.

He estimated that by having the regular teachers increase their average number of pupils from 34 to 40 and work full time a saving of $561,000 could be gained.

Will Not Hurt Service.

"This can be done," reads his report, "without seriously reducing the educational opportunities now being offered the children of these grades."

The board, it was said, will probably order Supt. Bogan to inaugurate that system as soon as the plan can be laid out.

A third saving, of $126,939, which was recommended by Dr. Strayer, is a reduction in the playground appropriation to the expenditures of last year. This saving was ordered in the finance committee when the budget was under discussion, but later this saving was discarded, according to Dr. Strayer. So the playground department knows how that saving can be accomplished, and it, too, can be accomplished at once.

A majority of the trustees said yesterday they see no good reason for delaying the necessary cuts in expenses despite the fact that the board on Wednesday, on motion of Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, voted to delay consideration of economies until they received the report of Dr. Strayer, which, he said, will be contained in ten volumes and delivered by June 1.

Favors Starting at Once.

"I favor starting at once," said Trustee Ernest Buehler. "He has given us a summary of all the economies he recommends, and we must go way beyond what he suggests."

"We cannot expect much more from the survey in recommended cuts," said Trustee James A. Hemingway. "Dr. Strayer did not discover much that will help us. Like other educators, he is all for education. He never referred to the Normal college or Crane college, and from his statement one must conclude that he favors the frills and fads in the school system. We should proceed at once."

"Why wait?" asked Trustee William D. McJunkin. "If we delay to read the ten volumes in the report, I can't see that that will be helpful. We are spending while we wait."

Costs Money to Wait.

"It is prudent that we start trimming expenses at once," said Trustee Orville J. Taylor, and Trustee Robert F. Carr added the same view.

"The longer we wait, the more we have spent, the deeper in debt we plunge and the more burden is placed upon the school system," commented President Myers. "I think the Normal college should be closed with an emergency measure in view of the fact that we have 2½ years' supply of teachers now on hand."

He added, when told of Trustee Savage's plan, that he will support that if it lifts the expense from the school treasury.

"I shall propose to the board that the students pay the cost of operating the Normal school," explained Trustee Savage. "Charge them a tuition. If bright pupils are unable to pay, charge it against them and deduct it from their salaries later."

Dr. Strayer, in his preliminary report, recommended a cut of $15,603,505, of which $11,757,036 was on buildings, sites and permanent improvements. This left $3,846,417 to be saved in current operation, on a yearly basis.

NO MORE FOOT MISERY

Just a touch or two of Ice-Mint and your foot troubles are soon over. No matter what you have tried or how many times you have been disappointed here is real comfort for your feet.

You won't have to cut a corn again or bother with bungling tape or plasters.

Hard horns, soft corns or germs between the toes shrivel up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful. No pain or soreness when applying Ice-Mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin.

Ice-Mint is certainly magical the way it draws out inflammation from swollen, burning, aching feet. Ice-Mint imparts such a delightful, soothing, coolness to the feet you sigh with relief. It is a real secret for fine, healthy feet. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who stand all day. It prevents foot odors and keeps feet sweet and comfortable.

Just ask in any drug store for Ice-Mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, swollen feet a real treat. There is nothing better.

FALSE TEETH Can Not Embarrass

Most wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little Fasteeth on your plates. Makes false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable. Sweetens breath. Get Fasteeth at Walgreen's or any other good drug store. 50 NUDIST MALES TO BE MAROONED ON PACIFIC ISLAND

Canada Has Room for Women in Prison.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13.—Having failed with fire hose and tickling powders to cure the British Columbia Doukhobor sect of its religiously motivated determination to walk the highways and byways in the nude, Canadian authorities have decided to maroon more than half a hundred convicted males on a Pacific island.

The decision was made by the federal government, to which the British Columbian authorities appealed in their dilemma of what to do with this embarrassing portion of its population.

Overflow Province's Prison.

There is no room for the men in the British Columbia penitentiary, although about an equal number of women Doukhobors, convicted of appearing in public minus clothing, are to be accommodated in the women's prison.

These Doukhobors will fight when authority endeavors to interfere with their nude parades. Several pitched battles between police and crowds of naked Doukhobor males have been fought in the Pacific coast province.

The women have joined in on the edges of the fray, a naked Amazon on one famous occasion being utilized to sit on a prostrate policeman while her companions battled the rest. During Canada's census taking effort a bevy of Doukhobor girls routed a census taking army by starting to strip as the law's officers came into view.

Resort to Hunger Strike.

NELSON, B. C., May 13.—(AP)—In protest against removal of the male children of the Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors to the Coquitlam Industrial home last night, more than 200 men and women members went on a hunger strike today, maintaining they were willing to die.

Orders for the trials of more than 200 men and women of the sect on charges of parading in the nude recently have arrived from the attorney general's department in Victoria.

ASK CERMAK AID IN A SEARCH FOR MISSING DOCTOR

Mayor Cermak yesterday was asked to aid in the search for Dr. Clifford R. Blankenship, a physician who disappeared from his home in Forest City, Ill., 50 miles west of Bloomington, on May 7, 1931. The request was made in a letter from Mrs. Florence Ruffner, of Topeka, Kas., where Mrs. Blankenship and her 11 year old daughter are now living with relatives.

Mrs. Ruffner said that the family had reason to believe that Dr. Blankenship had been forced to leave home by an international dope ring headed by four men and three women. She said that she believed Dr. Blankenship was being used to inspect narcotics shipped to Peoria or Chicago.

Before his disappearance, Dr. Blankenship was frequently absent from home for days at a time and could give no reason for these absences, according to Mrs. Ruffner. He told his wife, the letter said, that the life of their daughter had been threatened and that anything he did was for the safety of the child.

ADVANCE BREKKE IN TRY TO BREAK G. O. P. DEADLOCK

Seek New Compromise on County Committee.

In an effort to break the deadlock tying up the organization of the Cook county Republican central committee the west side group which has been backing George F. Barrett for chairman is now trying out Eden T. Brekke, a west park commissioner, as a candidate for the place.

EDEN T. BREKKE.

Without withdrawing from the race, former Judge Barrett has given his consent to his associates' efforts to see if they can muster a majority vote for Brekke. If they do so Barrett will step aside.

If the attempt to put Brekke over is unsuccessful the group then will put forward another west park commissioner, Edward F. Moore of the 20th ward, former deputy commissioner of public works and a labor leader. And until it is found that neither Brekke nor Moore can make the grade the west side group intends to maintain its unity, thereby blocking a harmony agreement on any candidate except one of its three.

Expect None Can Win.

And the indications are that neither Brekke nor Moore can win. George F. Harding on the south side and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson on the north side are said to control enough votes against Brekke to stop him. Those two leaders would accept Moore, but the country towns and some other elements of the committee are against the former deputy commissioner and doubt is expressed that a majority could be lined up for him.

There also is a possibility that if both the Brekke and Moore tryouts are failures the west siders may come back to Barrett as their candidate. What has stopped him so far has been the opposition of Harding, with the explanation that the south sider's ire was aroused by Barrett's opposition to United States Senator Glenn in the April primary. Some of the Barrett people, however, say that back of this situation is a Harding mayoralty movement among his supporters, a movement with which Barrett has declined to link himself.

Duel with Lances Over Handball Game; None Hurt

BUENOS AIRES, May 13.—(AP)—Ernesto Urdanis and Juan Carlos Planes, members of the fashionable Progreso club, fought a duel with lances today to settle a controversy arising from a handball game at which Señor Urdanis was a spectator and Señor Planes was a judge. After fifteen lance charges neither was wounded, so they made up.

STUDENTS EGG A COP; STAGG LECTURES THEM

Several hundred students of the University of Chicago started a huge bonfire in the middle of the campus last night and created so much disturbance that a motorcycle policeman tried to quiet them. He was pelted with eggs and retreated.

Alonzo A. Stagg, football coach, who is reputed never to have stayed up after midnight before, went to quiet the disturbers and after a lecture in which he called them all jackasses betook himself home in an electric automobile. The noise continued, but without damage.

It was explained the celebration was spontaneous and held only because there had been one like it last year.

About the same time freshmen students of Armour Institute of Technology built a number of bonfires at 32d street and Michigan avenue and then halted motorbuses, thrusting logs and stones under the wheels. Several squads of police scattered the students and started the vehicles on their way.

SCHOOL TAXES FACE FIGHT IN COUNCIL TODAY

The school tax levy and a resolution demanding cuts in governmental expenses will be the main subjects before a special meeting of the city council this afternoon. The call fixing the session for 2 o'clock was signed by Aldermen John S. Clark, James B. Bowler, Bryan Harinett, and William A. Rowan.

"The Chicago city government proper will save about 15 million dollars this year," explained Ald. Clark. "This is a cut of about 25 per cent, and all other tax spending bodies, including the federal government, should follow suit if the taxpayers are to be relieved.

"The school board has a 90 million dollar budget and I shall oppose its tax levy ordinance because the school board has declined, so far, to trim expenses so that its budget can be financed."

EVANSTON BUTCHER ROBBED.

John Kwiencinski, owner of a meat market at 1403 Greenleaf street, Evanston, was locked in the ice box of his shop yesterday by two bandits who robbed him of $76.

HOW PROHIBITION WRECKED POLICE FORCE IS TOLD

Unfold Story of Anderson Liquor Conspiracy.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—[Special.]—The demoralization of a police force under prohibition was vividly portrayed before Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell and a jury today as the government continued to pile up evidence in the alleged liquor conspiracy for which 14 police officials, politicians and alleged bootleggers of Anderson, Ind., are now on trial.

United States Attorney George R. Jeffrey sent before the jury a procession of reformed bootleggers, ex-policemen and former Anderson city employés to show that, despite the Volstead act and the Indiana bone dry law, liquor flowed freely in Anderson, a good part of it flowing down the gullets of the police executives themselves. In the face of this evidence the defense was reduced to attempting to show that the ex-dive keepers and policemen appearing for the government were as depraved as the defendants against whom they testified.

Mellett Paralysis Victim.

Despite the evidence of unbridled liquor guzzling, of policemen frequenting resorts they were supposed to raid, and of resort inmates arrested and mysteriously released, the government has so far failed to show the actual transfer of protection money from bootleggers to officials. The principal defendants are the former chief, Alvin Riggs, and the former night captain, Ralph Rich.

Sensational developments expected at the trial have been lost, due to the government's decision to withhold arraignment of the principal defendant, Mayor Jesse H. Mellett, who is bedridden with paralysis at his Anderson home.

Tells of Loan to Mayor.

The first direct attempt to involve Mayor Mellett in the conspiracy failed when the government called Pleasant T. (Kid) Reed, as the last witness of the day. On direct examination Reed testified that at the opening of the mayoralty campaign in 1928 Mellett told him he could win the race if he could get $1,500.

"I got him the loan from Claude O'Rourke of Indianapolis and my wife put up collateral," Reed testified. "The mayor told me he expected to make $200,000 during his term and the one who loaned him the money would make $60,000."

On cross-examination Reed said the mayor did not specify how he proposed to make the $200,000 nor pay the $60,000. It developed that O'Rourke's reward was an appointment as deputy health officer. The government then summoned Reed's wife. The court inquired what her testimony would show.

"We expect to prove that the mayor paid back the $1,500 in six months, although his yearly salary was only $1,500," said Mr. Jeffrey.

"I had expected some proof to link this testimony with the liquor conspiracy," said the judge. "If none is to be offered, let the witness be dismissed. The testimony is irrelevant."

Defendant on U. S. Pay Roll.

Earlier in the day Mellett's name was brought into the case by a government witness, Frank Francois, now an Indianapolis chef, who testified that in 1931, when he opened a roadhouse on the Anderson outskirts, he asked Mellett's permission to stage a free floor show at the county fair as an advertisement for his resort.

The mayor refused, he said, after consulting John Stinson, one of the present defendants. Although the government describes Stinson as head of one of the Anderson liquor syndicates, he, paradoxically, remains a federal pay roller, having been a substitute mail carrier for several years. In the event of his acquittal, he hopes to secure a permanent appointment as a postman.

Francois told a graphic story of police misconduct. The incident occurred during the American Legion convention in Anderson when he was operating the Toll Gate inn, he said.

4 MORE JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY GECHT KIDNAPERS

A second panel of four jurors was accepted yesterday in Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court to try Attorney Ward Swalwell and three other defendants for the kidnaping of Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia.

With eight jurors in the box, Judge Sullivan threatened to hold a full day session of court tomorrow unless the jury is complete by that time.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

Mrs. Emma Schwennesen, 58 years old, 5221 Kimball avenue, died yesterday of heart disease in her home.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul. skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

WAITING FOR MR. TROTZKY.

In the rough the point maintained against the packers is that they are suspect even in the merchandising of meat products and the government will not take a chance with them in anything else. They could economically extend their trade into other lines and tried to do so. It is said that bigness is not an offense, but the layman gets, if he does not instinctively have, the idea that it is.

Of course sharp practices are alleged, but there will be found a social theory running against freedom of private initiative when it would follow its logical courses. The packers may pack meat products, but they must keep away from other products the sale of which might be combined with their present business. The government asserts a policy against certain gainful pursuits and the courts sustain the government.

About the time the citizen thinks he perceives a definite idea in this policy of government he becomes aware that it does not hold good. Elsewhere he finds the government on the opposite side of the question. Agricultural producers are encouraged, almost coerced, into cooperative marketing designed to restrict production and increase prices. Combinations in restraint of trade are fostered and the government indicates its displeasure when resistance to the combinations is offered.

It is difficult to find the restraint of the packers and the encouragement of the agricultural producers in the same bolt of goods. These ideas seem rather to have been cut off different bolts. A government of one kind might be pursuing the one policy and a government of another kind the other policy. There are many other instances of this inconsistency, of this conflict in both theory and practice. The two presented will serve.

The idea which they have in common is not superficial, but it may be fundamental. The conciliation of the two divergent policies, of the eccentricities seemingly so amazing in American government, is to be found in the fact that it is headed for socialism or communism. In the regulation of the big capitalistic organizations the government approaches the expropriation of wealth, virtually conscripting, as in the case of the railroads, the services of executives for the management, limiting the revenue and substituting taxes for dividends.

When the confiscation has been extended further the government will have brought this part of the program to a communistic settlement. Any one who thinks that is not the end of the road has an unjustified confidence in the ability of private individuals to sustain the bureaucratic regulations and government tax levies and get anywhere else.

While one set of government bureaus, commissions and departments is making it impossible for industrialism to operate without the commissars another set is collectivizing the agricultural regions with the money taken from industry. There hasn't been an edict against private property, but government organized and subsidized groups are all over the place.

Mr. Trotzky, on enforced leave from the Russian government, would know exactly what to do with the material at hand if he were invited to come to America and, as affairs are being conducted here, this invitation may be the only way out.

ON TO KENTUCKY AGAIN.

At this writing another invasion of Kentucky is impending or is in progress, with or without the protection of the United States courts. In Bell and Harlan counties the ardent local authorities have marked all the roads "This way to the Egress" and have the boot ready. The new attempt to penetrate the toothpick belt is being made for the Civil Liberties union with Arthur Garfield Hays and Dudley Field Malone leading. Theodore Dreiser wishes them luck with the warning to beware of village capers outside their doors. Mr. Dreiser fell into the toothpick trap.

Mr. Smith, the fearless young prosecutor of Bell county, seems to have worked himself up into his best form for the occasion and says Kentucky will recognize its undesired guests as just another odor or two to be abated. The Cumberland escarpment has not known so much aboriginal excitement since the days of Boone and Harrod.

The probabilities do not give the New Yorkers much chance. They are not smart enough for these fundamentalists defending their young, their shires and sires, their hills and stills. The easterners can't climb the hills and trees as fast as the aborigines can and they'll have more occasion to. If it comes to argument the local metaphor will have the metropolitan groggy in one round and out in two. If New York were to have any chance at all in Harlan and Bell counties it would be with a group carefully selected from Tammany, the gang that got Legs Diamond and a few veterans of the bull market, if any. Even then it would not be much of a chance. The city is too little sophisticated.

A CHANCE TO CUT THE TAX BILLS.

In his interim report Dr. George Strayer of Columbia university advised the school board to reduce the appropriation for the building fund this year by close to 12 million dollars. The fact is that the expenditures have been reduced by something like that amount by the force of circumstances over which the school board has no control. The board has been unable to sell building fund tax anticipation warrants and every contractor knows it. Accordingly, the school building program has been scaled down.

The same thing happened last year. For 1931 the board asked the taxpayers to give 21 million dollars to the building fund, but the board spent considerably less than 10 million if the findings of the Sargent committee's experts are correct, as they no doubt are. This is important for the taxpayers. The 1931 tax bills will not be sent out for many months to come. The bills do not become delinquent until next March. Accordingly, it is still possible to give the taxpayers the full benefit of the 11 million dollar saving effected last year in school construction.

Eleven million dollars is a lot of money. It is about as much as the Cook county board receives in property taxes. The reduction of 11 million dollars in the tax levy means a blanket reduction of 4 or 5 per cent in every one's tax bills. That saving ought to be passed on as quickly as possible if only to encourage property owners to pay their taxes. Certainly there can be no justification in law or common sense for asking the property owners of Chicago to contribute 11 million dollars more for the support of their schools in 1931 than was actually spent in that year. The school board should lose no time in amending its 1931 levy to accord with the facts.

THE PRICE OF SENTIMENTALITY.

Arthur McNally, one of four gunmen who held up a florist shop a few days ago, was shot and killed by the proprietor.

McNally was 37 years old. He had a criminal record reaching back to 1914 when, at 19, he was convicted of manslaughter. Three years later he was released on parole. He had scarcely been freed when he was again arrested and convicted this time for robbery with a gun. He escaped from the Joliet penitentiary in 1920, was recaptured and held in Joliet until 1928, when he again was freed on parole. He was finally released from parole in February of this year and less than three months later was killed in the course of a robbery in which his intended victims were wounded.

McNally was a mad dog. Through causes which scientists do not understand and for which they have no cure he was an habitual criminal. It was murderous to release him from prison and folly, in view of his record, to assume that if released he would become a peaceful member of society.

The parole law was enacted by sentimentalists who shuddered to think of men being made to suffer prolonged imprisonment. In consequence, society is made to suffer instead. Habitual criminals are continually being released to rob and kill again. Once a man is clearly marked as an habitual offender he should be put away for the rest of his life. Good conduct under prison restraints—and McNally could not show even that excuse for being liberated—provides no basis for the belief that the habitual criminal, if released, will lead an honest life.

A TRUE PICTURE OF UNRECOGNIZED WORTH.

The first finance bill of the new Irish Free State government proposes to increase the tax on bachelors. This item, atom, or crumb of society is the victim, in more than one country, of a crazy social philosophy, of a doctrine which would find justification in some requirements of absolutism, but not in our day. A bachelor is a useful social creature. If he is fairly safe in his inveteracy—the best of them can be only fairly safe—he is relied on not to complicate human associations by getting lack eyed and breaking out in proposals of marriage. Emotional guaranties are desirable at times.

As a free man he is the most valuable emergency dinner guest and can be wished off on visiting cousins and aunts as if he were Greeter Gaw. In present conditions of population his celibacy has a social value which may be fairly well disclosed by the I. Q. tests, many election returns, the Congressional Record, the state of the stock market, and the opinions of leading economists. Fecundity has a lot to answer for.

With virtue, luck, or discretion the bachelor remains a useful member of society and, being without progeny, puts no burden on the public schools and the county relief. Even when he is broke he can usually manage on his own, and if he's feeble minded there's only one of him to become a charge on the state. An extremely valuable citizen the bachelor is, and when the country needs men in wartime he can be shunted to the front with a minimum of emotional and economic dislocation. If he is well to do his nearest of kin may be patriotically stirred to offer him on the altar of their country.

Instead of being made the victim of penalty taxes he could well be subsidized, when necessary, for the good of the state.

Editorial of the Day

[Detroit Free Press.]

The government's success in putting Al Capone behind the bars for a long term of years is a triumph of law and a serious blow to racketeering. At the same time it would be fatal to suppose that when the gates clanged on this particular gangster vice and crime were banished from Chicago and other large American cities. The fight against them has only begun.

Conditions breed criminals. Conditions make it possible for criminals to carry on their anti-social activities with greater or less freedom of action. As long as conditions favorable to such business as Capone engaged in exist there will be racketeers. Capone was not the first "big shot" in the game. Others will spring up to take his place if they are permitted to.

Any idea that Capone's conviction and incarceration has cracked all the gangs in the country would be a dangerous delusion. The chief value of the government's victory over Capone is that it shows the thing can be done, when it is gone about with sufficient intelligence, courage and determination. The racketeers already have learned this lesson from Capone's fate: As long as one pays his income tax he can get by with almost anything. Will the public generally take from it another lesson: The price of ultimate victory in the war on organized vice and crime in our big cities is eternal vigilance and unrelenting aggression against the forces of the underworld.

CHARACTER TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

A GREAT many thinking people are of the opinion that the financial difficulties in which the American people now find themselves result from a lack of what is sometimes called old fashioned morals and old fashioned religion. From the federal government down and from the high to the low of the people there is a lack of character and basic honesty. There has been a shortage of discipline and training and this, persisted in for generations, has caused a lack of respect for law, fair dealing, and fundamental honesty. Among governments and among individuals, if one could cheat or take an advantage, or play the game in an unfair manner, or secure a favor for himself at the cost of his neighbor, or get some advantage over his neighbor—do any one of these or all and "get away with it," the tendency was to look up to him. The children learned by example, if not by precept, that might made right, that nothing counted but thrills, that success wiped out all else, and that lawlessness in childhood went under the name "the spirit of youth," and in manhood made men great heroes.

There are many who say there will be no continued prosperity until we forget the fabulous "whoopee" stuff and balance all budgets from that of the capitol to that of the man in tin pan alley. Others go still further and say prosperity will not be here until we can bring up a generation trained from childhood on in the fundamental virtues.

In Long Beach, Cal., there is a children's clinic in which the training of children from babyhood on in character is an outstanding feature. In this clinic they teach mothers how to breast feed and also how to fix the baby's bottles, how to weigh, measure, and even how to clothe a baby. They teach mothers of older children how to keep their offspring growing normally in strength and vigor.

But, what is more important, they begin character building very early in life to be continued through all the formative years, at least. Young children are parasitic. Of course, some one owes them a living. They have no ideas of property. What they have they did not earn. Of course, they have a right to take what they want, regardless of whose it is. The desire to have is a fundamental urge in some cases. People call it an instinct, and instincts are so mysterious in their origin that some call them God-given. Why should so basic an urge to appropriate to oneself be crossed by man-made laws of property? Babies naturally steal, cheat, and disregard all social laws—only we give these proclivities other names.

Dr. G. Hardy Clark, who runs the clinic, starts when the child is less than two years of age to teach him to regard himself as a responsible member of the family. The property there, including the food on the table, is owned by all. The child is trained to contribute and to use with some regard for the rights of others. He is taught restraint and this leads him not to eat out of bounds; to play fair with his mother as well as with his brothers and sisters. This kind of training goes a long way toward protecting his health.

ACNE OF THE FACE.

J. O. B. writes: Is acne of the face contagious? The person who has this touches face with hands, but it does not seem to spread.

REPLY.

It is not. It is true that the difference between acne and pimples is that the former is due to infection of pimples by staphylococci. But nobody needs to "catch" staphylococci from anybody. Every man has his own supply of all germs. His skin is rich in them and his pockets are full of them.

EPILEPSY OPERATION.

Subscriber writes: What is the consensus with regard to trephining as a cure for epilepsy?

REPLY.

It is of service in Jacksonian epilepsy, if done properly. Otherwise it is of no service in any form of epilepsy.

COUNTY ROAD PAVING.

Chicago, May 5.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please find out definitely when Caldwell avenue is to be paved? This is a county road and has been up for paving several times but always has been put off. G. S.

REPLY.

In regard to the improvement of Caldwell avenue I wish to advise that the section between Cicero avenue and Gross Point road is now under contract and will be completed this summer. The section between Gross Point road and Harlem avenue is being planned and will be ready for construction during this summer.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

South Chicago, Ill., May 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Kindly advise me whether a collecting agency having an assignment against my wages can hold my wages or am I supposed to pay it up in full. My wages are not sufficient to meet their demand. How long is an assignment allowed to run and after how many days can I demand my check? 2. What can I do about filing bankruptcy? My indebtedness is about $758, including two household furniture loans. 3. Can the loan companies demand the payments which we cannot meet? 4. Can the loan companies hold me for anything? I have paid three years on their loans. 5. How do I go about filing bankruptcy and what is the minimum cost of doing so? F. A.

1. If the creditor is not a corporation organized under the small loans act he is entitled to enforce an assignment of your full wages. We assume that you do not mean garnishment.

2. It probably will be advisable for you to employ an attorney. You can examine the forms for petition and schedules at a stationer's.

3. Of course they can demand. They cannot collect if there is nothing to collect out of.

4. You do not give us the facts.

5. See preceding answers. Illinois cases have held that an assignment of wages is like a real estate mortgage in the sense that while bankruptcy can cut off personal liability on the note, it cannot cut off the creditors' right to look to the security. An assignment of wages, however, is valid only as to the employment you are in at the time of executing the assignment.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THINGS ARE NOT WHAT THEY USED TO BE.

She was a dear old soul and she sat on the bus and talked quite loudly of that horrible beer parade that Mayor Jimmie Walker is going to lead in New York tomorrow. "Ah," said the D. O. S., "do not those poor misguided men know that when a man drinks a glass of that hellish compound called beer he will go home and beat his poor little wife with a club and then chase his children screaming down the street as he pursues them with a butcher knife? I knew a man once, so good and kind he was, but a supposed friend enticed him to drinking a glass of beer. Crazed by the liquor, he secured a pistol and dashed about the town shooting down over a dozen eminent and respectable citizens before he was captured. And now they're going to have a parade to bring back beer. 'Twill be the ruination of the country!" We wanted to say a word, but it wouldn't have done a bit of good. The D. O. S. wouldn't have believed us even if we told her that one glass of beer was hardly sufficient to make a man go home and beat his wife. It would take at least two glasses, and even then no wife beating might result, not these days. For perhaps mamma had been drinking a little bootleg gin and when papa came home pie eyed from the effects of his two glasses of beer mamma would take him by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the pants and chuck him through the window. Ah, things are not as they used to be before Mr. Volstead became famous. All has changed, all has changed. But it's hard to make lots of people believe it.

STRAYED.

It spread so straight before me in the morning—
Signposts so clear, and not a curve in sight.
But somehow and somewhere I missed a warning.

I wandered through the woods, a bypath winding
And angling aimlessly—pleasant enough, thought I,
To roam awhile. The white highway was blinding,
And here were flowers to pluck as I passed by.

But with the dark regret came, and fear found me.
There were no signs to point me through the shade.
All of the birds were hushed that sang around me.
So soon the plucked wild flowers droop and fade!

It was so long before I reached the highway,—
So many weary hours of grief and pain
Before I found the road I knew was my way.
God,—do not let me ever stray again!

MARJORIE F. W.

YEAH, IT'S FRIDAY THE 13TH today, but whoinell cares? If any worse luck can happen to us on the thirteenth than on the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, and all the rest of any and all the months, let 'er happen. Come on, Friday the 13th, with your witches and black cats and hobgoblins and all your bag of tricks and see if we care. Bad luck! Say, Friday the 13th, you don't know what bad luck is.

AMERICA BREATHES free again—King George has held his first court since Uncle Andy Mellon has been ambassador and Uncle Andy wore long pants. Thus does our free and untrammeled government rise supreme over the dictates of time-shackled custom-bound oligarchies and principalities. Oh, say, can you see——

CONGRESS IS AWFULLY BUSY, there's no doubt about that, what with the budget shortage and the national debt jumping higher and higher every minute and all the rich that have to be properly soaked now and then and the problem of the unemployed and all that. So it had only three hours to devote to discussion whether the spelling should be changed from Porto Rico to Puerto Rico. They changed it. Bet the Democrats point with pride to that in their convention.

UP TO DATE, while there's been a lot of talk, about the only apparent difference between the De Valera government in Ireland and the Cosgrave rule is that the De Valera government has put a high tax on bachelors. Of course, that's something, but nothing to get especially excited about.

BALLADE IN PRAISE OF TOBACCO.

The snow was deep, the trail malign,
And scarce the hare and caribou,
But solace more than food and wine
Was a leaf well known to Crow and Sioux;
A sacred thing, that could endue
Fierce hearts with peace, while safe from wrong,
They smoked the pipe of Manitou,
The gift of a god to weak and strong.

Its curling smoke is more benign
Than fumes of roasted meat and stew,
A homelike, still more welcome sign
Than rises out of the chimney flue.
Good cheer has something more to do
A chummy pipe before you're through,
The gift of a god to weak and strong.

Oh, what a blessed anodyne
For jagged nerves and hearts askew
With trying to keep the young in line,
Or meeting payments overdue!
There's nothing sweeter to bake or brew
That heartens one to meet the throng
Of worries, like a puff, or two,
The gift of a god to weak and strong.

Hats off, Sir Walter, then, to you,
Who brought that curious weed along;
You were a clever man, who knew

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Who were the Troubadours?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

How did our universities originate?

ANSWER:

Medieval education was mostly by and for the church. In the early 13th century at Bologna in Italy a revived interest in Roman law attracted students, and at Salerno teachers of medicine drew pupils from many lands, while Paris became a center for theological study. A university was originally an incorporated group either of teachers to whom students resorted, or of students who hired, and fired, their professors. Popes and rulers gave privileges to these corporations, courses of study became organized, granting of degrees became common, buildings and endowments were accumulated, and by the 14th and 15th centuries scores of universities had been established, many of which, like Oxford and Cambridge, have had an unbroken existence ever since.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

REPUBLICAN—1868.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Gen. Ulysses S. Grant was unanimously nominated for President and Schuyler Colfax for Vice President at the National Union Republican convention.

The convention was held in the Chicago Opera House.

When it was announced that nominations for President were in order, Gen. John A. Logan of Illinois said: "In the name of the loyal citizens, soldiers, and sailors of the great republic; in the name of loyalty, liberty, humanity and justice, I nominate, as the candidate for the chief magistracy of the nation, Ulysses S. Grant."

Here there was a storm of applause. A lady in the gallery let loose a tri-colored pigeon and the band played "Hail to the Chief." The secretary then called the roll. Every vote of every state was for Grant.

DEMOCRATIC—1868.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A grand stampede of the delegates of the national Democratic convention gave Horatio Seymour of New York the presidential nomination, and Frank P. Blair was nominated for Vice President. Seymour had insisted until the last he was not a candidate.

The convention was held in the New Tammany hall.

On the final, the 22d ballot, after California voted solid for Hendricks, and New York adhered to him, Gen. MacCook of Ohio said:

"I arise, Mr. Chairman, to place again in nomination, against his inclination, the name of Hon. Horatio Seymour. Let us vote for a man whom the presidency has sought, but who has not sought the presidency."

He cast the 24 votes of Ohio for Seymour. The roll call then proceeded, state after state changing its votes to Seymour. The confusion attending the balloting was so great not a word could be distinguished of what anybody said. Mr. Seymour was, however, clearly nominated.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 13, 1916.

DUBLIN.—Official announcement of the execution of two more of the leaders in the recent Irish rebellion has brought about a storm of indignation in this city. The opinion of all classes is that enough men have been put to death to show the British government's intention to stamp out treason at any cost and it is declared by many Irish leaders who are loyal to the government that further executions will be regarded only as persecution.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Col. Milton J. Foreman of the 1st Illinois cavalry spent the day in conference with war department officials on business pertaining to the preparedness of his regiment for service on the border should the President call out additional units of the National Guard.

REMOVING THE DEADWOOD.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Congressman James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, on Saturday last made a valuable suggestion with reference to reducing the cost of the federal government. [Congressional Record, page 10072.] I hope the press of the country will give it the emphasis it deserves.

It is that the power to remove the deadwood in the departments is already in the hands of the President. If it is not exercised it is the executive's fault, not that of congress.

Mr. Beck referred to the removal from office case of Myers, administratrix, vs. United States [272 U. S. 52-295], decided in 1926. It was then held for the first time that even in the case of one whose tenure of office is fixed, and whose original appointment must be made with "the advice and consent of the senate," he may nevertheless be removed by the executive before his term of office expires and without the consent of the senate.

A fortiori, this power of removal exists in the case of subordinate appointees without fixed tenure of office. "It was very early adopted as the practical construction of the constitution that this power was vested in the President alone." See Ex Parte Hennen [13 Peters 230], decided in 1839, almost 100 years ago.

Title 4 of the omnibus economy bill recently passed by the house gives the executive board powers to consolidate and reduce the agencies of government and to eliminate duplications. The Supreme court holds that he has the power to dismiss useless and superfluous appointees at his pleasure.

If the President will now get rid of the waste, extravagance, duplications, and deadwood in the department we can afford to pay a living wage to the faithful men and women who are carrying on the essential services of government. Get rid of the shirkers and pay the workers.

As Mr. Beck says, "If the President would tell each member of his cabinet to appoint three discreet men to go through each department and ascertain the employés that did not do an honest day's work it would develop at once why this government is the most overmanned government in the world."

Mr. Beck puts the matter squarely up to the President.

MILK STORES.

Chicago, May 10.—It seems to the writer that the milk companies, if really interested in reducing prices to the public, could start milk stores, thus eliminating some of the drivers and wagons. They would be very much surprised at the milk that would be sold over the counter, if sold at a lower price than for delivery. LEONARD HENRY.

A LAWYER'S FEE.

It cost us exactly $250 lawyer's fees to keep a foreclosure on one $100 bond issue out of the courts. Every bondholder, of which there were some two hundred, signed up to allow a continuance except this one particular party, who, when we tried to settle with him, referred us to his lawyer. In addition to paying the $100 on the bond, we were forced to pay the lawyer $250 on top of it.

I called the Chicago Bar association and told them about this fee and they politely said that the only alternative was to hire our own lawyer and go to court.

It took not much more than a half hour's time to settle this matter out of court. Will some one kindly explain, then, why the outrageous fee? F. F.

STREET CAR WAGES.

Chicago, May 5. — The company officials of the Chicago Surface Lines say it is imperative that their 15,500 employés accept a 10 per cent wage cut May 21. They conveniently forgot to mention that this is their second cut in less than one year.

The public is not aware that, commencing last June, every employé of this company has been laid off every seventh day and on Saturday they lose Saturday and Sunday. Schedules have been shaved to such a low minimum that their earning capacity has been reduced far more than 10 per cent. The company has removed half the runs from the street, while the patrons cheerfully wait from eight to twelve minutes, rain or shine, for a chance to hang on the step and pay the same fare they paid during the war.

The Chicago Surface Lines has the lowest accident rate of any street car company in the world, due entirely to the efficiency of its employés. Cost of operation has been cut more than 50 per cent.

They contemplate another 10 per cent cut for the men; but a 5 cent fare, Mr. Mayor? Impossible! M. C.

PRECAUTION.

Chicago, May 7.—On April 30, pay day, I had the misfortune to lose my bill fold. In these days of depression I hardly blame any one for keeping what they find, but out of $50 it would seem the finder could afford to spend two cents for postage to return identification cards and papers, etc., instead of throwing them away. Perhaps it would be a good suggestion to carry a stamped, self-addressed envelope with a note to finder, in case of loss, to keep the money and bill fold, if he or she needs it more than I do, but as a measure of fairness to please return the papers and other articles that have no value except to the owner. Do you think even that would be too much to ask? C. M. W.

VON HINDENBURG WINS CONTROL OF ARMY AND NAVY

Gen. Groener, Minister of Defense, Resigns.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 12.—Germany took one step nearer to a two-man dictatorship — President Paul von Hindenburg and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening—today.

GEN. WILHELM GROENER. [Assoc Press Photo.]

The reichstag, as a result of scenes created by Adolf Hitler's National Socialists, was suddenly adjourned after Gen. Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense and of the interior, had resigned from the former post, returning the full control of the army and navy into the hands of Von Hindenburg.

Bruening emerged stronger from today's fray when the reichstag rejected a motion of non-confidence against the government and after it adopted his finance bills, including a lottery loan, by a vote of 287 to 257.

Von Hindenburg in Charge.

Von Hindenburg's power was increased through the fact that Gen. Groener, who heretofore headed the army and navy and was responsible to the reichstag, resigned the defense ministry. This puts Von Hindenburg directly at the head of all the generals and admirals outside the control of the reichstag.

The Hitlerites made it easy for the government forces to decree an adjournment. While the reichstag was quietly discussing the legal status of married women officials and decreeing their retirement if their husband's earn enough to keep them, the Hitlerites were on the war path.

In the reichstag restaurant they espied Dr. Helmuth Klotz, former naval officer and a former Hitlerite, who said he resigned from the party because he had found that the Hitlerites failed to act against the homosexuals in their ranks. Dr. Klotz published letters from the chief of the Nazi storm troops, Ernst Roehm, revealing a homosexual scandal.

Beat Him in Café.

The Hitlerites beat Klotz in the restaurant and continued to beat him when he was trying to identify his assailants in the lobby. The police were called. Four Hitlerites were identified as Klotz's assailants.

They were ordered expelled from the chamber for thirty days. They refused to leave.

Paul Loebe, speaker, tried to carry on the session, but when the reichstag learned that the Hitlerites had summoned the young wife of their victim to "view his remains," the members insisted that the Hitlerites be ousted immediately. The reichstag was then adjourned.

Police Cause Outburst.

For the second time in the history of the German parliament a police squad was called in Through a tiny door leading to the rostrum reserved for cabinet members thirty policemen, headed by Isidor Weiss, assistant chief, strode over the desks and seats of the cabinet ministers and dropped alongside the Hitlerites.

Their appearance caused a great outburst. Nazi members booed and cried: "Out with Isidor, the swine!" The police were dissuaded from making arrests when the Hitlerites promised that Klotz's assailants would appear in court. The four deputies will be tried tomorrow.

Hitlerites, communists, and Nationalists tried to enforce an immediate convocation of the reichstag, but the committee of elders decided against their setting a date. A new date was tentatively set, however, for June 6.

Today's brawl in the reichstag was echoed in Lichtening, a Berlin suburb, tonight when two marked communists fired at a group of Nazis in a saloon, killing one and wounding four.

"LOVE SLAVERY" SUIT OPENS IN NEW YORK COURT

Chicago Woman and Son Co-Defendants.

New York, May 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Selma C. Young of Chicago and New York, and her world war hero son, Otto Heyworth, were made defendants in a $250,000 "love slavery" suit which went to trial in Supreme court here today.

OTTO HEYWORTH.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Gerteress O'Connor, saleswoman in a Boston dress shop. Mrs. O'Connor alleges the abduction and seduction of her daughter, Mona, by young Heyworth four years ago. The jury was told—by Arthur F. Driscoll, lawyer for the plaintiffs—that Mrs. Young had "persuaded her son to take the girl to Bermuda with him," and given an ample allowance to cover the expenses of his "outing."

Lived as Man and Wife.

"He was given $400 to start with," Driscoll said, "and received $300 a week while in Bermuda, where he and this girl lived as man and wife. Mrs. Young even sent her younger son, with a tutor, to be with them in Bermuda. You may say that is unnatural, but it happened."

He explained that Mrs. Young had thus "aided and abetted her son in abducting Mona O'Connor because she wanted him to have the companionship of a pure young girl."

The Other Side of Case.

He further asserted that young Heyworth, who is now in a sanitarium, had given Mona to understand that they would be happily married as soon as matrimonial difficulties he had on his hands at that time were out of the way.

The other side of the picture was sketched by Frederic Coudert Jr., counsel for Mrs. Young, who told the jury that this charge against his client was "fantastic," and told how Mrs. Young had made every effort to end her son's relations with Mona. He said the friendship came to a "natural" end when young Heyworth's bank rolls faded away.

WINDOW WASHER KILLED.

Otto Anderlohr, 53 years old, 3003 North Ashland avenue, a janitor, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell four floors while washing windows at 1309 Astor street.

One to Japan

The Kofshinfha Dairy company, of Tokio, Japan, yesterday purchased a purebred Guernsey bull for $375 at the national Guernsey sale here at the Chicago Guernsey farm in Hinsdale. The bull will be shipped to Japan to head the herd of 70 milch cattle which the Japanese concern has purchased recently in the United States. The 60 head sold at the sale yesterday brought an average price of only $334. Howard Heinz, pickle manufacturer, bought a bull for $275.

RED TAPE MAY HALT FOOD FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

Official red tape tying up the machinery of the Emergency Relief commission may leave 108,000 destitute families in Cook county without food, Joel D. Hunter, chairman of the advisory board of the commission and head of the United Charities of Chicago, told the public welfare committee of the county board yesterday.

"One of the largest chain stores which holds food contracts with the commission has threatened to refuse to honor ration orders issued after Saturday," Mr. Hunter said. "We face the loss of our food supply because of the fact that the state has not paid outstanding bills, although the money is available.

"The fault is entirely with the state, due to the fact that bills must be audited and approved by three state departments and apparently one department hesitates to accept the audit of another."

A meeting of the state officials and the relief commission representatives was called for today at the offices of the Emergency Relief commission.

1,000,000 WATCH BODY OF DOUMER CARRIED TO GRAVE

France Pays Final Tribute to Martyred President.

PARIS, May 12.—(AP)—Paul Doumer, France's assassinated president, was buried today with public ceremonials of great majesty and impressiveness and with private rites of the utmost simplicity. It was such a funeral as Paris had not seen since the beloved Papa Joffre, hero of the Marne, was buried in January, 1931.

Fully a million persons thronged streets and squares to watch the funeral procession pass from Elysée palace to Notre Dame cathedral, where the requiem mass was sung, and then to the Pantheon, where the dead statesman was eulogized by Premier Andre Tardieu as "the supreme type of democrat."

Among the participants in the public ceremony were tens of thousands of the soldiers of France, a king, and four royal princes, and the diplomats of virtually every nation of the world.

Simple Rites at Grave.

When the public funeral was over the body was taken from the Pantheon to the Doumer family vault at Vaugirard cemetery. There it was laid to rest beside the four sons whom Doumer gave to France in the world war.

Only the widow, the one surviving son, and other members of the family took part in the simple rites at the cemetery.

The body was borne from Elysée palace to Notre Dame on an artillery caisson. It passed between lines of silent Parisians, held back by soldiers in horizon blue, who stood almost shoulder to shoulder along the entire route. Lamp posts along the street were draped in black. Muffled drums beat time for the procession.

Members of the family, with the exception of Mme. Doumer, marched on foot behind the caisson. After them came officials of the president's military and civil household, the officers carrying swords wrapped in crepe. Then came Albert Lebrun, President Doumer's successor, who walked alone and bareheaded. He wore the broad red cordon of the Legion of Honor.

Royalty in Procession.

Others in the procession included King Albert of the Belgians, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Aosta of Italy, Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia and the young emperor of Annam. Ambassador Walter E. Edge represented the United States and Dr. Leopold von Hoesch served as the special envoy of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany.

HOLD MEMORIAL RITES FOR SLAIN FRENCH LEADER

A memorial service for Paul Doumer, assassinated president of France, was conducted at Holy Name cathedral yesterday morning. It was attended by state and municipal dignitaries, army and navy officials, representatives from all consulates, and delegates from veterans' organizations.

The Rev. J. Belanger of Notre Dame church conducted solemn requiem mass assisted by the Rev. Joseph Le Marre and the Rev. John J. O'Mara. The Rev. Harold Darche of Bradley, Ill., preached the sermon. A salute was fired on State street outside the cathedral by an infantry company from Fort Sheridan, and taps were sounded at the conclusion of the service.

JUDGE DISMISSES THE RECEIVER OF WAUKEGAN BANK

Orders Speed in Settling Depositors' Claims.

Quick action in settling the affairs of the defunct Waukegan State bank was demanded yesterday by Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in Waukegan. He dismissed the bank's receiver, directed State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county to call the directors to a meeting tomorrow to discuss their liability, and ordered that steps be taken to recover $841,000 of the bank's securities. He also refused a continuance to William H. Miller, one of the directors indicted on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF

Judge Shurtleff said there had been too much delay in the proceedings following the closing of the bank June 18, 1931. His only criticism of Fred B. Whitney, the receiver, who is a Waukegan attorney, was of inactivity, he declared.

Offers Job to Court Clerk.

The court offered the receivership to L. J. Wilmot, clerk of the Circuit court, but Wilmot declined. A new receiver is to be appointed today.

Judge Shurtleff indicated he believes the bank directors are civilly liable to depositors because of negligence in administering the finances of the bank. He believes they can be held accountable over and above their double liability as stockholders. Alvah L. Rogers, who was the receiver appointed to sue under the stockholders liability law, was told to proceed against them. Rogers was directed to file a petition immediately for a ruling on the demurrer offered by the stockholders to the suits already started.

Orders Action Against Bank.

"A proper petition should be filed at once for a court order directing the Central Republic Bank and Trust Company of Chicago to return $841,000 in securities," Judge Shurtleff added. "Then there will be a hearing on the merits of the claim that they were collateral for a loan and whether the Chicago bank can be considered a preferred creditor."

Acting on the Miller indictment Judge Shurtleff denied a motion for a delay and then sustained 10 of the 11 counts in the indictment. He ruled that the state need not furnish the defense with a list of witnesses who testified before the grand jury against Miller as they are unlikely to be called at the trial.

Miller was indicted with Norman O. Geyer, president of the bank; George Woodruff, formerly of the National Bank of the Republic; John Murray Connors, former vice president of the Waukegan bank, and State Auditor Oscar Nelson. Nelson, Woodruff, and Geyer obtained a change of venue to McHenry county. Connors elected to stand trial before Judge Ralph J. Dady, from whom Miller obtained a change of venue, although deciding to stand trial in Lake county. That is why Miller is being tried alone.

Outlines Charges.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith outlined the charges to the jury panel. The indictment alleges that the defendants made false and fraudulent representations to the depositors and the public regarding the condition of the bank and that, through false statements of the bank, conspired to keep it open after it was insolvent.

Eight jurors had been selected when court adjourned. The balance are expected to be obtained today. The defense used five of its ten peremptory challenges and the state used three in eliminating men from the jury. Four were excused for cause.

KARNES OF FLOSSMOOR IS MADE EDITOR OF U. OF I. YEAR BOOK

W. G. KARNES.

The selection of W. G. Karnes of Flossmoor as editor of the Illio, University of Illinois year book, was announced yesterday by the Student Publication board. Karnes is completing his sophomore year at the university and is studying law. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman scholarship fraternity, and Alpha Alpha Alpha, honorary prelegal fraternity.

R. M. Young of Chicago was named business manager.

APPROVE PLANS FOR STATE'S 1933 FAIR BUILDING

The Illinois World's Fair commission yesterday approved plans for a host's building for the fair in a meeting at the administration building of the Century of Progress exposition. The commission also voted to rent space for the state in the States building, the Agricultural building and the Social Arts and Sciences building.

The host's building is to be erected east of Soldiers' field and is to be 200 feet long by 100 feet wide, and topped by a 70 foot tower. In this building representatives of other states and countries are to be entertained. The plans were prepared by State Architect Charles Herrick Hammond.

The greater portion of the space to be rented by the state will be in the Hall of States, which is to be erected on the northerly island. The Agricultural building is also to be on the northerly island and the Social Arts and Sciences building will be on the mainland.

Work on the Agricultural building and on the superstructure of the bridge to connect the northerly island with 16th street was begun yesterday.

RIVER CONGRESS URGES PLANKS ON WATERWAYS

Resolutions urging the continued development of the inland waterways will be adopted by the National Rivers and Harbors congress when it meets at the Congress hotel on June 13, Clarence B. Douglas, special representative of the war department for federal barge lines, said yesterday.

The congress is to meet the day before the Republican national convention and the resolutions will urge both political parties to adopt strong waterway planks at their national conventions here, according to Mr. Douglas. Some 2,000 members are expected to attend the meeting, which was called by Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora, president.

Mr. Douglas said the resolutions would not urge specific or immediate appropriations, but the continued development and improvement of all the waterways, such as the government is doing on the Illinois waterway, scheduled for completion by Oct. 15.

ONE-THIRD OF GAS LOST, BUT AKRON AGAIN TAKES AIR

Camp Kearny, Cal., May 12.—(AP)—Hampered by the loss of helium gas, the navy dirigible Akron sailed northward along the California coast tonight on the last stage of an uninterrupted flight to her base at Sunnyvale, Cal., near San Francisco.

Thirty-three per cent of the gas, which provides the lifting power of the huge air cruiser, was reported lost in the delayed crossing of the continent and the maneuvering to make an emergency mooring here yesterday in which two bluejackets were killed.

The Akron cast off with a personnel of 56 instead of 80. Two officers and 22 men were ordered off the ship by Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl to lighten the load. They proceeded by naval transport planes.

Will Follow Coast Line.

Rosendahl announced the shore line would be followed and all mountains would be avoided on the 500 to 600 mile flight. He hoped to reach San Francisco bay by dawn tomorrow. The weather was reported clear throughout California, but with some fog along the coast.

An ample supply of helium to replenish the gas cells of the dirigible awaits the sky queen at Sunnyvale and aboard the fuel carrier Patoka in San Francisco bay. Eight hundred thousand cubic feet of gas is stored in metal "flasks" at the base and another 600,000 cubic feet is aboard the Patoka.

The Patoka was ordered to remain behind when the fleet left San Francisco today for maneuvers at sea. The fuel carrier is equipped with a mooring mast and was ordered to "assist the Akron in any way considered desirable or necessary."

Gas Supply Sufficient.

The normal gas volume of the Akron is 6,500,000 cubic feet, so the supply of 1,400,000 cubic feet of helium available would be more than enough to replenish the ship. It was believed the Akron would require about 1,145,000 cubic feet to bring the gas supply to normal.

Instead of the scheduled three day trip from Lakehurst, N. J., to Sunnyvale this was the fifth day of the voyage. No maneuvers with the fleet will be attempted until after the landing at Sunnyvale.

Four thousand gallons of fuel and 4,000 gallons of water were taken on by the dirigible here.

Just before the departure Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl was summoned before a naval court of inquiry into the deaths of Robert Edsall and Nigel Henton, ground crew men, killed in mooring the ship yesterday. The hearing was secret.

YOUTH KILLED MOORING AKRON WROTE MOTHER HE HOPED TO HELP

Elkhart, Ind., May 12.—(AP)—"Boy! I hope we do get to help moor the Akron! That's something to write home about."

Mrs. Lottie Edsall read these words Tuesday in a letter from her son, Robert, 20, from his naval training quarters on the Pacific coast. He had written her the letter on Mother's day.

Last night, as she and the boy's father, Jay J. Edsall, returned home, they received a telegram from the naval authorities telling of his death while attempting to moor the giant airship.

The parents said his body will be brought to Elkhart, accompanied by his "buddy" in the service, David Loose of Chicago, who enlisted with young Edsall July 2, 1930, and had been with him since they entered the Great Lakes Naval Training station together.

AKRON'S DELAY RUINS HOT DOGS BY THOUSANDS

Sunnyvale, Cal., May 12.—(AP)—What Sherman said about war goes for the belated arrival of airships in peace time maneuvers, some 500 or more proprietors of hot dog and refreshment stands have agreed.

Expecting the Akron by Tuesday afternoon at the latest, many of the concessions near the navy's new lighter than air base were on leases as short as 36 hours. These expired while the world's largest sky liner was still several hundred miles away. Automobile parking space speculators were similarly affected.

One particular enterprising hot dog vendor had more than 4,000 dirigible shaped buns ready for the meat and mustard early Tuesday morning, only to have them start shriveling up.

MASSIES ENTER SOCIAL LIFE AS SHIP NEARS U. S.

S. S. MALOLO, May 12.—(AP)—As the Malolo speeds them from the scene of their trials, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, his wife, and her mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, are entering more fully into the ship's social life.

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE ON STREET; THEN KILLS SELF

Estranged Couple Quarrel Before Shooting.

Ture Anderson, 35 years old, 742 West 59th street, shot and killed his estranged wife, Clara Norlin Anderson, 35 years old, a domestic, at Wellington avenue and Broadway yesterday afternoon and then shot himself in the left temple. He died two hours later in the John B. Murphy Memorial hospital.

CLARA NORLIN ANDERSON.

Witnesses said they saw the couple quarreling at the northeast corner of the intersection. Anderson drew a revolver and fired four shots into his wife, put the gun to his head and fired another shot. He fell across his wife's body. Other witnesses reported seeing a brunette woman battling with a blond woman at a nearby corner a short time before the shooting. The dead woman was a brunette.

Police believed the wife had surprised her husband with another woman and was shot by him when she remonstrated with him after driving the other woman away. In investigating the theory Capt. Al Christiansen of the Sheffield avenue station learned that a woman pressed through the throng about the bodies and shouted that the dead man was her husband. She left in a taxi, ordering the driver to go to 5717 Winthrop avenue.

At the address Capt. Christiansen found Mrs. Edith Miller and her husband, Robert, who bore a resemblance to Anderson. Police found the couple quarreling. Mrs. Miller denied having an altercation with another woman over her husband, although she said she was at the corner shortly before the shooting and had thought the wounded man was her husband. The Millers were ordered to appear at the inquest.

Finger prints of Anderson were taken on the possibility he might have had a police record when it was learned the address found on letters in his pockets was one at which he merely received mail.

Aviation Notes

Henry Hansen, president of the Chicago Balloon club, has entered a balloon in the national balloon race for the Litchfield trophy, to start at Omaha, Neb., on May 30, the last day of the three day Omaha air races. The winner of the race will be a member of the United States team in the international race at Basel, Switzerland, in September. Other members of the team are Ward T. Van Orman and his aid, Alan T. MacCracken, and Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, U. S. N., and Lieut. Wilfred Bushnell, U. S. N., his aid.

A surveyors' instrument, the transit compass, is being tested by United Air Lines at Chicago airport to determine its suitability for the inspection of alignment of parts of large passenger planes.

Husband and Wife Found Shot to Death in Home

August Sass, 62 years old, and his wife, Minnie, 52 years old, were found shot to death yesterday in their bed at 5702 Dakin street. Police said Sass had killed his wife and then shot himself. The couple had been dead for several days. Sass, a widower, moved from his farm on Harlem avenue northwest of the city to the Dakin street address several years ago, and remarried last year, relatives told police. They said that he had worried recently over ill health.

THREE GUILTY IN WAUKEGAN LABOR TERRORISM TRIAL

A verdict was returned by a jury in the Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday, finding three men alleged to have used terrorism in forcing their control over union workers in Lake county guilty of conspiracy. The defendants were fined $480 each.

They are Charles Heintelman, 48 years old, 2017 North California avenue; Leonard Murphy, 34 years old, of Niles Center, and Clifford Snyder, 29 years old, a former motorcycle policeman, of Deerfield.

James G. Welch, their attorney, requested a new trial. This motion will be argued next week. It was charged at the trial that Heintelman and his two aids compelled O. J. Burandt of Waukegan to resign as business agent.

GET PROTECTION OF U. S. JUDGE AT KENTUCKY MINES

Liberties Union Lawyers Deny They're Reds.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

London, Ky., May 12.—[Special.]—The Civil Liberties union delegation will go to Pineville probably tomorrow afternoon under the personal protection of Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran of the eastern district of Kentucky. In Pineville the visitors, considered by many to be affiliated with the communists, will hold a mass meeting at which personal liberty will be discussed.

Judge Cochran made his decision late tonight at the close of a long session after debate had been heard on the plea for an injunction restraining county authorities in Bell and Harlan counties from interfering with the union's plans. The judge, however, said the hearings would be resumed tomorrow morning as he wanted the "Pineville authorities to say all they wanted to in court before their visitors were received."

Does Not Indorse Trip.

"I'll go down there and protect you," said Judge Cochran, "but I want it understood I do not approve of the visit. I do not indorse your going there. There has been too much investigating by outsiders already.

"I think it would be a mistake not to allow this delegation to go if its members insist on going. I do not think any one will hurt them while I am along. If the spirit moves me I may have something to say myself at the meeting."

Earlier in the evening, following an exchange of repartee between Arthur Garfield Hayes, leader of the delegation, and Walter B. Smith, Bell county prosecutor, regarding the right of a county officer to deport unwelcome callers from the county, Judge Cochran said:

"I take the position that no one should be permitted in a county when their presence there is calculated to disturb the peace."

Remove Injunction Demand.

The solution of the question of permitting the investigators to enter a community in which they are not wanted by county authorities and a large part of the citizenship is expected to remove any further demand for an injunction. Mr. Hays and his associate on this trip, Dudley Field Malone, said they considered the judge's decision "a great victory for free speech and assembly." They said the meeting in Pineville would be held at any time set by the court and that, so far as they were concerned, it would be peaceful.

Prosecutor Smith, questioned on the stand by Mr. Hays, refused to say he would use his office to protect the members of the delegation.

"If you were a law abiding citizen you would not need protection," he told Mr. Hays, "but I will not protect you. All I can say is that I would endeavor to make your stay an interesting one."

Most of the night session was given over to the examination of Prosecutor Smith and his authority to forbid certain groups to enter Bell county by Attorney Hays. There was only one time at which the argument grew heated.

Mr. Smith in the course of a long speech referred to Mr. Malone as "a New York divorce lawyer." Mr. Malone strode to the witness chair and rebuked Mr. Smith for so designating him. Judge Cochran refused to reprimand Mr. Smith. Afterwards Mr. Smith referred to Mr. Malone as "a fine gentleman" and as "one member of the party I would endeavor to protect."

Arguments had been offered by Hays and Malone, New York lawyers heading the delegation, and by N. R. Patterson of Pineville, Ky., speaking for the county officers against whom a restraining injunction was being sought.

Seven witnesses were heard, six being members of the union delegation. Each one painted a snow white picture of the Civil Liberties Union and insisted to the judge and the crowd of more than 300 persons jammed into the courtroom that they had no desire to cause any agitation or disturbance in Harlan or Bell county.

Mr. Hays read extracts from correspondence between himself and Walter B. Smith, Bell county prosecutor, making frequent references to a so-called "mad dog" letter in which Mr. Smith threatened to "treat the union delegation just as he would a mad dog."

Hays said he feared bodily harm, that he had to go into Bell county whether he wanted to or not in order to uphold his honor.

"So," said Judge Cochran, "because he made a dare and mentioned a mad dog, you are bringing a lawsuit. Now I don't approve of that letter for it is the cause of all this trouble. Now what do you want to do if I should let you go down there? What in the name of common sense would you do

"We would like to arrange a mass-meeting in or near Pineville," said Hays, "to which every one would be invited and at which we would discuss civil liberties. Then I would like to talk with lawyers and authorities about certain legal cases."

ONLY 5 RAPISTS SENT TO PRISON OUT OF 53 CASES

Blame Growth of Crime on This Leniency.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Mason Richardson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Albert Silva, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Charles F. Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; John Burkley and Earl Moore, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Figures were compiled yesterday by the Chicago Crime commission showing that out of 53 criminal court cases in which the defendants were indicted for assault to rape or attempt to commit rape only five men were sent to prison. The figures were made public after police reported an increase in the crime of rape, which, the commission said, reflects undue leniency toward this class of criminals.

The increase in rape cases has caused State's Attorney Swanson to instruct his assistants to urge the courts and juries to inflict heavy penalties upon such criminals. Life imprisonment is the maximum punishment, and it should be given rapists who commit the crime through force and violence or by threats with a revolver or other weapon, Mr. Swanson declared.

Age Does Not Enter Into Case.

In the crime of attempted rape or assault to rape the element of the age of the victim does not enter into the case, Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, explained. The intentions of a defendant are assumed under the law to be the worst, he said, since every case must of necessity have involved violence and the attempted use of force.

The penalty for attempted rape is 1 to 14 years in prison. However, the courts or juries may find the defendant guilty of a lesser offense, such as simple assault. Col. Chamberlin said that is what has happened in several of the cases reviewed.

The records in the 53 cases showed the following dispositions: Sent to prison, 5; short sentences in the house of correction or county jail, 6; put on probation, 6; fined, 3, the fines being $30, $50, and $100; not guilty, 16; dismissed without trial, 17.

In one probation case a warrant was subsequently issued charging violation of probation. In the others, according to the social service department of the state's attorney's office, no further complaint was made.

Charges Dismissed.

A charge of attempted rape was dismissed in the Felony court by Judge Howard Hayes yesterday when the alleged victim failed to appear. The defendants were Donald Avis, 29 years old, 3812 Pine Grove avenue, and Charles Frankey, 29 years old 3744 Pine Grove avenue. The complainant was Mrs. Alice Thompson, 38 years old. The men were arrested when a policeman heard her screams.

"She told me over the telephone she is over 21 years old and knows what she is doing," Prosecutor Frank Mast explained in court. "I don't believe she is acting in good faith."

Frankey admitted he had struck the woman. On his plea of guilty to assault he was fined $5.

Three Youths Held.

Three young men were ordered held yesterday by the Kensington police on charges of contributing to the delinquency of three girls, two of them 15 year old students of the Curtis Junior High school. The youths are George Miller, 18 years old, 345 East 134th street; Nicholas Muller, 22 years old, 13355 Indiana avenue; and Alfred Ballard, 20 years old, 13768 Lyden avenue.

The youths were arrested Wednesday following an investigation by the truant officer and the dean of girls of the school into continued absences of two of the girls from classes. The third girl, who is 18, signed a complaint against one of the youths charging him with contributing to her delinquency before she became of age. A fourth complainant is another 18 year old girl. The youths are to be arraigned today in the South Chicago court.

Models Show Styles

The "Helen Wills bob," suggested by the bob which the tennis star recently affected, was among the hair coiffures displayed on models in the Hotel Sherman yesterday in a contest for "the most perfect summer bob for 1932." It was the preliminary judging in a contest sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association for its 1,000 members and will close June 18.

Bangs were prominent in the hair cuts shown, one hairdress, "La Moderne," showing bangs on one side, a center part and hair waved softly and drawn straight back from the forehead. None was longer than an inch or an inch and a half below the neckline, with the ends of the hair curling upward. No shingles were shown; they are passé, said the hairdressers who designed the coiffures. Of the ten modes of hairdress in the competition none was severe, curls and swiris and soft effects around the face predominating.

The hairdresser whose coiffure wins in the final judging will have his expenses paid to the convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' association, which will be on board a ship sailing from Detroit Sept. 10 for a seven day cruise of the great lakes.

GAS CO. SUBMITS BILLS TO PROVE FUEL IS CHEAPER

Chicago Rate Hearing Is Adjourned.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday produced evidence intended to show that the consumer's gas bill is lower when he uses the new mixture of artificial and natural gas than when he used the straight manufactured gas. The gas bills of 600 customers in six Illinois cities were introduced into evidence.

The comparison of the gas bills for the first four months of 1932, when the new gas was in use, with the bills for the same period in 1931, when the old gas was in use, showed a decrease of 2.13 per cent in the bills despite an increase of 4.15 per cent in the number of heat units used by each customer.

The present rate, applied to the new mixture of natural and artificial gas, was fixed by the Illinois commerce commission last October. It was a 5 per cent reduction of the old rate. The city of Chicago, at a hearing before the commerce commission, is endeavoring to have a still lower rate fixed. The gas company is contesting a further reduction.

The comparison of old and new gas bills was made by C. G. Bennett, engineering superintendent of the company, a witness. The six cities, in each of which the bills of 100 consumers were compared, were Streator, Blue Island, Kankakee, Evanston, Oak Park, and Maywood.

In many instances among the 600 customers inquiry revealed that more washing and cooking is being done at home, the witness testified.

METHODISTS CUT SEVEN EPISCOPAL AREAS OFF LIST

Called "Cruel Economy" by Foes of Plan.

THOMAS NICHOLSON.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 12.—(AP)—Seven Episcopal areas were eliminated today by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to effect economies calculated to save the church $400,000 in the quadrennium.

Disappointment was apparent among the board of bishops as they listened to the debate and it became increasingly evident the economy movement was sufficiently powerful to force adoption of the program. Tears streamed down the cheeks of many of the bishops as they met in little groups to ponder the future of those of their number whose episcopal residences had been wiped out.

Branded "Cruel Economy."

The ruling put an end to the Episcopal existence of three domestic areas, Buffalo, Indianapolis, and Helena, Mont., and to the foreign Episcopates of Paris, Korea, Peiping, and Calcutta. It was adopted as the conference admittedly acknowledged an insistent demand from the church that ecclesiastical overhead be reduced sharply to meet current financial conditions.

The debate preceding the vote to eliminate the seven Episcopates occupied most of the day's session with the Buffalo and Indianapolis delegations joining forces in a losing battle aimed at having their home areas removed from the list of districts proposed for elimination.

The delegations, representing two of the largest Episcopal areas in the church, branded the abolition of the bishoprics as "cruel economy." They pleaded with the conference not to sound "the drum beat of retreat, but to order the bugle call of advance" by retaining the two areas.

Call Saving Necessary.

Their arguments brought the answer from the economy bloc that retrenchment absolutely was necessary. They pointed to a deficit in the Episcopal fund of $275,000 and asserted that debt must be met.

The Paris Episcopate will be consolidated with the present Zurich, Switzerland, territory where John L. Nuelsen is bishop.

The disposition of the abandoned domestic Episcopal residences, however, will depend on the action of the board of bishops.

The conference also approved the resignations of Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit and Bishop Lauress J. Birney of Shanghai. Both have been in ill health for some time and their resignations were expected.

ASK STATE AID FOR HATCHERY IN LINCOLN PARK

Attempts are being made to obtain funds from the state for the maintenance of the fish hatchery in Lincoln park, it was announced yesterday by Sheldon Clark, vice president of the park board and chairman of the zoo committee. The hatchery has distributed fish in Illinois waters and Lake Michigan for nine years.

Fish hatching should be a function of the state conservation department, Mr. Clark declared. The park hatchery has been supported by the general park fund, which is derived from Chicago taxpayers, and no revenue for its operation has come from the state.

If the hatchery were operated at capacity, the expenditure would amount to $15,000 to $20,000 annually, according to Mr. Clark. The plan he is urging would be to have the necessary funds included in the appropriations for the state conservation department and then allotted to Lincoln park.

Floyd S. Young, manager of the aquarium in which the hatchery is situated, expenditures for the latter institution were $5,000 in 1931, and will be les sthis year.

Through the coöperation of conservation departments in other states, he said, fish eggs were obtained without cost except for transportation. Mr. Young announced that he planned to dump 1,500,000 lake trout and 300,000 silver salmon in Lake Michigan next week.

County Treasurer Sends 75 on Payless Vacations

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday ordered 75 of his regular staff of 175 employés to begin a payless vacation of two weeks today. At the same time all extra employés handling tax collections were placed on a five day a week basis. The savings will amount to $25,000 in addition to the reductions in office expenditures already made. The payless vacation rule will apply to the whole staff, McDonough announced.

DE VALERA DEFIES BRITAIN ON RIGHT TO ABOLISH OATH

Insists Free State Is England's Equal.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, May 12. — President Eamon de Valera declared tonight that the assertion made by J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, in the house of commons yesterday, to the effect that the passing of the bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the king would repudiate the Anglo-Irish treaty, could not alter the facts.

The Irish Free State has the same constitutional rights as Canada and other British dominions, and its position is complete equality with Great Britain itself, the president said.

Demands Proof First.

When it was proved to him that the Canadian parliament, for example, could not abolish its parliamentary oath if it chose, then he would begin to think there might be some basis for Thomas' opinion, de Valera continued, "but no one has proved that and no responsible person has even ventured to suggest it."

The government, de Valera added, received a mandate for the abolition of the oath from the only people who are really concerned with the question. No threats from the outside and no misrepresentation of the facts will deflect the government from its course, he declared.

It was learned today that the bill on the oath will not discussed further until next Thursday, when, it is understood, it will pass its final stages—presuming nothing sensational arises in the meantime.

De Valera said the last word regarding the oath has been written. It is held here that Britain, in view of recent legislation, possesses no power to remove the Free State from the commonwealth and that only a full assembly of all the dominions could do so.

Tariff Strangles Trade.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 12.—(AP)—Imposition of forty-three new import tariffs brought trade at the Dublin docks to a standstill today.

Piers were deserted and the sheds were empty, for the traders were having great difficulty in deciding just how the new levies are to be imposed, what goods they affect, and how great their scope.

CHICAGO STUDENT AT U. OF I. KILLED IN FENCING DUEL

Richard A. Ruehle, a Chicago sophomore in the college of engineering at the University of Illinois, was fatally wounded yesterday while fencing with S. A. Glueck, also of Chicago, in a student fencing class. Ruehle was the son of George S. Ruehle, 7322 Bennett avenue, president of the Reiner Materials company. Glueck, who is a sophomore in the college of liberal arts and sciences, is the son of Isadore Glueck, 5131 Kimbark avenue.

The two students were using regulation foils and wore the regulation masks and chest protectors. Glueck made a lunge at Ruehle. In some manner the protecting tip on Glueck's foil broke and the weapon penetrated Ruehle's chest under an armpit, severing a blood vessel and piercing a lung. The wounded youth died before aid could be obtained.

University officials absolved Glueck of any blame. A coroner's jury later returned a verdict of accidental death.

MRS. A. E. KESLER, CLUB LEADER, DIES SUDDENLY

Funeral services for Mrs. May Cannon Kesler, 61 years old, wife of A. E. Kesler, retired real estate broker, who died suddenly yesterday in her apartment in the 1400 Lake Shore Drive building, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 6237 Normal boulevard. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery. Mrs. Kesler's death was attributed to heart disease.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Joseph A. Struett, 7645 Phillips avenue; a grandson, Louis Arthur Struett, and a brother, Henry W. Cannon Jr. of Columbus, O.

Mrs. Kesler was a member of the Chicago Woman's club for 21 years and recently had been active in raising funds for hungry school children. She also was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

MRS. PURTILL, AUTHORITY ON OLD BOOKS, DIES

Mattoon, Ill., May 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher Purtill, 81, nationally known authority on restoration of old books and manuscripts, former editor and publisher of the Mattoon Journal and vice president of the Women's Federated Clubs of Illinois, died at her home here last night.

From 1906 until four years ago Mrs. Purtill had an office at the University of Chicago. She directed courses in book repairing at the University of Illinois, University of Chicago, and Northwestern university. She restored the old Vincennes collection purchased from the heirs of the French explorer, La Salle.

She was the widow of William Fowler Purtill, who for twenty-five years was editor and publisher of the Mattoon Journal. When he died she continued his work for one year.

J. C. Paul, Retired Depot Policeman, Dies Suddenly

James C. Paul, who was for many years a floor policeman at the North Western railroad station, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 3410 Carroll avenue. Mr. Paul was 70 years old and is survived by his wife and one daughter. He retired from active service on March 1, 1930. Funeral services will be held at 2346 West Madison street at 1 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Elm Lawn cemetery.

COAT CATCHES ON CAR DOOR; WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Motorist Seized After He Flees.

Mrs. Mildred Horler, 32 years old, 4165 West 24th place, walked into Avers avenue at 26th street last evening as a north bound automobile passed. The sleeve of her coat was caught by a door handle on the machine and she was hurled to the street, sustaining severe internal injuries.

The motorist failed to halt his car, but witnesses obtained the license number. Policeman Denis Mahoney of the Lawndale station went to the home of Thor Strangland, 42 years old, 2510 North Ballou street. Strangland admitted that his car had struck a woman, and he was arrested. Mrs. Horler was taken to the county hospital.

Mrs. Winge Is Injured.

Mrs. Bertha Winge, 73 years old, 2724 Logan boulevard, mother of Albert Winge, former police lieutenant, was critically injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile as she hurried to board a motor bus in front of her home. She was taken to the Norwegian-American hospital. The driver, George Consigny, 3036 Logan boulevard, was held.

Two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday raised the toll since Jan. 1 to 391. The victims:

William Hutchinson, 18 years old, 451 West 87th street. Fatally injured last night when he was struck at 87th street and Holland road by a car driven by Fielding Smith, 9007 Dauphin avenue. He died early today in the Auburn Park hospital.

Laverne Harms, 7 years old, 4139 Austin avenue. Killed when she ran into the path of an automobile at Mead avenue and Grace street. The driver was Mrs. John Scanlon, 5813 Berenice avenue.

Policeman John Porter of Aurora was killed last evening when he was thrown from his motorcycle at State street and 5th avenue in that city when the machine was struck by the automobile of Miss Ruth Averill, 22 years old, daughter of Frank S. Averill, superintendent of the Kane county poor farm.

Miss Averill fainted after the crash and her automobile, out of control, ran over the curbing and came to a halt against a light pole. She was taken to the Community hospital in an hysterical condition.

Woods Out of Danger.

Edward G. Woods, 1218 Madison Park, general counsel for the Hearst newspapers in Chicago, was out of danger yesterday, physicians from the Michael Reese hospital announced. Mr. Woods was seriously hurt when his car struck a safety island on the outer drive at 40th street last Tuesday.

John E. McGovern, 38 years old, 2234 East 68th street, a stock broker with offices at 208 South La Salle street, was still unconscious at the Chicago Memorial hospital as a result of hurts incurred Wednesday when his auto hit a light pole at the outer drive and 38th street.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

MORTON—Lieut. Samuel Jules Morton. In fond memory of Lieut. Samuel Jules Morton, who passed away this life on May 13, 1923. To a loyal friend, an heroic soldier and faithful son, who left behind a host of sorrowing friends, this tribute is affectionately dedicated and marks the ninth anniversary of his passing:
Time in all its flight ne'er dims our memory of you;
Instead, refreshed by passing years, your spirit stands anew.
Once more, in tearing out a leaf from life's abundant book,
We say again with fervor deep—your memory's not forsook.

Faithful friend you were in life; could we forget you now?
United stand your host of friends to make the reverent bow.
Sleep on in peace in heaven's vault, where justice must prevail.
You stand remembered, loyal pal, your name and deeds we hail.
PETER MONDANE.

MORTON—Samuel J. Morton. In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away years ago today.

Chicago Team Stirs Filmland with Success

Authors of 6 Movies Have Rapid Rise.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 12.—"I didn't want to stay back of a drug store counter all my life." "And I hadn't found anything I could make a living at." Kubec Glasmon and John Bright thus explain their entrance into the crowded field of movie writing.

KUBEC GLASMON.

Glasmon, ex-druggist from Granville and Winthrop avenues, Chicago, now 40 years of age; and Bright, not long out of Senn High school, and now 24, came to Hollywood from Chicago unheralded and unknown to the movie industry on Oct. 29, 1929, with only enough crumpled bills left to last them over a couple of meal times.

JOHN BRIGHT.

In the year and a half since their arrival this pair have caused their team name, Glasmon and Bright," to be far better known than "State and Madison" or "Hell 'n' Maria."

They went on the Warner Brothers' pay roll as a film writing team Dec. 1, 1930. Since then they have astonished the industry by a spectacular succession of box office bets. Glasmon and Bright have written six original movie plots together. Out of ten Warner pictures that clicked big since the advent of Kubec and Jack, six of the ten were stories by Glasmon and Bright. The six are: "Public Enemy," with Cagney; "Smart Money," with Robinson and Cagney; "Blonde Crazy" with Cagney and Joan Blondell; "Taxi," with Cagney and Loretta Young; "Union Depot," with Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Blondell; "The Crowd Roars," with Cagney and Blondell.

Young Bright had been accustomed to drift into his collaborator's drug store near the Sovereign hotel during the years when the Harold Teens of Senn High made that soda counter their neighborhood social headquarters.

Bright got out of Senn and took a flier at higher education at Lake Forest university, where his college career ended in one semester due to a consistent reluctance to attend chapel. So Bright and Glasmon conceived the idea of writing something. They wrote a story with a Chicago background and sold it after a trip to New York.

"On the advance royalties, which we will admit, were nothing to brag about, we found we had enough to take us by boat to California in the steerage."

Reaching Hollywood, Glasmon and Bright interested Warner Brothers in a second novel which they were preparing, titled "Beer and Blood." The cycle of gangster movies was then on in such vigor that Warners had decided they could use a film story based on the authors' outline of "Beer and Blood."

The bargain had hardly been agreed before Warners, seeking to protect right to the screen title, "Public Enemy," which the studio had already advertised, besought the druggist and ex-student to forget their novel and help out the studio by rushing through a hurried and cheap writing of "Beer and Blood" to be published in book form, so the studio could gain legal title to film rights based on the published volume.

That ended Glasmon and Bright's career as novelists, before it really began, and kept "Beer and Blood" from ever seeing type. The pair took their share of the mediocre royalties from the cheap novelization and found themselves launched as a film writing team. First pay, something around $100 a week.

Glasmon, a chubby, dark eyed fellow of 155 pounds, compressed into 5 feet 5½ inches of height, and with a direct gaze, direct speech, and direct manner of writing, was born in Racioz, Russian Poland, in a Jewish family, and was brought to America as a child. "My father's ambition was to have a triumvirate in the family," he says. "He was a druggist. He wanted my brother to be a doctor. He wanted me to be a dentist."

In furthering this idea Glasmon, then known by his first name, Jack, not Kubec [he chose "Kubec"—Polish for Jack—so as not to be confused with his buddy, "Jack" Bright, after coming to Hollywood], studied dentistry two years at Chicago Dental college, one year at Northwestern dental school, and took the Illinois examination in dentistry in 1917. He became grand master of Alpha Zeta Gamma, a dental fraternity, but, being the sort of fellow who likes to look forward to something different all the time, he next studied for and passed the Illinois pharmacists' examination in 1919.

"The first drug store I managed was an all night store at Madison and Halsted streets," Glasmon says. "That's where I met and got to know a lot of hoodlums well."

Bright was born in Baltimore in 1908, of Scotch-English family stock which had been in the United States

Only $150,000 More Needed to Save Opera

Point to Heavy Cost of Suspension.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Only $150,000 more is needed to save opera for Chicago, says the Civic Opera company. In announcing that the guaranty fund had passed the $350,000 mark yesterday, the company took occasion to point out that failure to raise the full amount of the fund would not only mean no opera next winter, but would imperil the future existence of the company.

The company has been twenty years in its upbuilding, explains Herbert M. Johnson, vice president in charge of business. A lapse of a single year would mean the scattering of the principal artists of the company to all parts of the world with little chance of their return. The principal musicians of the orchestra would likewise find other engagements, the leaders of the chorus would go to other companies, and the stage and technical staff, the business department, and all the busy but unseen elements of the opera which go to make smooth performances would likewise be lost.

"The expense of reorganizing the company would be considerable," added Mr. Johnson. "An entire new group of artists and chorus, musicians and ballet, would require many more rehearsals than does the present group, which is well routined in cooperative effort. The same is true of the stage force.

"All members of the organization from the principal artists to the ushers have shown a desire to coöperate with the management in saving the opera company. As in other lines of business, reductions in salaries and expenses would take effect throughout the organization. Artists and all others have expressed willingness to accept such reductions. Material costs have also been reduced in every department.

"We hope that Chicago will respond with a prompt subscription of the balance of the needed guaranty fund and assure the life of the company. In all our economies we have had in mind the necessity of maintaining the artistic standards of the past, and we assure music lovers that performances next season, if they are given, will be on the same high plane as those of past years.

"New York and Philadelphia are continuing their seasons next year, and there is every indication that the Cincinnati company will continue to function this summer. What those cities can do, Chicago will do."

Louis H. Harrison Named Covenant Club President

Louis H. Harrison was installed as president of the Covenant club of Chicago at the annual meeting last night, held in the club quarters at 10 North Dearborn street. Other officers for the coming year are Mark Levy, first vice president; Max M. Grossman, second vice president; Harry H. Krinsky, recording secretary; Leo Littman, financial secretary; Morris Katz, treasurer, and Harry Joseph, assistant treasurer. It was decided at the meeting to drop for the time being any moves toward a consolidation of the Covenant and Standard clubs, which are among the largest Jewish social organizations in Chicago.

Katharine Cornell Will Give Matinee for Sick Teachers

"The Barretts of Wimpole Street," one of the successes of the theatrical season, will be staged in the Civic Opera house on Sunday afternoon for the benefit of the sick teachers' fund of the Chicago Teachers' federation. Katharine Cornell, star and producer, and her company will receive no pay for their services.

Seats for the special matinee will be priced at $1 each, except for the boxes, and no tickets will be sold until Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. It will be the first time Miss Cornell has appeared at such low prices. "We want to aid the teachers as much as possible," the actress explained. "There are a great many people also who have not seen the play because of the price of tickets and they will not have this opportunity."

New Costume Jewelry Copied from Originals

Noted Craftsmen Turn to This Field.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THE latest miracles that have been performed by costume jewelry designers are new pieces carefully and expertly copied in simulated stones from original creations made with precious jewels. These are another silver lining to the current era of low prices, termed by economists a depression.

The wise shopper gleefully grabs this opportunity to own these good looking copies that are so tantalizingly beautiful.

One Chicago shop has a grand collection of pearl jewelry, designed by a craftsmon, who formerly, when thousands of dollars clinked merrily together for one of his masterpieces, spent hours on a single creation and who now devotes the same genius on lovely replicas that gladden the purchaser with only a small sum to exchange for such unusual designs.

For instance, uses tiny seed pearls, twists them with tiny nugget-like gold beads and the result is a braided, piquantly old fashioned necklace. Another hour of inspired work produces another necklace, this time made of small gold beads that look like they have been carved and wrought by hand. He uses a modern motif of combing many single strands and then for gorgeous contrast uses rusty-red-brown large carnelian beads. Still another is made of four strands of pearls fastened with two round disks of brilliants surrounding two simulated cabochon emeralds.

Earrings to match are also available, the pearl and gold bead combination, perhaps being the most unusual, as they, too, are fashioned in slender long pear-shaped pendants that are as demure and quaint as the necklace.

This is the year to make your dreams come true, if you have always yearned for real pearls. You won't have to use up your bank balance or plunge madly with all your lifetime savings to get pearls either. Buy the new culture pearls, just as real as they can be, even though they have been forced upon us by the oyster man. Everybody knows that the microscopic beginning of any pearl is a grain of sand. The greatly annoyed oyster in an effort to allay the irritation caused by the shifting grain of sand starts covering it with a liquid which hardens in layers until the lovely iridescence of a perfect pearl is completed.

Culture pearls are so named because the wickedly irritating grain of sand is cunningly inserted by the hand of man and the oyster works overtime and produces a pearl equal in luster and beauty to any started by a chance of nature. These culture pearls are extraordinarily beautiful and when set in hoops of gold and surrounded by rose cut diamonds become a perfect gift for yourself or others. They are ideal savers for those of you who can't be satisfied with anything but genuine jewels, as their authenticity cannot be doubted despite the very low price which is attached.

You must have seen the real stone clips which you can buy for almost unbelievable small sums, the clips of rose coral and lovely lapis lazuli set in tuscan carved gold which are offered now for a third of the price charged two years ago. If you can't be lured with real stone clips ask to see the new gold and silver clips. The sentimental new pair of silver or golden hearts, or the lucky pair of golden horse shoes, or the metal clips of huge initials. All these are new and just in time to solve the graduating gift problems that are cluttering up the peace of your minds.

Couple in South Chicago Married 59 Years Today

Mr. and Mrs. William Leonard, veteran residents of East Chicago, will celebrate their 59th wedding anniversary today in their home in that city. Mr. Leonard is 79 years old and his wife, Susan, is 77. Both were born in Steubenville, O., and were married there. All of their living descendants, three sons and two daughters, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, will be present at the anniversary dinner.

Francise Clow Will 'Escape Debut Again'

Follows in Footsteps of Her Elder Sister.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"YOU wouldn't wish that on me, would you, after I escaped it last winter?" was Miss Francise Clow's reply to the question "Will you be a debutante next season?"

So that seems to dispose of the possibility of the younger daughter of the junior William E. Clows making a formal debut this summer or next fall.

The lovely and talented Francise is just back from a winter in Munich where she studied dancing and German, and is with her father in their stunning modern house in Lake Forest, although they expect to go west shortly for a visit with Mrs. Clow in Santa Fe, where she has gone after wintering in Tucson.

Francise is following in the footsteps of her elder sister, Beatrice, now Mrs. Lloyd A. Lafin, in deciding not to be a debutante, for she also went abroad to study German and dancing instead of staying at home and taking part in the debutante whirl of the 1928-'29 season. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow, gave a garden party for her that summer and it may be they will give a similar party for Francise this summer, but if they do, it won't be a debut, you may be sure of that.

Debut Plans for Rosamond Baker.

The first Lake Forest debutante next fall—at least the first we know about—is to be pretty young Rosamond Baker, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Baker. The Bakers will give a tea at their Sheridan road residence on Saturday, Sept. 17, to introduce their daughter. Rosamond is being graduated from Miss Masters' school at Dobbs Ferry the last of this month and her parents are going east for graduation week, of course.

The Bakers plan to remain in Lake Forest for the summer, although Rosamond will go to Montreal in August for a visit with her roommate at school, Miss Jean Craig. Miss Craig will pay a return visit to Lake Forest for Miss Baker's debut.

The day before the Baker debut two Winnetka girls will make their formal bows to society at teas, Mary Louise Morris and Harriet Tilden. Miss Morris is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomas Morris of 1170 Westmoor road, and Miss Tilden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Averill Tilden of 735 Ardsley road.

Miss Morris is graduating from the preparatory school of Mount Vernon seminary in Washington this year and is planning to enter Sarah Lawrence college next fall, so she will not be able to indulge in the festivities of the entire debutante season, as will Miss Tilden, who does not plan to return next year to Vassar where she

GIRLS CAN EAT IN CHICAGO ON 25 CENTS A DAY

If They Do Own Shopping and Cooking.

A series of experiments to produce healthy, satisfying meals at low cost has determined that girls can eat very well on a maximum of 25 cents a day, if they do their own shopping and cooking. The tests were conducted by Dr. Lydia Roberts, head of the home economics department of the University of Chicago, for officials of the Y. W. C. A.

"Officials of the Y. W. C. A. felt that many girls, whose incomes have been reduced greatly, are living on 'cherry cokes, hot dogs, and dill pickles' or 'bread, sausage, and coffee, and that if they only knew how to manage a balanced diet on small expenditures they would do so gladly," Dr. Roberts said.

"As a result, an arbitrary figure of 25 cents a day was taken, and we have not only worked out a balanced diet on that basis, but myself and Miss R. Blair, an assistant, and five students have lived on the diet for two weeks."

MENUS FOR THE WEEK-END

BY MARY MEADE.

If you're a true Southerner, no one need introduce you to pilaus. But most of us in Chicagoland are not southerners, either born or bred. So I feel that an introduction is in order. A pilau, says the dictionary at my elbow, is an oriental dish of rice with meat and spices. But while this interesting dish, or family of dishes, may have had its early rearing over the household fires of India, today it has walked into American kitchens and made itself quite at home. And, as one dusky culinary wizard declared to me, "Pilaus [pronounced 'pēlos' by the correct southerner] am de po' man's food what de rich man clamors fo'." Mandy was trying to say that this fluffy, dry rice dish, with its infinite possibilities for glorification and variation in the "secondary" ingredients, is a treat which may be as rich or as simple as you wish to make it. Squab pilau, duck pilau, guinea fowl pilau—these are for your especially favored guest, for Dad's birthday and for Madeline's wedding luncheon.

But steaming golden egg pilaus, piping hot tomato pilaus, pilaus sporting lima beans, okra, celery, or kidney beans as a complement to the rice—those are every day dishes for busy mother cooks, dishes made unforgettable by their perfect blend of food flavors, the high seasoning which characterizes all pilaus, and by the simple wholesome goodness of the one constant ingredient—rice.

But now we'll cease eulogizing and get down to pans and spoonfuls. First for the dressed up pilau which I give you in the menu for tomorrow:

CHICKEN PILAU SOUTHERN STYLE.
2 young fowls, raw, cut for serving.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
1 cup chopped celery.
2 tomatoes, sliced.
¼ cup butter.
2 cups uncooked rice.
4 cups chicken broth.
1 green pepper, chopped.

In a heavy, large sauce pan melt the butter and brown the onion, celery, tomatoes, and green pepper. Add the rice and the raw chicken, blend, and season highly with salt, pepper, and curry powder, if desired. Now pour over this the chicken broth, which may have been made from bouillon cubes or taken from cans. Cover the pilau and cook for about forty minutes, or until the chicken and rice are tender. Use a low burner to avoid scorching.

Then there's another trick to pilau cooking. We bake it! It's another southern chicken recipe—and—sorry, we've run out of adjectives good enough to describe it!

For baked chicken pilau prepare a young hen as if for frying and boil until tender in salted water. Dice one-half pound of bacon and fry it until crisp. Remove the bacon, pour off part of the fat, and brown the chicken in it. Add one-half cup chopped celery and one-half cup sliced blanched almonds. In the bottom of a buttered baking dish place two cups of buttered, highly seasoned cooked rice. Spread over this the chicken mixture, to which the bacon has been returned. Add another cup of buttered rice, one cup of chicken broth, and top with a coating of two beaten eggs. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for about thirty minutes.

Okra pilau is one of the tasty but more economical numbers. For this fry one and one-half cups okra chopped in small pieces, with six slices of bacon, diced. Add one and one-half cups of rice [uncooked] and three cups of cold water. Cover and allow to simmer for forty-five minutes. Add bacon, season highly, and serve at once.

I could give you many more suggestions, but why don't you go pilau pioneering this week? Try a combination of left over vegetables or meats. Or boil rice dry and fluffy in chicken broth and into it stir three eggs for each cup of rice and, of course, plenty of butter and seasoning. It won't have to go back on the stove, for the hot rice will cook the egg and you'll have scrambled eggs à la extraordinary.

PEACH CROP THIS YEAR WILL BE BELOW NORMAL

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Those red cheeked peaches that were sold as low as 40 and 50 cents a bushel last summer won't be so plentiful this year. From many producing section, including Georgia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, reports indicate unfavorable weather has already cut down the chance of a normal crop.

Some indication of what might be expected from southern Illinois is contained in a report from orchard owners of this fruit growing area. The crop appears to be about 50 per cent of an average good year, with the result that many orchard operators are setting out thousands of tomato plants as a substitute crop.

Fruits Begin Arriving.

Kentucky and North Carolina peach orchards also show damage. The latter state may have a better crop than its neighbors, however, as the trees now indicate they may have about a 65 per cent harvest.

Early fruits are beginning to arrive in Chicago. The first red raspberries of the season, the first car of cantaloupes and the first cherries in quantity arrived this week. But the cantaloupes one might well class with luxuries.

Cantaloupes Still High.

This first shipment of melons from California brought comparatively high prices in the wholesale fruit markets. The average boxes, holding about 54 cantaloupes, sold wholesale for $10 to $14, making a retail price of around 35 cents each. Cherries in carlots are selling for around 25 cents a pound.

New potatoes became a little cheaper this week, but the price is still around 5 cents a pound, while old potatoes remain near the price at which they have been selling since the middle of the winter.

Shoppers will find quite a range in vegetable prices. Based on size and quality of bunches, asparagus is available for from 5 to 15 cents a bunch, retail. Green beans are worth 8 to 15 cents a pound; peas about 12 cents a pound. Radishes are two bunches for 5 cents, while green onions are plentiful at even lower prices.

Tomatoes, from Ohio hothouses, largely, are still somewhat of a luxury. For the best medium size tomatoes, the retail price is 20 to 25 cents a pound. Small or large tomatoes cost less and are worth about 15 cents a pound.

Best Meat Buys Now Are Spareribs, Bacon

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states: "Spareribs and bacon represent unusually economical meat buys in Chicago retail meat stores this week-end. These two pork cuts are selling at levels lower than any which have prevailed for many months."

UTENSIL MAKERS RESPOND TO ERA OF KITCHENETTE

Among Them Also Are a Few Comedians.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

One can get a real thrill these days out of running down the newest and most novel gadgets in kitchen equipment. Between the imaginative manufacturers and the versatile inventors almost every day sees the arrival of a new species of weiner roaster, egg cooker, or unbuckling cake pan,—not to mention the latest flares for ricers, dicers, mincers, and shredders. And all these exciting gadgets make a weekly saunter through the household department of up and coming department stores amusing as well as instructive.

Buy? Not necessary at all, though sometimes a particularly attractive "patent applied for" does promise faithfully neither to shrink, rust, scratch, or get out of order—and thus finds a place on our shelves.

Aids to Housewives.

But, seriously, while a good many of the household novelties shown are doubtless more amusing than practical, the trend in kitchen equipment is actually toward more sturdily built, attractive and practical pieces. Thoughtful dealers and wide-awake inventors are giving us pans with rounded corners and dough resistent rims. They're showing us how to grate fruit for our favorite apple cake without grating in unappreciative knuckles. They've presented us with stainless tools. And, better and best, they're catering not only to the big householders, but to us kitchenette cooks, who must revolve in a highly specialized cubicle for twenty minutes and promptly at 6 produce a soul stirring dinner from an icebox, an adolescent oven, and a two foot working surface.

Where Space Is Valuable.

All of which means that the newest in pots, pans, and panlets are smaller and astoundingly condensed. They fold up, nestle in clusters, stack within each other, and then fit away neatly into patented kitchen cupboards, refrigerator shelves, and diminutive stoves.

Here's an example of a space saver. Among the comparatively newcomers in food equipment this season are neat clusters of squat, one quart glass containers. One type I saw recently had six in each huddle, triangular affairs with rounded corners and snug lids. They are nosed in solidly together on a revolving tray and the whole thing looked like a good fit for the ice box or refrigerator for holding good sized leftovers, or for the pantry shelf to accommodate sugars, salt, dried fruit, beans, rice—any six things one can't think what else to do with and yet need always on tap. A small sized push swivels the tray after the order of the old fashioned canister, and as the tray revolves you are supplied with your desire of the moment.

On the other hand, your kitchen may be better suited to a grouping of metal containers to be used either for storage or cooking. These, too, are found in "1932 models."

New Pan Molds.

Something else again are the not so new, but new to many—pan molds to be found in most department stores. They're not ring molds and they're not tube pans, but they're second cousins to both of these. Each little and big pan has a raised bottom over and around which may be poured the cake, pudding or gelatin mixture to be baked or molded.

The raised section of the pan bottom forms a generous depression which may be filled with something luscious and surprising when the shell mold is finally turned, bottom side up, out of the pan.

Small individual molds—round or square to suit the fancy of the maker—may be made of gelatin or blanc mange and filled with fresh fruit and whipped cream for a most tempting company service. The large shell pans for family service are to be had also, and inspire rings of rice or noodles baked till firm and sent to the table filled with creamed or buttered fresh vegetables.

Ginger bread, short cake or butter cake, filled with just the right insides, offer more intriguing opportunities for salads, desserts, and luncheon specials.

Texas Supplies Hundreds of Carloads.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Sitting at your breakfast table this morning, no matter how simple or elaborate its menu, you have commanded the attention to your gustatory desires of persons from the far corners of the United States.

Just how distant may be the garden from which came the strawberries, how remote the orchards that supplied the grapefruit, oranges or prunes, may be of minor importance. Yet the wheels of commerce keep turning to bring the variety of delicacies to your doorstep, and growers in the sunny south or western coast bend tirelessly to the improvements in food culture that made the start of your busy day more pleasant.

From Vast Areas in Texas.

Startling in rate of expansion have been the orchard and garden areas of vast areas in Texas, Arizona, or New Mexico where once cattle and sheep roamed in abandon. Fresh spinach, tomatoes, berries or head lettuce plucked from great acreages, are rushed to markets that lie as far away as Maine or Canada.

The extent of this transformation in perishable food supplies has been noted by experts for the western railroad systems. In a hearing before a government commission in Chicago last week, they presented some interesting and accurate data on the distances traveled by the head of cabbage or the bunch of carrots in finding his ultimate purchaser.

In the first six months last year 7,724 carloads of cabbage, 86 per cent of the total year's production in the lower Rio Grande valley and coastal bend of Texas, were marketed in all but four states of the union.

Fast Rail Movements.

This national distribution, made possible by refrigerated cars and fast rail movements, sent fresh cabbage into Washington and Oregon and 232 carloads into Canada. The New England states alone bought 321 carloads from their unseen gardeners three thousand miles or more away. Illinois markets consumed 1,185 cars of cabbage in the late winter and early spring.

From the immense fields of beets, carrots, snap beans, green corn, spinach, tomatoes, and cabbage at the lowest tip of the nation came 29,350 carloads of perishables during the entire year. More than half, or 55.34 per cent, of all that this region produced was sold at points more than 1,250 miles distant.

Most important markets for these foods, the railroads found, were New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia. Illinois consumed more of the production of southern Texas than any other state in the union and Chicago merchants handled more carloads than any other city. Nevada was the only state that did not tap this winter garden of the nation.

Serve Fresh Vegetables.

In the luncheons and dinners planned by housewives of Chicagoland there is not a day in the year when she may not serve some fresh vegetable or fruit. That this is being done is shown in tabulations of the increased production of vegetables during winter months in Texas. In the ten years between 1921 and 1931 the shipments have nearly trebled, from 16,373 to 46,826 carloads.

Strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, melons, citrus fruits, and potatoes are also being grown in enormous quantities throughout an area that once was open range or virgin grassland.

IT STILL MAKES GOOD PIE THOUGH CALLED RHUBARB

Little casting into memories is required for grownups to remember when, as boys and girls, they knew rhubarb only as "pie plant." Whether served as pie or sauce, many folks who admire this tart food can remember when it was known commonly as "garden sass." Like the tomato, one can still start an argument on whether it is fruit or vegetable.

The name has changed but not the rhubarb. Its popularity still is being proved on the table whether one judges foods by reason of price, variety, color, or the recommendations of dieticians. Today's fresh product, at five cents a pound, remains one of the best substitutes for grandmother's discarded recipe for sulphur and molasses.

Homegrown Coming In.

Since winter began, rhubarb has been on the market stands in Chicagoland, although in earlier months this year it was worth several times the present price. Then it was being harvested in hothouses and the labor and the distance it was shipped made it somewhat of a luxury.

But southern Illinois growers are pulling rhubarb now from field grown clumps and within a week or two truck farmers a short distance from Chicago will have an even more "homegrown" supply to sell in wholesale and retail marts.

"Rhubarb contains a vegetable acid which seems to whet the appetite," says Miss May E. Foley, nutrition specialist of Massachusetts state college. "This vegetable also is a good source of minerals, containing more lime, phosphorus and iron than most of the common fruits."

When the product is young and tender, don't peel it for cooking or for pie filling, is the advice of Miss Foley. Flavor, color and food value are enhanced by using the skin. One of the simplest of casserole dishes is prepared by cutting rhubarb into the dish, adding three-quarters of a cup of sugar to a quart of the vegetable, half a cup of water and a pinch of salt and baking while covered until the rhubarb is tender.

The juice puts a new appeal in fruit punch. Housewives often can the juice when the stalks are plentiful so that something different can be put on the table in midwinter. For the sake of color when cooking rhubarb for juice, the skin is left on even though it is tough.

AVOID OVERCOOKING AND HOLD COLOR IN GREEN VEGETABLES

Natural bright green color in leafy vegetables is retained with proper cooking. They should be left uncovered and cooked only until tender. Either a large or small quantity of water can be used, but in either case it is well to plan on using this liquid in serving, as the water will contain considerable minerals and vitamins.

Spinach, chard, beet tops, dandelion greens, cress, or leeks can all be cooked the same way. The cooked dish should vary little in color from the raw vegetable. Overcooking and covering the kettle results in a brownish-green color and a too-soft texture.

PORK AND BEANS; HERE IS SECRET OF EXCELLENCE

Slow Steaming, Then Baking Required.

BY ROE FOWLER.

One of my favorite eating places is a beanery. In this place (to name it would be advertising, of course) the magic words "With, a cup!" will procure a plate of beans, coffee, a slice of pork, and plenty of bread and butter. The price is a trifle.

The pork has no fatty taste and it can be cut with a fork. I asked the waiter what made the pork so tender and the beans so soft without being mushy. He said the secret lay in cooking them in a special slow steamer that his boss had invented. The beans are cooked for half a day in this steamer before being baked in a slow oven with a slice of pork on top.

However, the pork which is served with the beans is cooked separately, first in the steamer, and then in a slow oven, but not as long as the beans.

"You have to watch it," the waiter explained, "and see that it doesn't all cook away. Any good cook can judge that. And remember, the oven must be very slow, both for the pork and for the beans. The latter must be cooked in an earthern jar."

The special steamer, he explained, is not for sale. It is used exclusively by the chain of beaneries which the boss operates. I judged, however, from his description, that it is somewhat like the oldtime double boiler.

Meat Nutritious; Furnishes Three Needed Components

Meat is a healthful, nutritious food which furnishes complete proteins, excellent minerals [iron and phosphorus], and some vitamins [glandular meats—A, B, and G; lean meat—G and E].

RIB OR CHUCK ROAST MATTER OF THICKNESS OF THE BLADE OF KNIFE

The thickness of a knife blade is said to be all that separates a chuck roast from its higher priced companion, the rib roast. According to meat experts, the skilled meat cutter determines where the knife shall be placed. The rib roast may be more tender, but is said to have no more taste nor nutrition than the chuck roast.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

The "Whisperer" crimes have held London terrorized for month. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the Whisperer speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if instructions are not carried out.

Roland Blatch joins the Whisperer's band in order to try to recover jewels he was forced to steal from his employer, Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, in order to insure the safe return of his fiancée, Joyce Merrow, who was kidnaped by the bandit. Roland carries out the tasks assigned to him by the bandit and is involved in the killing of an unransomed victim, although the Whisperer has remained hidden from his view. Roland trails him, however, to his hideout and makes the startling discovery that the arch criminal is Sir Henry. The Whisperer takes Roland captive, but Roland escapes and returns to see Joyce. Chief Inspector Larpent is with her. Roland agrees to give himself up to the Whisperer to gain proof of Sir Henry's guilt.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

TRAPPED BY WIRELESS.

The hands had moved the blotting pad. Instantly the whole of Roland's body was racked with violent pain. As when he had tried to take the fruit in the bungalow, so now every muscle was paralyzed by a strong current of electricity. He could neither move nor cry out. The Whisperer slipped on a pair of insulating rubber gloves—then Roland lost consciousness.

The next thing he knew was that the pain had stopped and some one was forcing brandy between his lips. He opened his eyes and looked up—into the face of the Whisperer.

He could move his limbs—but only the fraction of an inch. He was clamped—arms, legs and back—to the chair in which he sat.

"In a couple of minutes you will be clear headed and then we can begin."

It was the voice of the Whisperer—not the voice of Sir Henry. More than that, even the face seemed to have changed. It was the same face, but the puffiness seemed to have vanished and the wateriness had gone out of the eyes. It was as if, in passing from one rôle to the other, this amazing man could even alter his appearance. It was partly a self-suggested optical illusion, due to the fact that the change of expression changed him from one kind of man to another.

The Whisperer had gone back to his chair opposite. It was as if he knew the exact moment when the brandy had taken effect and Roland was in possession of his full faculties.

"I will not insult your intelligence by pretending to you that you have any chance of escaping alive," he began. "Your choice lies wholly between a painful and a painless death."

"You—the Whisperer!" exclaimed Roland in order to gain time. Time now meant absolutely everything.

"Bluff—to gain time! You knew I was the Whisperer. So did the police. They sent you to catch me. They sent a brave fool. Didn't you know you were done for the moment you got into that coupé?"

"No," said Roland, thoughtfully. "I knew you would be able to shake off the Yard car that way. I also knew you had not got a gun on you—and that you hadn't had time to summon the gang. Single handed, of course, I could easily prevent your getting at a gun. It is this electrical gadget of yours which has beaten me."

"You are very brave. That is why I picked you. At the worst you are a great deal more intelligent than the poor stuff I have to work with. That was why I dispensed with you as social secretary to use you in the gang. You gave yourself away when you shook hands with me in the drawing room. Your hand was trembling—and it went on trembling while I held it."

"And you, in any case, would have given yourself away by your nippiness in changing cars," retorted Roland.

The Whisperer made a gesture of indifference.

"How did you find the house in St. John's wood?" he asked.

"Go to hell!"

The Whisperer's hand moved on the writing pad and again came the agonizing pain of the electric current. But this time it lasted for less than a second.

"The current," said the Whisperer, "is only two hundred volts. I can increase it. But not sufficiently to kill you outright. Possibly the strain of enduring even a hundred and fifty—for hour after hour might cause heart failure eventually. You have the choice between that protracted agony—and a comfortable, painless death by parradine gas . . . How did you find the house in St. John's Wood?"

There was no need, thought Roland, to mention Connie. The safest thing to do would be to attribute it to the dead man.

"Number Four," he answered. "I met him that morning at Connie's flat and told him I wanted to meet you."

"I believe you're lying. I'll give you a little cross-examination. When you asked Number Two to tell you——"

"Scotland Yard, I think, Whisperer!"

The Whisperer was wholly unperturbed.

"An unintelligent assumption! How do you think they traced us? Come, I would be interested to know how you think they traced us here!"

Again came the rattle of the door knocker.

"Do not attempt to shout or I shall be compelled to switch on the current, and I wish you to remain clear headed for your examination." The Whisperer rose, came over to Roland, and fastened a gag in his mouth. "Do not let your hopes run high, Blatch. I have no desire to deal with an emotional collapse. In all probability that is a policeman on the beat, who wants to know why the coupé is parked outside."

The Whisperer left the room, shutting the door behind him.

In the street outside, behind the coupé, stood a wireless van of the Flying Squad. Behind it a car, out of which Chief Inspector Larpent, Detective Sergeant Hendricks and three others had sprung, ready to batter down the door if it were not answered at the third summons.

As Larpent was about to knock a third time the door was opened.

Larpent had his hand in his pocket and took it out as the door opened. The muzzle came to rest over the Whisperer's heart.

"Upstairs."

There was no evasion, no bluff, no attempt to resume the rôle of Sir Henry Glazeborough.

One of the men found the hall light and Hendricks snapped on the handcuffs.

"Right! Take us straight to Blatch!"

For all his cruelty the Whisperer possessed animal courage, he knew that his end had come and faced it without a tremor. One detective walked in front of him up the stairs, Larpent immediately behind him.

"This door."

"Anything here, Mr. Blatch?" asked Larpent.

"I think that table contains the transmitters. But look out! The blotting pad switches on a current under this chair. That's how he got me tied up. That disc up there is a loud speaker."

Larpent spoke to the prisoner.

"D'you care to tell us what's in that safe?"

"The Afia Demaine jewels and about a quarter of a million in notes and bearer bonds," answered the Whisperer.

"Keys, please."

Women of U. S. Wince Under British Stare

Crowds on Road to Court Disturb Them.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 12.—Mrs. William DeBurgh Whyte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux of Chicago, was privileged as an English matron to present her daughter, Amicie, to their majesties at the second court of the season at Buckingham palace tonight. At the same time she presented Lady Japp, wife of Sir Henry Japp, who is the engineer in charge of the tunnels under the East river, New York. William DeBurgh Whyte and Sir Henry Japp were co-directors of the production of the British war mission in America, 1915-'18.

Her daughter Amicie's gown was of debutante white satin, empire style. The bodice was quaintly tucked and held by a silver embroidered shoulder strap. The train and slippers were of white satin. She carried an appropriate bouquet, an early Victorian posey.

All roads leading to Buckingham palace were thronged again tonight. The line of gleaming autos with liveried footmen began to form shortly after 6 o'clock and it was nearly 9 o'clock before the last passed through the great iron gates of the forecourt to the palace.

Among those receiving the august "command" invitations to the court were eight Americans: Mrs. James Herbert Boone, New York; Miss Daphne Prizer, New York; Miss Winifred Holt Bloodgood, Baltimore; Mrs. E. Campion Acheson Jr., Middletown, Conn.; Mrs. Rufus Graves Mather, Gilson Island, Md.; Mrs. William Lindsey, Boston, and from the west Miss Catherine McAndrews, Owatonna, Minn., and Mrs. Russell M. Brooks, Salem, Ore.

The Americans found the wait in the Mall somewhat of an ordeal. They were not accustomed to the stare. Piccadilly flower "girls" of three generations poked their heads into the windows of the waiting cars passing cockney comments, complimentary and otherwise, on the occupants. The views are given with a friendly laugh and court circles take them with easy tolerence, but the Americans find it hard to bear and are glad when they pass the illuminated foundations of the Victoria memorial into the palace court and the crowds are left behind.

After leaving the cloakroom guests mount the crimson carpeted grand staircase leading to the west gallery and so to the bowroom and to the blue drawing room, where they await the announcement of their names. Mme. Regis de Oliveria, wife of the Brazilian ambassador and acting doyenne of the diplomatic corps, again functioned as sponsor for the Americans.

Mrs. William Lindsey, who made her curtsey tonight, was formerly of Boston, but for many years she has had a beautiful house in Mayfair and is prominent in the American colony as an officer of the American Women's club. Her ensemble was a shade of orchid and rose, particularly becoming to one with snow white nair and fair youthful complexion. The orchid and rose chiffon of her gown was embroidered all over in two tones, rose and silver, and the train was of velvet of the same shades as the dress and was embroidered with bugles diamete. Her ostrich feather fan and slippers were of the same tones, and her cloak was of white ermine.

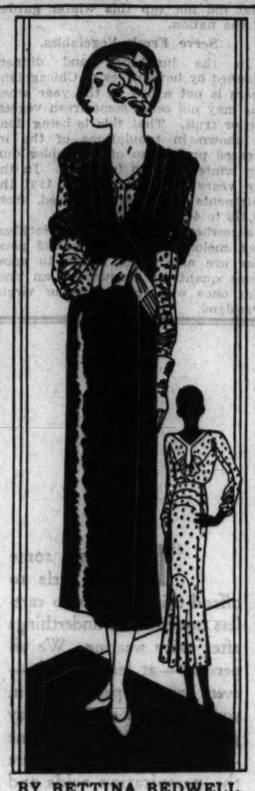
Mrs. James Herbert Boone's gown was a symphony in peach color and crêpe romaine, with train and slippers en suite.

A most graceful gown was worn by Miss Catherine McAndrews, sister of John McAndrews, United States embassy dispatch agent. Her gown was of angel skin lace in the new chalk white with a lily leaf pattern. It was cut to mold to her figure, and had a circular flounce sweeping away from the center of the front. Her sash, a swath of speedwell blue faulle, crossed over to form a V shaped décolletage at the back, terminating in a huge butterfly bow on the left hip. Rounded lace fell from her shoulders in a cowl at the back lined with the same shade of blue.

Mrs. Russell Brooks, wife of the American consul at London, wore a French model gown of silver brocade with a pale green train of shirred chiffon lined with silver cloth. Her slippers were pale green, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Rufus Graves Mather wore a gold lamé underdress, over which was a tabard of Italian ecclesiastical gold lace studded with rhinestones. The train was of gold lamé lined with chiffon. Her slippers were of Chinese gold and pink brocade ornamented with old Florentine buckles, and she carried a fan. Besides a gold tiara, Mrs. Mather wore decorations of the Legion of Honor and medals which represent the work she has done in America, France, Belgium, and Italy in behalf of the blind.

Sleeve Emphasis Provides Broad Shoulder Effect



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—To be broad shouldered and slim hipped are the dimensions laid down by some of the most famous of the Paris couturiers for this spring. But you need not go into hiding if just the reverse of this applies to you. Paris puts shoulder breadth and hip slimness into clothes before they escape their doors. If you have read these columns faithfully you will know it is all done by a trick. Broad shoulders make hips look slim, and the broad shoulder line is obtained by sleeve emphasis rather than actual width in the shoulders themselves—as easy as putting two and two together.

Lucien Lelong has thought of a brand new way of widening the shoulders of an afternoon coat. If you will look at the sketch shown today you will see how he does it. The coat, which is in heavy, crêpe de chine in black, is collarless, and has a surplice closing, but no fastening. The wide shoulder line is attained by wide bands of astrakhan, which start out to be sleeves but merely extend down over the shoulders a few inches. They descend half way to the elbow, both back and front, where they are met by a wide cuff, encircling the arm. The three-quarter length sleeves of the dress beneath give the effect of being part of the coat.

The small sketch shows the dress of this ensemble. It is in printed crêpe de chine with small, white flowers on a black ground. The part of the sleeve which is on the outside of the arm is made in one with the upper part of the bodice, while the inside arm section is part of the lower portion of the bodice. There is a self-bow near the waistline. The skirt gets its fullness, back and front, by circular cutting just below the knees.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover today accompanied the President to the dedication of the Masonic memorial to George Washington near Alexandria, Va. She later was honor guest at the luncheon of the Federation of Music Clubs.

Senator Arthur Capper and Representative Mary T. Norton attended the reception tonight given for the members of the National League of Masonic Clubs. Walter F. Tidswell, president of the league, headed the receiving line.

The French ambassador and Mme. Claudel today went to New York from where the latter will sail Saturday for France to spend the summer.

Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson and Representative and Mrs. Claude A. Fuller were honor guests at dinner tonight of Mr. and Mrs. August King-Smith preceding the recital of Miss Ruth Fuller, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Fuller.

Mrs. Arch Coleman Jr. who has been visiting First Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Arch Coleman, left today for Minneapolis to meet Mr. Coleman and return to their home in Mexico City.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos del Mar have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Murray Jacoby. Mr. Jacoby was special ambassador of the United States at the coronation of the emperor of Abyssinia.

Mrs. Steffan Paul Nemeth and her son are with the former's mother, Dr. Jane Coates. Mrs. Nemeth lived in Chicago for some years.

Business Men Enjoy Giving Their Concert

Amateur Orchestra Plays Annual Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One quality is in the performances of the Chicago Business Men's orchestra which would be a good thing if it were in the possession of all musical organizations, amateur and professional alike. It is the constant impression of pleasure in the music being played.

The annual concert of this highly interesting orchestra took place in Orchestra hall last night, with a full display of the quality referred to just now. It was not at all the air of being pleased with their own performance, which is entirely another matter. On the contrary, the business men of the band are uncommonly modest in demeanor. But delight in the program simply filled the air.

As a matter of fact, the program was one in which considerable pleasure should have been taken. It began with the overture to Smetana's opera "The Bartered Bride"; the symphony was Dvorak's "From the New World"; the later pieces were Tschaikowsky's "Nuteracker" Suite and Berlioz's "Rakoczy" March. These are all works whose arteries have not become hardened by age. They are worth playing over and over again.

It has been told before that the Chicago Business Men's orchestra is strictly amateur; that the only professional musician on the roster is the conductor, Clarence Evans. Ninety five men of varied business interests are the players, and they rehearse and play with the devotion of amateurs in the true sense of the word.

Going outside of their own ranks for a soloist, their assisting artist last night was Lois Colburn Bichl, cellist who played Boellmann's Symphonic Variations. With broad, suave tone and rapid execution she made an excellent effect and was greeted, as she deserved, with much applause.

The Daughters of Isabella, a newly organized choral society of women's voices, gave its first public concert at Kimball hall last night under the direction of Clemens A. Hutter. Keeping careful attention upon their texts and the conductor's baton, they sang creditably a program which in considerable part consisted of choral arrangements of solo songs. Their vocal soloist was Laerence Dries, and there was further assistance from an unnamed male quartet whose members were H. B. Moore, G. Vande-Sande, G. K. Zimmerman, and F. A. Richert.

U. of I. Will Honor Scholarship Leaders at Ceremony Today

Champaign, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—Students who have excelled in scholarship will be honored tomorrow as activities at the University of Illinois are halted for one hour for the eighth annual Honor day program. President Harry Woodburn Chase will pay tribute to the 886 students who have won recognition of their scholarship.

The names of 35 seniors have been inscribed on a bronze tablet which will be unveiled at the convocation. Three of them are from Chicago. Places on the tablet are won by superior scholarship during junior and senior years or because the scholastic average of a student for his first seven semesters is equal to or higher than that of any student chosen for scholastic achievement during his last two years.

The rest of the 886 honor students are divided into classes of superior scholarship and high scholarship. A place in the first classification is gained by ranking in grades among the upper 3 per cent of sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Those whose grades are in the upper 10 per cent of each class are entitled to the high scholarship rating.

Chicago seniors whose names are inscribed on the bronze tablets are Charles Katek, 311 West 26th street, the college of liberal arts and sciences; Evron Maurice Kirkpatrick, 12003 Princeton avenue, the college of liberal arts and sciences, and Grace Josina Thomas, 1417 North Mansfield avenue, college of liberal arts and sciences.

'Banana Gold' Another Beals Travel Story

Writes Vivid Account of Central America.

"Banana Gold," by Carleton Beals. [Lippincott.]

CARLETON BEALS, who wrote "Mexican Maze," one of the best and most interesting books about that country, gives the reading public another excellent travelogue in "Banana Gold," set this time in Central America.

CARLETON BEALS.

The author in turn passes from Mexico to Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador, Nicaragua, and back to Guatemala, describes the coffee and the banana industries, the people he meets on trains and boats, the food and customs of each separate country, the corruption of native politics aided by America's interested intervention, the almost incredible beauties of the landscapes, the historical background of many cities, and the hardships of travel.

Beals' imagination is fired by the vitality and promise of the Quichés, an Indian tribe which makes up the bulk of the population in Guatemala and in which he finds the only salvation for the country. He implies that he found President Orellana not very much interested in their possibilities. One description of them serves to imprint them on the imagination of the reader: "Men and women—almost always they are carrying heavy burdens, but it in no way lessens their lightness of foot, the free, agile play of their bodies. A swarm of these Indians hurrying along, swinging their arms, surprisingly erect, their bright clothes flaming against the deep green of the tropic vegetation, is like the flight of brilliant hued birds."

Tells of Visit to Sandino.

Of Salvador Beals says that the bulk of the population consists of Aztec Indians and that the country is in the hands of some thirty Creole families, rich coffee growers, at the head of which is an arrogant, aggressive dictatorship. He concludes, "The fort and the cathedral—these are the main contours of Central American life."

The author trips through the various countries in Central America, stopping at small towns, even villages, in the big cities and capitals, never staying longer in any place than a few days, but long enough to capture its spirit, whether of beauty or ugliness, honesty or corruption, and its significance.

The longest section of the book deals with the author's dangerous visit to Sandino, "bandit," so called, who has been the thorn in the side of American marines and who carries aloft the flaming torch of Nicaraguan independence. Beals rides his horse in rain and in the almost unbearable tropical heat, risks horseback rides on the edge of breath-taking precipices, goes without sleep for days on end, subsists on the most primitive foods, sometimes on practically nothing but a cup of hot chocolate, rides on and on with a raging fever, oftentimes almost prostrate with the heat or chilled to the bone with the cold rains, daring guards and marines who would have shot at anything in the Sandino country, until finally, after more than two weeks, he reaches the camp of Sandino high up in the mountain fastnesses. The account of this trip is one of the most fascinating sections of the book and reveals the author as not only an observer but also an intrepid adventurer.

Vivid Story of Foreign Culture.

Because of Beals' anti-imperialistic ideas he ran into many complications with the natives as well as the Americans. His descriptions of the complexities of American and Central American politics, his stubborn and sometimes childish (but nearly always justified) resistance to the existing, and precarious, governments, fills many of his pages with long and interesting discussions of the political and social messes in Central America.

"Banana Gold" has the beauty and vividness of artistic interpretation of a foreign culture as well as the most incisive and intellectual evaluation of the dilemma which these countries now face. Beneath the surface brilliance of Carleton Beals' style there are those qualities of seriousness, understanding, and enthusiastic interest that are necessary to a valuable study of a foreign country.

"Dorothy Wordsworth," by Catherine Macdonald Maclean (Viking Press), published today, is a biography of one of the loveliest and most self-effacing and inspiring women of her time. Among her friends this charming and intelligent sister of William Wordsworth counted Coleridge, Lamb, De Quincey, and Southey. The book is written with sympathy and understanding and presents a real and valuable picture of this woman whose life was her "works." M. D.

Plan Charity Card Party

Mrs. John T. Agar, Mrs. Ward S. Perry, and Mrs. Philip Kreuscher (left to right) were among those at a meeting of the Friendly Aid society yesterday at Mrs. Agar's residence at 5837 Blackstone avenue to make final plans for the organization's card party next Tuesday afternoon in the Stevens hotel. The party is for the benefit of the society's charities, which are endorsed by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland is chairman of the affair. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

is a sophomore this year, at least not for the fall term. Mary Louise is a lucky girl in the other girls' estimation, for she is the sister of the popular Seymour Morris, who is a junior at Princeton this year and who is such an active member of the Triangle club there.

Neff-Smith Bridal Dinner.

The bridal dinner for Miss Barbara Neff and Solomon B. Smith, whose marriage will take place tomorrow afternoon at St. Chrysostom's, will be given tonight at the Casino by her three uncles—J. Arnold Scudder and William M. Scudder of Chicago and Richard Neff of Houston, Tex.

Six of the winter's "debbies" are to assist as salesgirls next Monday at a clearance sale at the Woman's exchange, which is to be held all week. Monday will be a sort of gala occasion, however, with Janet Ayer (a new director), Jane Fortune, Alice Mae Dickinson, Isabel Gordon, Barbara Graf, and Polly Perry there, and with tea served in the afternoon. Mrs. James Ward Thorne, the new president, left for the east yesterday, to be away about a week, so she will not be here on Monday.

Ronald Tree of London arrived yesterday at the Drake hotel for a ten day stay. He is here for business reasons primarily, but no doubt his relatives, the Stanley Fields, the Clifford Rodmans, the A. A. Sprague, the Russell Kelleys, and the Henry Fields, will see that there is plenty of informal entertaining for him, both in town and in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Jacob Baur has given up any idea of going west to meet her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull, on their return from their round the world honeymoon, for instead of arriving in San Francisco the end of this month they are three weeks behind in their schedule, and at that time Mrs. Baur will be deep in the business of the Republican national convention, for she is Republican national committeewoman from Illinois, you know.

A Description of Bull Fight.

Mrs. Warner H. Robinson and 10 year old Leslie are planning to return to their Winnetka residence some time next month after a winter abroad. Leslie is in school in France, but spent the spring vacation at Biarritz with her mother and her description of her first bull fight, in a letter to her father, is most amusing. She said, "Yesterday we went to a bull fight. Boy, was it keen! This is a picture of the ring. There was an awfully brave man there that fought the bull. But when nobody aplauded he started crying. At first they let the bull go out in the ring. Then the toriadores run after him with there red banners. And then two horses come out with the pickadores on there backs. It is awful to see the horses because the bull just comes right out and knocks the man off the poor horses back, and the horses go tumbling down. Then the brave man comes out with sticks with points and tries to get them in the bull. Then the bull bleeds like fury. He gets six in and then gets a perfectly red cloth and hides a spear in it. Then he tires him with that and when he's awfully tired he sticks the spear in him sometimes it takes about 3 spears to kill him. There were six bulls in this fight." Doesn't that rival Ernest Hemingway's terse but vivid description of a bull fight? Warner Jr. will return from the University of Wisconsin and Allen, the elder son, will come home from the University of Virginia, to spend the summer in Winnetka, also.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith, who have been in Florida since Dec. 15, are back in Winnetka to spend the summer. Their yacht, the Kenkora, is docked in a New York harbor at present and will be brought on to Lake Michigan later in the season. The Smiths, you will remember, were in Santiago harbor the night of the recent Cuban earthquake and the first news of the explosion was radioed to the world from their boat. They sailed from Cuba the morning after the upheaval and spent the rest of the winter cruising in Florida waters, making their headquarters at their house in Palm Beach.

Several Evanstonians are going east for the wedding on Saturday in Elmira, N. Y., of Miss Mary Katherine Bovier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie M. Bovier of that city, to Alexander Innes Mackenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Park Mackenzie of Evanston. Among them are the Mackenzies, of course, and the sister of the bridegroom-to-be, Mrs. Horatio Rodman Rogers, Mr. Rogers, who is to be an usher, John Halsted, Thomas H. Eddy Jr., and Carlton Blunt, who also will usher. Newton Toby of Hubbard Woods will be an usher, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Canning of Evanston announce the birth of a son on Friday of last week at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Canning is the former Miss Alice Colby Judson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh Judson of Evanston. The baby is to be named Douglas McIntosh Canning.

Mrs. J. Waller Marshall of Winnetka is sailing on the Hamburg on May 26 for two months in Germany and France.

Mrs. Alfred McCormack [Winifred Smith], who came to Chicago for a visit with her father, Walter B. Smith of 1200 Lake Shore drive and to attend the wedding of her cousin, Solomon B. Smith, and Miss Neff, will return to her home in New York Monday. The following Saturday she and Mr. McCormack and their litle son will move out to Wilton, Conn., for the summer.

Mrs. William B. Schrauff [Katherine Putnam] is another former Chicagoan who now lives in the east who is visiting here. She arrived Tuesday for a visit to her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hinckley, in Lake Forest, with whom she lived before she was married in September, 1928. Mrs. McCormack, by the way, was maid of honor at the Putnam-Schrauff nuptials. Mrs. Schrauff is not accompanied by her husband or their little son this time, they having remained at home in Plandome, L. I.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, who went east after the "Breadline Frolics" opening to spend 10 days at her Boston residence and to make short visits in Baltimore and Washington, has returned to her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Canning of Evanston announce the birth of a son on Friday of last week at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Canning is the former Miss Alice Colby Judson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh Judson of Evanston. The baby is to be named Douglas McIntosh Canning.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Garard of 1648 East 50th street announce the birth of a son, James Levering Garard Jr., on Tuesday at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Garard was Miss Eugenia Evans before her marriage. The baby arrived on the twenty-seventh wedding anniversary of its paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elzy A. Garard.

Heads Scholarship Dance

Register Thousandth Baby Under Installment Plan

The thousandth installment plan baby was registered yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital. A year ago the institution announced a budget plan for expectant mothers under which infants would arrive with all bills paid in advance. The plan was put in operation May 12, 1931. In 1931 331 babies arrived under the plan. Yesterday the 1932 total passed 669.

since before the revolution. There are a number of Protestant clergymen in the family tree, which, the young film writer thinks, is partly balanced by his experience with compulsory chapel at Lake Forest. His mother, from Virginia, and his father, from Ohio, who was Chicago manager of the American Radiator company, have now joined young Bright in Hollywood.

Bright played lightweight basketball at Senn and between his high school and movie experiences spent a year seeing what living in Paris was like.

Bright now is married and has adopted the 6 year old son by the first marriage of his wife, the former Jeanne Dunne of Madison, Wis. Glasmon is single.

Glasmon who says, "I have the distinction of never graduating from any school I attended," went to Victor Lawson grammar school and John Marshall High in Chicago, but at each school took an examination in the final year which permitted him to move upward without waiting for formal graduation. His brother is Dr. Leon Glassman, Jackson and Crawford, Chicago, and he has a nephew, Orin Tovrov, who wrote the Blackfriars play at the University of Chicago this year. A niece, Blossom Tovrov, is a school editor at Hyde Park High.

Bright has two sisters, Mrs. Kendall Clough and Miss Martha Lee Bright, living in Chicago.

NEW DISCOVERIES CONFIRM VIRTUES OF BRAN IN DIET

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Two tablespoonsful daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

IT'S ALWAYS COOL AT THE WOODS!

'Tis with our judgments as our watches, none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own.—Pope.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The magic name of Barrymore—or the fact that morning admission prices have been reduced from thirty-five to twenty-five cents—or maybe both—drew some nice business to the State-Lake yesterday. The house was packed at the second show yesterday—just like old times.

"State's Attorney" is much on the order of "The Mouthpiece" in which Warren William—who looks much like Mr. Barrymore—so recently distinguished himself.

In the latter the "mouthpiece," or criminal attorney, had previously been an assistant state prosecutor. In "State's Attorney" the defender of public enemies becomes a lawyer for the people—with an eye on the governor's chair.

"The Mouthpiece" was the better picture because characters were more forcefully drawn and situations were more credible. Warren William was a far more convincing lawyer than Barrymore, who, playing with his tongue in his chéek, gives his rôle a musical comedy flavor. You can't take him seriously, though you find yourself extremely fond of the handsome, insouciant, theatrical Tom Cardigan as portrayed by the star.

All of the characters are sketchy, and the lines they speak lack the ringing quality of sincerity.

Miss Twelvetrees obliges in rather colorless fashion. She's much better in a dramatic rôle such as this of the good bad girl who loves the good bad lawyer than as an ingénue. But she doesn't get under your skin. Jill Esmond in a few brief entrances as the dashing daughter of a political boss does better and Mary Duncan makes the most of her scenes as a murderess on trial for her life. William Boyd qualifies as a so-so gangster.

The picture's main punch comes in a courtroom scene where a case unmistakably based on the Ruth Snyder affair is being tried.

Direction is as good as the story matter permits. Photography, sets, sound, etc.—okay.

Well, the "lawyer cycle" is now on ITS way. Next in line will be, I believe, "Attorney for the Defense" with Edmund Lowe.

First Year of School Often Changes Child

Takes Time for Him to Get Adjusted.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

How little some of us mothers kn w of the bravery with which others are carrying on these dolorous, and in some cases tragic days. When you're well and have enough money and no special worries, the house and the children and everyday annoyances can get you pretty wrought up and nervous.

What then, of those women who have little or no money, no work for the husband and father, and who still keep their heads up and their eyes clear and steady on the job of being good mothers? How brave and intelligent some of their letters are . . . no complaining, no self pity, no blaming of the children for naughtiness—just, "What can I do to meet this situation?" Here is one:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I am a young mother, 25, and have been reading your articles for a number of years. While the children were smaller I didn't have so much trouble in teaching them the correct things.

"But J—— is 7½ years of age and B—— is 3, and since J—— has been going to school there have been a number of things that aren't going so smoothly. They are strong, healthy children. They always have been under a doctor's care since they were born. They had the proper food, air and sunshine and plenty of sleep. And I am sure it isn't due to anything on their part that things aren't going as smoothly as they shold.

"My husband hasn't worked so steadily in the last year and the worry of it has made quite a difference in me. I don't want to be the grouchy, naggie sort of a mother and drive my children from me, so I am asking you to send the little booklet "Make Patience Your Handmaiden" in hopes that I will be able to overcome bad points about myself. If you have any others that you think would help me I will be thankful for them."

While this isn't a question and answer day, there is one comment I want to make to this mother. There is one thing for which she should not hold herself entirely responsible. The years from 5 to 7 often mark a difference in a child. School usually makes a change in children, too. They come under different influences and varied ones, and frequently take some time to adjust themselves to the schoolroom life and people. We must make some allowances and give them time to digest their experiences and find themselves.

Shrubs Offer Color to Lawn in Early Spring

Pruning Should Follow Blossoms.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The glorious foliage of early flowering shrubs offer visual proof at this season that all color effects about the home are not produced by the perennial flowers such as tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and jonquils.

The forsythia, whose bushes in many instances are a mass of yellow sprays from the ground up, are preceding the spirea in landscape bouquets. Those which are not blooming as they should will be found to have too much old wood or to be underfed.

When the blossoms are all gone from the forsythia, or golden bell, as well as from the other flowering shrubs, pruning is in order. Take out the old wood at the bottom of the bush, not the top. Leave enough branches to keep the shape of the shrub, and expect a reasonable growth of new wood this season for the balance of next spring's bush.

The practice may be followed later in the season as the other shrubs bloom. Had they been pruned last fall or winter the spring and summer bloom would have been reduced. By pruning just after flowering the new growth this season is made possible.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Baby Clothes.

"We have a new baby, and, as my husband hasn't worked for several months, we haven't been able to buy any clothing for it. Any little garments would be greatly appreciated.

"MRS. J. S."

Inability to provide even the simplest wardrobe for the new member of this family gives this mother much to grieve and worry about. I am sure almost any mother with a small baby will be able to donate a few of the things her child has outgrown.

A Gift Boys Will Like.

"My son has two or three hundred marbles which he would gladly dispose of to some unfortunate youngsters who would appreciate having them. M. N."

Here's a timely offer, and the boys who benefit by it will have a lot of fun these spring days. Those of you who'd like to share in this exciting gift had better write me immediately; please do not telephone.

Rules Pledges to Defunct College Must Be Paid

Galesburg, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—Illinois Wesleyan college of Bloomington will receive $12,083 as a result of a decision of County Judge R. L. Stuart here today in which he ruled that a pledge made to the now defunct Hedding college of Abingdon must be paid by the estate of Emeline A. Snapp. The original pledge was for $10,000. Wesleyan took over Hedding's assets and will receive the fund. The ruling was received with unusual interest here, as cases are pending against a number of Galesburg residents who made pledges to Lombard college and then refused to pay when the school closed.

St. Nicholas Magazine Is Sold to Chicagoans

New York, May 12.—(AP)—The St. Nicholas Magazine was sold today by the Scholastic publishing company to Kable Brothers, printers and publishers of Chicago and Mount Morris, Ill. Terms of the sale were not discussed. The magazine, a monthly publication for juveniles, was founded in 1873. It has been published for the last two years by the Scholastic company, which also publishes two high school magazines, the Scholastic and the Scholastic Coach.

Mae Murray Wins Dispute with Elephant

Young Beast Is Sent to Theater Alley.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 12.—Mae Murray's name has appeared in many headlines in the last few years in connection with displays of temperament, the string of incidents including Eric Von Stroheim, her former director; Robert Z. Leonard, her former husband; Jack Donovan, actor, from whom she bought a house; William Koenig, her brother, and Marjorie Berger, her former income tax adviser, but it remained for a baby elephant to elicit the latest thunder and lightning from Mae.

The actress was playing a week's turn at Loew's State theater in Los Angeles. So was a baby elephant. The elephant was quietly munching hay in a stall off the side of the wings when the theater began showing the film "Tarzan," and when the sound back snorts of his brother elephants filtered back the baby elephant stretched out his trunk and tooted a couple of baby elephant trumpet calls. These brought Miss Murray to the door of her dressing room.

Miss Murray considered it bad enough to have a baby elephant eating hay in her vicinity, but snortings and stampings, never!

The elephant showed that he was a smart elephant, even if not a big one, by interpreting the tone and text of Miss Murray's remarks, and the elephant's temper grew with that of the actress.

It ended up with Mae back in her dressing room, and the elephant, who had emphasized his remarks by grabbing a chair and brandishing it with his trunk, being banished into an alley back of the theater, where they had to put up a canvas covering to shield him from fog and the too personal solicitude of Los Angeles small boys who made up in over friendliness what Miss Murray had withheld.

Two women from the midwest were being conducted to points of interest of Hollywood. They saw Universal City. They passed Pickford street, Talmadge avenue, Lloyd avenue, Astor street, and then came to Vista Del Mar. "I can imagine them naming streets after the stars," one said, "but after the writers of magazine stories, no."

Charles Chaplin likes the orient so well that he and Brother Syd are lingering there until September. Charlie's staff had expected him here in June. And Charlie sends word that he may or may not start his next picture Jan. 1, 1933, but not before. At present the brothers are in Japan.

Dr. Finley Will Address Monmouth College Class

Monmouth, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—Dr. John H. Finley of the New York Times will deliver the 76th commencement address at Monmouth college on June 9. Dr. Finley renews relationship with Monmouth that began in the eighties when, as a student of Knox college and later as president of that institution, he was a frequent visitor on Monmouth campus. Thomas Hamilton will succeed Dr. T. Merrill Austin as head of Monmouth college school of music, President T. H. McMichael announced. Dr. Austin retires after leading Monmouth conservatory for 31 years. Mr. Hamilton was graduated from Monmouth in 1907. He comes from Muskingum college, New Concord, O.

How to Stop RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints and Muscles

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till every trace of these dangerous poisons is driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is one rheumatism remedy sold in Walgreen drug stores everywhere with money back guarantee. RU-MA quickly and safely frees muscles and joints from painful stiffness, swelling and lameness.

So many terrible sufferers from rheumatism in this vicinity have been freed from their rheumatic agony in less than a week that Walgreen's urges you to buy a bottle of Ru-Ma today and begin now to get rid of all rheumatic aches and pains.

Balanced Diet Is Necessary WhenReducing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Please give me an idea of the fat forming and nonfat forming foods. Also, please tell me if candy can be eaten at all when you are reducing. What about vitamins that are to be included in a fat reducing program? Please give me a couple of typical menus for the day, not to include over 1,400 calories. Mrs. X."

The fat forming foods are of several classes. There is butter, cream, fatty portions of meat, vegetable oil and nuts. Then there are the starchy foods, such as bread and pastry. Finally, there are sweets and sugars.

Nonfat forming foods consist in general of bulky vegetables, fruits, lean meats, fish, and fowl without fat. Balanced diets should contain adequate amounts of minerals and vitamins. These are present in fresh fruits and vegetables, fish, meat, eggs, and milk and should be included in a reducing diet.

Candy may be eaten when on a reducing diet, but it should be eaten at the end of the meal and counted in the calories for the meal. It should not be eaten in addition to the meal. One chocolate cream contains 100 calories.

Following are typical menus showing about 1,400 calories for the day's intake. Incidentally, it is wise to divide the day into 300 calories for breakfast, 300 for luncheon, and 800 for dinner.

Breakfast—Glass of orange juice, poached egg, a slice of Melba toast, and black coffee.

Breakfast—Grape fruit, roll and coffee.

At times there may come a feeling of such emptiness as to produce "blues" during reducing periods. Relief will be found in a cup of bouillon or strained vegetable soup, or in a glass of milk or a glass of fruit jiuce.

Honor Pupils to Get Awards at Assembly

Affair Part of Youth Week Program.

The celebration of Youth week will be marked tonight by the annual civic assembly at the Studebaker theater when one hundred honor students from the high schools will be presented with medals and scholarships for achievements in school and community leadership. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, will make the awards.

The addresses will be made by George W. Dixon, president of the Youth Week federation; James Mullenbach, chairman of the joint committee on public school affairs, and Lorado Taft, noted sculptor. Scholarships to the University of Chicago will be awarded to Lucy Bellegay of Austin, Robert Crane of Hyde Park and Roy Watterlohn of Tilden High schools. Winners of scholarships to Northwestern university are Glenn Judson of Austin and Charles H. Nichols of Schurz High schools, while the Armour Institute scholarship goes to John B. Pattison of Lane Technical High school. The honor students will be guests at a luncheon at the City Club of Chicago tomorrow.

Youth week will be observed today with programs emphasizing citizenship in the schools. Tomorrow is Youth day out-of-doors, and athletic contests, games and field meets will be held.

Thirty-five pupils of the Foster elementary school at 720 O'Brien street presented a pageant, "In Mother Goose Land," yesterday afternoon at the school assembly. Parents attended the pageant and other special exhibits and events which had been arranged to observe Youth week.

Engagement Told.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Antkers of 2200 West Erie street announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann, to Louis Podesta, son of Lorenzo Podesta, commission merchant. The marriage will take place on June 26 at Sacred Heart church.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Business-Like Start.

A few months ago I lost my job but was promised that I would be called back as soon as there was an opening. One afternoon I was expecting a phone call from a friend of mine at exactly 3 o'clock. At 3 the phone rang. I answered it and said: "It's your nickel; start talking." You can imagine my embarrassment when I found out it was a call from the firm where I had worked asking me to accept a position. G. M.

Defeat Defect by Ignoring It, Advises Doris

Rise Above Any Physical Handicap.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Every so often in the confidence extended me appears the individual with some physical drawback over which a stifling supersensitiveness is permitted to grow.

These are not, as a rule, petty afflictions such as a batch of freckles, string hair or a nose a bit off key according to the Grecian rule, although just such minor defects may, if constantly dwelt upon, lead to a defeating sensitiveness.

We speak here more of such things as missing fingers, reported on one occasion; of an arm gone, a leg gone, a birthmark, a scar, and so on, all of which in turn have been described at one time or another as having interfered with romance. Today, it is a bow legged girl whose state of mind needs correction. Of the men she has met, this girl tells she has proof that the reason they do not become interested is her badly bowed legs.

"One can hardly blame them," she says. "If I were a man I would not pick a bowlegged girl for my girl. But it's pretty tough on the girl."

Where physical defects have to be conquered two plans are open. One is concealment, in so far as is possible with dress and artifice. The other is to train oneself to ignore the fact that there is a defect. A huge tome could be written on the physical handicaps that have been overcome by sheer force of will. The numbers of people who have made one arm serve better than most of our two arms in successful accomplishment would take up chapters of the book and serve as noble inspiration to those with handicaps.

In fact, there is scarcely a person crippled, scarred, or maimed but has a brilliant example in one who would not admit a handicap and who went ahead and proved there is no such thing as a handicap. The big lesson to learn from these lives is the complete dismissal from the mind of any defect. Mention is never made of it. Pity is never asked for it. Sympathy is scorned. And that's the ticket one must write for oneself if success in love and in life is wanted.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

CLEVE: I'M NOT MUCH IN FAVOR of the daily cathartics in reducing programs over a long period of time, such as you state. It's better to plan the diet to include a lot of "roughage"; that is, fruits and vegetables.

ALYCE: YES, IT'S TIME TO GET the legs cleared of the superfluous hair. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my pamphlet giving detailed treatment.

C. C.: YOU'RE JUST A FEW pounds overweight. At your age do not try to lose any more than the giving up of extra sweets and things like that that you probably are eating.

Illinois Business, Professional Women Open State Meeting

Champaign, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—Approximately 400 delegates and visitors are expected to attend the eleventh annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which opened here tonight with a state board dinner meeting. The convention proper will get under way tomorrow morning with Mrs. E. Pearl Warwick, Champaign, president of the Illinois chapter, delivering the annual address. The convention will end Sunday with a meeting of old and new officers. Many business and professional women from Chicago are expected to attend this year's gathering.

Hundred Mexico City Girls of 20 Are Mothers of Six

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, May 12.—More than 100 girls in Mexico City under the age of 20 years are mothers of six children each, says El National, the publication of the dominant Revolutionary party, in connection with Mother's day. Also there are fifty-nine mothers between the ages of 20 and 30 with eleven or more children each, and six mothers between 30 and 40 with sixteen or more children each. The newspaper also asserts that there are nearly ninety mothers in the federal district more than 100 years old.

Events on the Stage

The Theater Guild's second or Chicago cast for "Mourning Becomes Electra" is now giving New York audiences a demonstration of its prowess. The Broadway theatrical reviewers are making the inevitable comparisons between this performance and the one that caused them to dance in the streets last fall.

They grant that the Chicago interpretation does not fall short of the Theater Guild's high standards, but they insist that Judith Anderson's Lavinia is not as good as Alice Brady's, especially in the final section of the trilogy; that Florence Reed's Christine is inferior to Alla Nazimova, and so on through the list of characters. The only rôle that is favored above its original is that of the Mannon's hired man, acted by Seth Arnold.

A second view of O'Neill's three-decker tragedy caused Robert Garland of the World-Telegram to remark that he sympathized with "the lady who, on emerging on Fifty-second street after the fourteenth act, told the world how nice it was to see the dear old depression again."

Claud Rains, who has been prominent in Theater Guild casts for several seasons, has been engaged by arrangement with the Guild for the leading rôle in "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," a play that will be staged in Philadelphia four weeks hence, in preparation for a Broadway engagement next season. Arthur Hammerstein and L. Lawrence Weber are the producers. Other members of the cast are Louis Calhern, Jean Arthur, Fred Perry, Hazel Miller, Royal Dana Tracy, and Dennie Moore. Herbert Biberman of the Theater Guild's staff will serve as stage director.

Ralph T. Kettering, manager of the Adelphi theater, announces that he has booked Noel Coward's comedy, "Hay Fever," with Constance Collier as star, for an engagement of two weeks, beginning May 22.

The engagement of George White's "Scandals" at the Civic Opera house, to begin May 22, has been limited to four weeks. The original plans for an unlimited summer run in Chicago have been altered because of negotiations for the company's appearance in Los Angeles during the period of the Olympic games.

Lew Leslie, producer of "Rhapsody in Black," is adding several new numbers to the program of that all-Negro revue in preparation for the opening of its return engagement in Chicago at the Apollo theater next Sunday night.

"Reunion in Vienna" will be presented by Robert McLaughlin's stock company in Cleveland, O., May 29, with Ina Claire as guest star in Lynne Fontanne's rôle. C. C.

COL. E. R. BRADLEY.

Baltimore, Md., May 12.—(AP)—Under a driving rain which has turned the racing strip at Pimlico into a morass, candidates for Saturday's renewal of the $50,000 Preakness stakes completed their training today.

Tick On, the hope of Mrs. L. G. Kaufman for the rich classic of the Maryland racing season, was the only one of the probable starters to work on the track. He turned a mile and an eighth in 2:02 in a breeze. His time for the mile was 1:44 4-5.

The Kaufman entry, which could finish no better than sixth in the Kentucky Derby, when he was favorite, will in all probability be pitted against the winner of that classic, Edward R. Bradley's Burgoo King.

Burgoo King on Way.

The King, given his final satisfactory workout in New York, was shipped to Pimlico today, ready for his effort to become the third horse in history to win the Derby and the Preakness. Gallant Fox and Sir Barton were the other Derby-Preakness winners.

The driving rain, which has been practically continuous since Monday, has made it impossible to get the Pimlico track in any semblance of fast condition by the time for the start of the mile and three-sixteenths run on Saturday.

Because of the sloppy track and the inability to work their candidates, owners withheld their decisions on whether to start.

Qualifies for Race.

Daisaburo, hope of Leslie K. Kieffer, qualified for the Preakness yesterday when he whipped Barcelona Pete, Pennywise, Ladino and Paramour, all eligibles, in the sloppy going, and was rated a certain starter.

Curacao, the Greentree stable's eligible which made a good debut in the Wood Memorial, is due to arrive at Pimlico tomorrow, and is considered a sure starter.

INJURIES FATAL TO DICK KROEGER, HURT AT ROBY

Dick Kroger of Indianapolis, veteran dirt track driver, died last night in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. He suffered internal injuries in a crash at the Roby speedway last Sunday and was believed to be progressing favorably until yesterday afternoon, when hemorrhages developed.

Milwaukee Golf Pro Held for Mann Act Violation

San Francisco, Cal., May 12.—(AP)—Louis Harry Longstaff, golf professional of Milwaukee, Wis., today was ordered by Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure to be removed to Milwaukee, Wis., to answer charges of Elsie Prill, Milwaukee, of violating the Mann act. She charged Longstaff married her in Wisconsin and brought her to California, where he took part in several golf tournaments. She said later she found he had another wife.

KING BRINGS IN LUCKY DRIFT, 10 YEARS OLD, 15-1

Young Jockey Puts Pep in Old Plater at Aurora.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Long shots and favorites are just alike to Charley King, the kid jockey, who stood the railbirds and the lawnites on their heads at the Aurora races again yesterday.

Horses are willing to run for this little fellow and it was very clearly demonstrated when he climbed into the saddle on Lucky Drift in the third race, which was a sprint at three-quarters of a mile.

Lucky Drift is now 10 years old and her legs are bunged up and sore from her long campaign. She doesn't often feel like running. In her last thirty starts, which covered a two year period, she had won just three contests against the most ordinary opposition.

Comes Home to Pay $32.30.

Yet it was different with King in the pilot house. She stepped out like the Lucky Drift of some five seasons ago and ran eleven other sprinting selling platers into the ground. When King brought her back and saluted the judges the man on the big mutuel board in the infield hung out the rather large figures of $32.30.

It was King's ride and nothing else that made it possible for old Lucky Drift to get home a half length in front of the heavily backed Romany Baw, with Ninotte badly beaten, but third.

Daily Double Pays $305.74.

King's marvelous ride made 12 holders of $2 daily double tickets happy, and each of them collected $305.74. Winning the third race, which each afternoon completes the daily doubles combination, is becoming almost a habit with King.

Just after he won on Lucky Drift, King showed up as the jockey on Essential, which was one of the shortest priced favorites of the meeting. He made no mistakes and came home an easy winner to make the favorite players happy.

Red Vest was second and Tennywood, which had made most of the pace was third. But when King started riding at the head of the stretch it was all over but the shouting and the collecting.

Foster Horses on Edge.

O. L. Foster, who trains one of the big bands at Aurora, surely has his horses on razor edge. He has been saddling a winner almost every day lately. He came through with two winners yesterday in Love Apple, which beat some speedy two year olds in the opening race, and Gypsie Chief, which captured the sixth. Both were heavily backed and the favorites in their battles.

It was Trainer Foster who developed the brilliant rider C. E. Allen. Allen no longer rides for him. A youngster by the name of D. Cox rides the Foster horses now and he looks like a comer. He staged a great ride down the stretch to win with Gypsie Chief by a neck from Polyp.

Good Sprinters Race Tomorrow.

They're going to have quite a horse race at Aurora tomorrow afternoon. It will be known as the Century of Progress handicap. The entries closed yesterday and 17 of the fleetest horses on the grounds were named for the six furlong dash.

The entries include Dr. Freeland, Tannery, Burning Up, No More, Scimitar, Paul Bunyan, Gold Step, Uncommon Gold, Blackstrap, Supreme Sweet, Hyman, Nyack, War Glow, Fortunate Youth, Butterbeans and Sherab.

Gallant Knight, winner of the Dixie handicap at Pimlico last Saturday, when he cracked the track record at a mile and three-sixteenths, will be unloaded at Washington Park today ready for a brisk campaign at the Homewood course, where the early summer Chicago season opens on May 23.

Gallant Knight heads the big string the Audley Farm stable will campaign in Chicago throughout the summer. There will be some 40 horses in the shipment, and Gallant Knight will be pointed for the Washington handicap, which features the opening day's program.

The Audley farm horses will be the first of many noted stables to arrive here during the next few days for the Washington Park season. Trainer Kay Spence is to be in charge of the shipment.

In the Wake of the News

ALL-TIME CUBS.

SHORTLY before going to Louisville for our "Feed Box" talks with Derby candidates, The Wake published from a contributor his selection of an All-Time Cub team since 1906. Evidently numerous other Cub followers awaited our return to take exception to these choices. Here is one from Helper James A. Murphy, now an editor at Canton:

"Have watched the Cubs since long before 1906, and how any one who has seen the National leaguers in action during this period can place Gabby Hartnett ahead of Johnny Kling as a catcher is a mystery to me. If I were doing it, here they are:

"First base, Chance; second base, Hornsby; shortstop, Tinker; third base, Steinfeldt; left field, Sheckard; center field, Slagle; right field, Cuyler; catchers, Kling and Archer; pitchers, Brown, Alexander, Root, Zabel, Overall, Lundgren, and possibly "Jack the Giant Killer" Pfiester; utility, "Circus Solly" Hofman.

"Hornsby is a far better batter than Evers and just as good a fielder. I umpired in the Texas-Oklahoma league when Lon Ury was about to release Hornsby in his first year out, and he was kept on my recommendation.

"Johnny Kling, I believe, was one of the greatest catchers of all time. The balance of the team speaks for itself."

Helper Cameron also is enumerated among the Kling admirers with "I am quite sure consensus of old time baseball fans would place Kling's name first among the catchers."

Back to the Farm.

Sing a song of Springtime,
Skillet full of fat,
Four and twenty doughnuts
Cooling on a mat.
Bread with golden butter,
Chicken breast and ham,
Potatoes "Saratoga,"
Pickles crisp, and jam.
Cream as thick as honey,
Cheese with peppers spread;
Peaches from a mason jar,
Spicy, sweet and red.
When the coffee's boiling,
And Hubby's good and warm,
We feast with informality
Down on the farm.

Baseball Tabloid.

New to us, at least, is the idea of a tabloid news sheet of four pages published by the St. Louis Nationals called the Cardinal News. It is issued three times a week while the team is home, and contains interesting gossip and notable records or accomplishments of the players. Distributed free to patrons, its purpose, of course, is to create good will and future patronage.

Who's Who in Women's Golf

Betty Eckersall

JANE WEILLER.

Jane Weiller, Northwestern university co-ed, made a name for herself in the golfing world by defeating June Beebe in the finals of the Chicago woman's district golf tournament last year at the Calumet Country club to win the Chicago championship. She is the low handicap woman player at the Vernon Ridge Country club and has held her club championship for four years.

Miss Weiller's match with Miss Beebe was one of the most spectacular of last season's golfing events. Jane won by sheer nerve on the 19th hole. Both girls had taken four. Miss Beebe missed her approach shot to the green, and her next chip up was short. Miss Weiller laid a beautiful mashie shot to the pin and when Miss Beebe missed her putt Jane holed out for the championship.

Miss Weiller won the consolation event in the 1931 women's western tournament at the Exmoor Country club. And it took a splendid golfer like Mrs. Melvin Jones to eliminate this 20 year old star in the semi-finals of the western open at the Midlothian Country club last year.

Despite her lack of competitive experience Miss Weiller's records seem to presage a brilliant golf career. She has been out this season practicing with the new ball, with which she is delighted.

"It putts with much greater accuracy than the old ball," she said,

Miss Weiller will compete in at last three of the western events, the W. W. G. A. Derby, the W. W. G. A. open and the women's western. She will also defend her city title at the Riverside Golf club. She has accepted an invitation of western officials to be a member of a team of twelve women to represent the United States in the international match at Winnipeg, Canada, June 22, 23, and 24.

Miss Weiller is a junior in the school of liberal arts at Northwestern university, but is, she says, "more interested in perfecting my iron shots than my school grades."

Elmhurst Triumphs, 6 to 2, Over North Central Again

Elmhurst college defeated North Central at Naperville yesterday, 6 to 2, for the second time this season. Schum held Elmhurst well until the eighth inning. Score:

U. S. Women's Golf Team Begins Practice in England

LONDON, May 12.—[Special.]—The United States women's golf team, in England to meet Britain's best feminine golfers, practiced on the Sandy Lodge Golf club course here today. Among the American players turning in good scores were Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and Helen Hicks.

AMERICAN CUP TEAM BATTLES MEXICANS TODAY

Allison Faces Tapia in Opening Match.

New Orleans, La., May 12.—[Special.]—The United States Davis cup team will seek its second round victory here tomorrow when it meets Mexico's squad. The Americans, led by Ellsworth Vines, national singles champion, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., recently won from Canada at Washington, sweeping the series with five consecutive victories.

Allison will meet Ricardo Tapia, Mexico's star player, in the opening match. In the second match Vines will face Alfonso Unda. The doubles match will be played Saturday, with the final two singles matches scheduled for Sunday.

AUSTRALIA VS. CUBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 12.—Australia and Cuba will clash in Davis cup competition here tomorrow. It will be Australia's first appearance in international tennis competition in two years. Australia has won the cup seven times.

Jack Crawford, the leading player from Australia, will open the program against Ricardo Morales in the singles. Gustavo Vollmer and Harry Hopman will meet in the second contest of the day.

DENMARK WINS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, May 12.—Denmark took another step toward the European zone Davis cup title by winning its second round match against Jugo-Slavia today. Denmark will meet Japan in its third round match.

LACOSTE RETURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 12.—Rene Lacoste, who was forced to retire because of ill health several years ago, will return to the tennis courts when France's team meets England on May 21. Lacoste's play in the tournament will decide whether he will compete on the Davis cup team. He was a member of the French Davis cup team which won against the United States in 1927.

HAFEY'S 3 HITS ADMIT HIM TO BIG 6 WITH .413

Chick Hafey, who has played in only 17 of Cincinnati's 28 games, finally won himself a regular's rating yesterday and took his place in the "big six" at the top of the National league batting list.

Hafey went to bat four times against Brooklyn and made three singles. This feat gave him 63 times at bat, enough to be classed as a regular, and a batting average of .413, third in the "big six." His appearance forced Paul Waner out of the list. All the other major league leaders were idle. The standing:

Sox Still Face Yanks, but Fix Eyes on Boston

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 12.—The Chicago White Sox, who are at their best while theorizing in a hotel lobby, had another impressive day, this afternoon's scheduled opener with the New York Yankees having been called off on account of weather of one sort or another.

There was only one thing that tempered the day's happiness—the weather man allowed it probably will be nice enough tomorrow to stage a baseball spectacle. This forecast is accepted as a very tough break for the Sox just at this time. Hope lingers, however, that the wind may shift or something and spare the Chicagoans the necessity of two unprofitable trips clear up to the Yankee stadium and back tomorrow and Saturday.

In the lobby threats today it was indicated that the Sox plan to show no mercy after they get to Boston Sunday morning for a four game series—their only scheduled four game series of the current trip. This aggressiveness in re Boston cannot be explained on the basis of last year's showing against the Red Sox, nor can it be explained on the proceedings of this season to date.

Red Sox Better Last Year.

Last year the Red Sox, miserable as they were, beat the White Sox a dozen games to ten. This year the Chicagoans have been just as persistent losers as the Bostonians, though they have played much softer opposition for the most part.

The Sox in recent years have won between 50 and 60 games, a mark that they cannot attain at their recent ratio of two wins for every 16 defeats. Unless they do better than this they will set a new record for losses, even though they won four out of their first five games of the season. The modern record for losses was set by the Athletics in 1916 when they lost 117 and won 36. The Sox have 130 games remaining, of which they must win 31 to finish better than the A's did 16 years ago. Last year the Sox won 56 and lost 97, to finish in the cellar, and in 1930 they won 62 and lost 92.

Face a Big Task.

It is apparent that with 130 games to be played and only six won so far, the Chicagoans, to tie last year's mark, must win 50 games out of these remaining 130—or considerably better than one victory out of every three games played.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Old man inefficiency hit the Cubs on all sides yesterday and their four game winning streak fell apart with a thud, much to the satisfaction of the second place Boston Braves, who gained on the leaders by grabbing an 8 to 3 victory in the opener of a three game series.

The Cubs were wrong in about as many ways as possible. Their efforts to figure out what was being thrown at them by Ed Dutch Brandt, a southpaw of note, were of no consequence until the ninth. They fielded as if they had woolen mittens on their hands, although they were not quite as bad as seven errors might indicate. And Charley Root, who is accustomed to tough luck but usually is a master in baffling the enemy, was no puzzle. Almost every Brave hit was solid, as might be guessed by the fact that in the assortment were a triple, two doubles and a homer.

No Hits for Cubs Until Seventh.

Brandt's work was so disconcerting to the home athletes that for quite a stretch he had everybody believing he was headed for a no hit triumph. He reeled off six innings without a hit against him and during that time walked only one man. Finally his spell was broken in the seventh when Billy Herman singled to make amends for some of his fielding mistakes. Johnny Moore also hit one, a scratch, in the same inning.

That was the total of the attack until the ninth when the same Johnny capped a slight flurry with a homer which accounted for all the Cubs' runs. It was the second round trip smash of the afternoon, Bubbles Hargrave having turned one loose to present the Braves with three runs in the eighth.

Worthington Hits Triple.

The Braves had a good chance to score in the second inning but missed. Worthington led off with a three bagger to deep center, and without the hindrance of a strong headwind the ball might have dented the scoreboard. The threat began to recede when Schulmerich popped to Herman. Moore uncorked a real line drive, but it went straight into Herman's paws, after which English tossed out Maranville. The only other Brave to touch base in the first three innings was Brandt, who survived in the third on Herman's muff of a soft boiled grounder. Root nailed the next two men without difficulty.

A good throw by Hemsley would have prevented the run with which Boston inaugurated the scoring in the fourth. A popup disposed of Berger and Worthington walked. J. Moore staged a holiday catch of Schulmerich's liner to left center. Worthington then stole second, the throw to get him being too far to one side to be of any value. Randy Moore slipped a single between Herman and Grimm to score Worthington. Root intercepted Richbourg's return throw and shot it to Jurges to nab R. Moore going into second.

Braves Get Going.

Maranville opened the fifth with a single to center. Hargrave drilled one down the right field line and only a speedy recovery by Richbourg held it to a single. Maranville went to third on the hit and scored when Brandt's popup fell between Jurges and Stephenson for a single. Stephenson picked up the ball and shot it to the plate in hope of heading off the Rabbit, but the throw was late as well as wild. Hargrave dashed to third and Brandt to second on the error. Knothe flied to right and Hargrave attempted to score after the catch, but Richbourg's throw to the plate nipped him. The play also put Hemsley out of action with a bruised thumb. Herman snared Urbanski's liner to end the trouble.

A pass to Maranville brought on the three Brave runs in the seventh. Hargrave flied out and Brandt also would have been retired if Herman, after picking up a grounder, hadn't dropped the ball. Knothe doubled to right center, Maranville moving across the plate and Brandt stopping at third. After J. Moore had caught Urbanski's long fly, Brandt scored and Knothe started for third. Jurges relayed the throw to that point, but his aim was

Favorite Fifth in Feature at Sportsman's Park.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Bozo and Morsnuff, two of the turf's regulars who have run against each other in many a race, met up again in the Stickney purse, the feature at Sportsman's Park yesterday. But when the field came down the stretch, it was evident Morsnuff might as well have taken the afternoon off.

Bozo came up the center of the track with a rush that was too much for the early leader Diaquiri, and Monnie, a little mare from the Battle Ax stable, who had just begun to run. When it was all over, Bozo was the winner, with Monnie second, and Diaquiri hanging on for third.

Morsnuff finished fifth, but found himself with a new room at the end of the race. J. D. Mikel, the young Illinois owner, claimed him for $1,500. Several experts present wondered if the claim included H. E. Flowers, Morsnuff's jockey.

Seabo on Winner.

When Morsnuff's came back to be unsaddled, he cast a hurt look at his apprentice rider, for it did seem the gelding deserved a better ride than he got, not to mention the customers who had made him a 9 to 10 favorite.

Bozo, ridden by George Seabo, was the track handicapper's choice, but the fans liked Morsnuff so well that Bozo paid $13.20, Monnie was at $6.28 to place and Diaquiri, 3.8 to show.

The daily double idea was presented at Sportsman's park for the first time yesterday, and proved extremely popular. However, if any one planned to walk home burdened with dollars, he was sadly disillusioned. Two well played horses, Guffie and Thistle Duke, were the winning combination, and returned $40.85 to the 118 bettors who had paired them. The total amount bet in the daily doubles was $5,156, which meant that 2,578 tickets were sold.

Guffie Barely Wins.

Jockey Melknight's great finish in the last few yards brought Guffie home just a few inches in front of Kukui and Spanish Flirt. Guffie paid $9.22 to win.

The crowd was undecided between Thistle Duke and Peralta in the third and finally made them equal favorites at 2 to 1. Thistle Duke took the lead away from Jean in the backstretch and from there on was never headed. The George Collins gelding returned $6.80.

TEWSENELDA went to the front early and, racing well, held sway to the end to win handily. AGNES SOREL improved her position gradually and was going gamely at the finish to best MISS PERFECTION. Latter had early speed and held on fairly well. BELIEVEITORNOT bettered his position on the outside and finished in courageous fashion. DIODORO was in close quarters around the far turn. LENNY tired. SAM COLE, off slowly and racing wide in the early stages, was carried to the outside fence by DOCTOR HAPPY at the stretch turn.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

LUCKY DRIFT, in a prominent position from the start, came strongly through the stretch to catch ROMANY BAW near the end and win drawing away. ROMANY BAW, never far from the pace, forged to the front at mid-stretch, but could not last. NINOTTE was in close quarters in the stretch, but was going well at the finish. GAYDONN closed gamely. LA FIESTA tired in the stretch. DISTRESS SIGNAL was off slowly and was never dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

*Field. Time, :23 2-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Essential, $4.42 straight, $3.80 place, $2.54 show: Red Vest, $5.60 place, $3.82 show: Tennywood, $4.22 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:44. At post 4 minutes. Start bad from gate. Won easily; place driving.

ESSENTIAL went to the front early and, responding gamely to punishment, held his lead to the end to win handily. RED VEST saved ground where possible and was going gamely at the finish. TENNYWOOD took a short lead in the first quarter and was raced gamely after being passed. BUZZY BOO closed some ground. LA COMPERE tired after showing early speed. ABSTAIN outbroke the others, but could not keep up. IMELDA was sharply shut off on the far turn. FORTUNA MIA, CLOIDO, and NOEL'S DRESS broke poorly. LOFTY HEIGHTS showed little.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 1-5, :47 2-5, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dollar Princess, $4.46 straight, $2.92 place, $2.46 show: Bay Rose, $3.08 place, $2.78 show: Dunes, $3.02 show. Winner trained by J. Dupuy. Went to post at 4:14½. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving.

DOLLAR PRINCESS followed the pace of BAY ROSE closely to the stretch, then went to the front when ready and drew away to easy win. BAY ROSE made the early pace, but could not resist the winner and was tiring at the end. DUNES finished fast on the outside. GOLDEN LIGHT showed a fair effort. ANALYST was in close quarters on the far turn and was never dangerous thereafter. JORGHENSON broke slowly.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

GYPSIE CHIEF, showing good early speed, went to the front after going a quarter and held POLY P. in the final drive. POLY P. showed a good effort and, although being forced a trifle wide by the winner in the stretch run, barely missed. HALF DAY came gamely through the stretch to outfinish the others. ROYAL RIOT made up ground steadily. CIRCUS PARADE stopped badly in the stretch. SELKA ran a good half mile. NORMA HAL tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

*Field. Time, :24 2-5, :48 3-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:41 3-5, 1:49. Two dollar mutuels paid: Piece Meal, $11.04 straight, $6.94 place, $4.82 show: Underdun, $16.02 place, $8.48 show: Ultramarine, $7.86 show. Winner trained by C. E. Allen. Went to post at 5:16. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

PIECE MEAL, never far from the pace, came fast in the stretch to wear down the early leaders and hold UNDERDUN in a driving finish. UNDERDUN was always close up and finished well. ULTRAMARINE closed fast. CONFIDENTIAL saved much ground in the last half mile, but was not good enough. SYDKA and FLYING WINGS tired badly.

DODGERS BUNCH HITS TO TRIUMPH OVER REDS, 5 TO 2

Phelps Is Invincible in the Last Eight Innings.

Cincinnati, O., May 12.—[Special.]—The Reds opened fire on Babe Phelps today as if they intended to run away with the game, but after they had scored twice in the first inning he had them under complete control and Brooklyn won, 5 to 2.

Si Johnson was even more effective than Phelps, allowing only six hits in seven innings, but five of them were bunched in the fifth to give the Dodgers three runs and a winning margin. Cincinnati got nine hits off Phelps.

Eppa Rixey, who relieved Johnson in the eighth, was touched for two safeties and as many runs. Babe Herman banged a triple in the first inning, while Stripp, who led the Brooklyn attack, had a triple and a single.

Cissell Stars as Cleveland Triumphs, 5-4

Boston, Mass., May 12.—(AP)—Earl Webb's temporary loss of vision on Dick Porter's drive to right field with two out in the ninth inning today gave the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 4 victory over the Red Sox.

With the score tied at 4 to 4, Bill Cissell singled for his third hit of the game. Porter then hit to right center. Webb never saw the ball. By the time Oliver retrieved it the hit had gone for a double and Cissell had scored the winning run.

Cleveland scored its first four runs in the third inning, when Mel Harder and Cissell hit successive doubles and Porter and Eddie Morgan followed with singles.

In the fourth Marty McManus hit a homer for the first Boston run. The Red Sox drove Harder to cover with four singles that netted two runs in the sixth and tied the score off Sarge Connally in the eighth when Urban Pickering came through with a pinch single after Oliver had walked and had taken second on an infield out.

KIRSCHMEYER TO WRESTLE BAUER ON FRONTON MAT

Roland Kirschmeyer, product of Oklahoma A. & M. college, will make his Chicago debut Monday night when he wrestles Hans Bauer at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

This Oklahoma school, which has dominated intercollegiate wrestling for several years, also produced Earl McCready, one of the outstanding professionals. Kirschmeyer, 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighing 238 pounds and 24 years old, has been a professional little more than a year.

This is the fourth of five matches to be closed by Promoter Joe Coffey. The main event brings back Rudy Dusek, who will try to halt the winning streak of Steve Sznosky of Boston.

A. A. Reduces Bleacher Rate to 25 Cents

Bleacher fans will be admitted to games in the American association after June 1 for 25 cents, it was decided at a meeting of the league's club owners yesterday in the Congress hotel. It was also voted to admit women to all games except those played on Sundays and holidays for 25 cents.

Heretofore the bleacher price has been 50 cents, while women have been paying the regular admission rate, except on the scheduled ladies' days.

President T. J. Hickey of Chicago called the meeting in an attempt to find a remedy for the falling off in attendance, which has endangered the finances of every club in the league.

Boys Also Get Cut Rate.

The 25 cent bleacher seats will be restricted to a number decided upon by the officials of each club. Boys under 12 years of age will be admitted to the grandstand for 25 cents, except on Saturdays and Sundays.

It had been reported that players' salaries and the sizes of the rosters were to be reduced, but no action was taken on either, although the majority of the owners said they would favor the moves if they could be arranged without disrupting the teams.

Table Tax Discussion.

The proposed 10 per cent federal tax on admissions was mentioned, but the discussion was tabled pending adoption or rejection of the bill by the United States senate.

Several of the owners had come to the meeting with a plan to move up all Monday games to Sunday and play them as part of the double header in an effort to lure additional fans through the gates, but the proposal was dropped without becoming a motion when it was agreed that the reduction in admissions costs would meet the present emergency.

Rainy, cold weather, which has caused 27 postponements since the season opened a month ago, was blamed for a part of the shrinkage in receipts, but the owners admitted attendance, even on warm days, has been far below last year's figures. Ten of the postponed games involve the Milwaukee club, which has been one of the best drawing cards in the league for many years.

Louisville Installs Lights.

Informal discussion of the adoption of night ball occupied a large part of the owners' time before the meeting. Indianapolis inaugurated the plan last season and club officials reported that the increase in receipts the first year had more than covered the cost of the installation of the lighting system, approximately $25,000.

Louisville has installed lights and expects to introduce night games as soon as summer weather arrives.

COAST NOT ALARMED

San Francisco, Cal., May 12.—(AP)—Baseball in the Pacific Coast league is suffering from a financial fever at this time, but, take it from President Hyland Baggerly, there is "no cause for alarm so far as the game is concerned out this way."

"Club owners in the Coast league," Baggerly said today, "were farsighted enough to meet this issue before it really happened. All clubs have retrenched. Our latest reports indicate that business is picking up.

"The Portland and Sacramento clubs are doing well. Los Angeles played to better attendances last week than in previous series. Some of the clubs are showing a loss at present, but this is not unusual. Most of them run in the red for the early part of the season.

"I believe the Coast league is on more solid ground than any of the other minor leagues."

Expect Price Reduction.

Baggerly expressed the opinion the Coast league would come to 25 cent baseball. With this sum as the minimum, he pointed out, it would be advisable for all clubs to adjust their own maximum prices.

A proposition for a 25 per cent horizontal pay cut made by the Oakland club owners to their players was abandoned, but a reduction of the playing personnel to a minimum is planned.

Wanna Catch That 5:15? Let McCormick Do Your Runnin'

IRISH FLYER

BILL M'CORMICK.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When Coach John Nicholson called for track candidates last fall, preparatory to training for the indoor season, he found only six or seven first rate performers. But by picking up points here and there Notre Dame succeeded in winning dual meets from Illinois, Iowa, Butler, and Marquette and the central intercollegiate conference championship.

One of Notre Dame's best athletes, and he's been in the grade A classification for three years, is Bill McCormick, captain of the team. He's a sprinter, especially good at the 60 yards. His record over this distance shows he has tied the world's indoor record of 6 1-5 seconds four times. Once in his sophomore year, McCormick matched this mark. He did it again in his junior year and last winter he was timed twice at 6 1-5 seconds.

He's Plenty Fast.

Bill won the 70 yard dash in the Armour meet and also triumphed in the Bankers' meet in Chicago last winter.

Twice last year, in outdoor competition, McCormick ran the 100 yards in 9 6-10 seconds. On the first occasion at the Ohio State relays, Bill was defeated by Eddie Tolan of Michigan by a matter of inches. The second time McCormick was the winner in the meet with the United States Naval academy, which Notre Dame won. That was the middies only defeat of the season.

Once last year McCormick ran the 220 yard sprint, winning in the first meet of the season against Wisconsin in the fair time of 21 5-10 seconds. Notwithstanding that at 60 yards McCormick is as good as they come, and that at 100 yards he's generally certain to score points, many believe he will eventually be best at 220 yards.

Then, There's Darling.

McCormick comes from Granite City, Ill., and while track didn't have much of a place in the high school athletic program, the home folks can dig up quite a few of sectional records which have not been beaten since Bill started for Notre Dame.

Bob Darling, star Notre Dame high jumper, bears out Nicholson's claim. He stands six feet two inches tall and weighs 205 pounds, which is plenty of heft to lift over a bar at six feet.

Darling's best performance came last winter in the central intercollegiate conference meet when he cleared the bar at 6 feet 2⅞ inches. That was a great performance for a man of Darling's size.

Darling is a senior. Nicholson told him once that if he would take off about 30 pounds, he could be a great high jumper. Darling tried dieting for a week, but decided he'd rather enjoy life and be just a fair high jumper.

Howery's Good Too.

Another of Notre Dame's stars is Gene Howery. In his three years at Notre Dame he has won more than his share of points in the two mile and many times has run both the mile and two mile the same day. His best time is 9:30.3 indoors, the Notre Dame record. He has done 4:25 in the mile and in the opinion of Coach Nicholson is capable of faster time. He was captain of the cross country team last year.

PICK BADGERS TO WIN 3 WAY TRACK CONTEST

Wisconsin's track team is favored to win the triangular meet on Stagg field tomorrow, with Chicago having a slight advantage over Northwestern. The Badger strength in the field events and the longer runs gives them the edge.

John Brooks, the sophomore who won the 100, 220, and broad jump and took second in the low hurdles last week in the triangular meet with Indiana and Purdue, is the mainstay of the Maroon squad, but Capt. Roy Black should win the high hurdles and Ted Haydon figures to place. Haydon and Tom Goodrich also are good for points in the discus and hammar throw, and Jerry Jontry ranks with the best of the quarter milers in the meet.

Wisconsin may not have Ralph Loyshin, vaulter, who won in the Drake relays with 13 feet 6 inches, because of an injury he received while running the high hurdles, his secondary event. George Wright, Big Ten outdoor two mile champion, who has been ill, is running again, and figures to take both the mile and two mile races. Capt. Ted Shaw and Robert Murphy, high jumpers; Kabat and Simmons, weight men; Crummey in the 880, and Kirk in the mile, are other sure point winners for Wisconsin.

SEVEN GAMES ON CARD FOR TEAMS OF W.-I. LEAGUE

Seven games, including the two league contests and one doubleheader, will be played Sunday by teams in the Wisconsin-Illinois league. The colored All-Stars will play at Logan Square Park in the only local league championship game, while the Chicago Giants will make their first appearance at Sheboygan.

The doubleheader will be staged at Mills Stadium, where the House of David winds up a four game series. The Battle Creek Postums will play the Duffy Florals at Shewbridge field. Chicago Firemen at Rockford and Madison at La Crosse complete the schedule.

Bush or Smith to Handle Cubs' Pitching Today

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs will flip a coin today to determine whether Guy Bush or Bob Smith faces the Braves in the second of the series. Bill McKechnie, the Boston pilot, has no particular order for picking his pitchers, so he may come up with Huck Betts, Socks Seibold, or Ben Cantwell.

The great Art Shires, who suffered a broken nose and twisted knee a couple of weeks ago, will return to the lineup as soon as warm weather arrives. Art's nose is a bit crooked, but as he remarked yesterday, "You can't win games on your beauty. You got to get them base hits."

Johnny Welch, the pitcher sent to Los Angeles only to bounce back because the option rule had been violated, was sent to the Newark, N. J., International league club yesterday by the Cubs.

The temperature was so low that the Cubs officials waited until 2 o'clock before deciding to stage the show. Despite the uncomfortable conditions the patronage was in the neighborhood of 6,000.

Dr. John Davis, the club physician, has requested Ki Cuyler to be in Chicago Monday to have a new cast placed on the foot which was fractured a few weeks ago. Cuyler now is at his home in Harrisonville, Mich.

Hemsley, who jarred his right thumb when he tagged Hargrave in a play at the plate in the fifth inning, was sent to the hospital to have the hand X-rayed. No bones were broken, but he may have to be idle for a few days.

It was a great day for the old men. Bubbles Hargrave, who was a Cub at the old west side park, hit a homer and single. Rabbit Maranville, who has a mere 19 big league years to his credit, helped himself to two singles and a pass. He scored each time.

ED LIEFER WINS TWIN ORCHARDS TOURNEY WITH 73

Ed Liefer shot a 36—37—73 to win the low gross prize in the first Chicagoland invitational golf tournament at the Twin Orchards Country club yesterday. Art Sweet took second prize with a 74 and M. Bernbaum won third prize with a 76. More than 300 competed in the meet.

First place in the foursome event went to Ed Levy, Joe Wyckoff, Pat Hevy, and Joe Silverstein with a total score of 537. The blind bogey winners were Abe Lepine, 78; Otto Singer, 76, and Joe Sherman, 75.

bad. The ball rolled in to the dugout and Knothe scored.

Hargrave Smacks Home Run.

The assault in the eighth began when with one out Herman made a one-handed stab of Schulmerich's drive close to second and was given an undeserved error because he failed to hold the ball. Moore fouled out, but Maranville punched a single past his old singing companion, Grimm, and Schulmerich went to third. Hargrave ran his string to one and one before scoring his two team mates on a drive into the right field bleachers. Herman then made a bad throw on Brandt for his fourth error of the afternoon, but Root escaped further annoyance by fanning Knothe.

Two were out in the ninth before the Cubs decided they weren't going to stand for a shutout. Herman singled to deep short and English walked. J. Moore then drove his homer over the screen in the right field corner. Stephenson followed with a single through short but Hartnett flied to Maranville and that was all.

Kansas Coach to Direct Frosh, Varsity Grid Work

Lawrence, Kas., May 12.—[Special.]—Under a new plan, adopted by the board of directors at a meeting yesterday, Coach H. W. Hargiss will have charge of both the varsity and freshman football teams at the University of Kansas, it was announced today.

Lane Winning Streak Halted by Roosevelt

Percy Moore, who has coached Lane Tech baseball teams to seven Chicago Public High School league championships in the last ten years, hereafter probably will keep his regulars around the home lot for a league game instead of sending them away for a non-league contest.

Moore made that mistake yesterday and Lane Tech suffered its first defeat of the league season. The members of the second team, after holding a 3 to 2 lead, folded up in the last inning and Roosevelt scored a 4 to 3 victory at Logan Square park.

However, Moore may find some solace in the first team's eighth inning triumph over Waukegan, 5 to 2, on Waukegan's field. Hari allowed only five hits and struck out 12.

Second Favorite to Lose.

Lane is the second favorite to have its string of victories broken. Bowen, south division champion, lost to Fenger last week. Lane clinched the north section title by defeating Senn last Monday and also qualified for the semi-finals.

Coaches of teams which will compete in the semi-final round for the league title will gather in the office of A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary, at 460 South State street, this afternoon to arrange the dates of the games, which probably will start next week. The date of the final game also will be set.

In a central division contest Lindblom defeated Hyde Park, 11 to 0, at Bryne field. It was Hyde Park's eighth defeat of the league season and ended its schedule. McKinley, aided by the pitching of Dalberti, won from Marshall, 12 to 5, at McKinley park in a west section game.

Hyde Park Goes Hitless.

Hyde Park failed to get a hit off three Lindblom hurlers, Narburt, Stevens and Tatarwicz. Lindblom scored five runs in the third on two hits off Cohen. The scores:

Roosevelt .....020 000 2—4 7 1

OUTDOOR FANS SEE 8½ POUND RAINBOW TROUT

Michigan Waters Produce Huge Fish.

BY BOB BECKER.

When a rainbow trout is so large that an inexperienced fisherman won't believe it is a rainbow even when he is looking at the specimen, it must be quite a fish. Such a trout was on display early in the week at the Outdoor exposition now being held in the Coliseum.

It was a beauty, weighing 8½ pounds, and rested in a box of ice in the display from the lower peninsula of Michigan. Next to it was a whopping big northern pike or pickerel [Esox lucius], which must have weighed 15 or 20 pounds, also from Michigan waters.

Won't Believe His Eyes.

An experienced fisherman came along, looked carefully at the trout, resplendent with a broad pink stripe on its side, and then refused to believe that it was a rainbow. Apparently unaware of the fact that rainbows attain a large size, he insisted that this specimen was a lake trout and that somebody was trying to trick him. The western states point with pride to the big rainbows which are taken in lakes out there, and the rainbows of Michigan [originally from western stock] are no midgets.

When the big fellows come out of Lake Michigan to spawn in the streams in the spring hundreds of them are captured at dams and then released in inland waters.

In the upper part of the lower peninsula of Michigan the Manistee river is one of the streams which is home to some giant rainbows. Fishermen in Chicagoland who have a hankering to connect with some of them may well visit the Manistee near the little lumbering town of Mesick. The story of the big rainbows up there can be summed up briefly. Seven miles below Mesick is the Hodenpyle dam. From the dam to the town there is a stretch of deep water.

Dumped Into Backwater.

Every year the big rainbows pile up against the dam during the spawning run. They are lifted over and dumped into the backwater. Later, when warm weather arrives, the big fellows come down the Manistee to get into the deep pools. Above the dam last year 108 rainbows were taken one Sunday and the smallest weighed 3 pounds. The largest was over 30 inches in length, if one is to believe a fisherman who connected with some of the big rainbows in that water.

The Manistee also offers some wonderful brook trout fishing above this deep backwater formed by the dam. The river is several hundred miles long, so there is plenty of room for fly fishermen.

Today Is Minnesota Day.

Today will be Minnesota day at the Outdoor Life show in honor of the visit of Gov. Floyd B. Olson of that state.

With Gov. Olson will be other state officials who are members of the Minnesota commission for the Century of Progress in Chicago. The commission will inspect the grounds in Grant park and confer with officials of the 1933 fair.

Following the close of the Outdoor show, the hundreds of small pine and spruce trees used for decoration will be turned over to Boy Scouts, it was announced yesterday by Milo E. Westbrooke, exposition manager. The Scouts will use them to make chairs, picture frames, and other rustic furniture.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An announcement on Wednesday of the fishermen's casting contest at the Coliseum stated erroneously that the Northwest Casting club had merged with the California Park club. The Northwest club has not consolidated with any other club and holds its own tournaments every Sunday.

TAKE TITLE TO 5200 SHERIDAN ROAD BUILDING

Reorganization Plans to Be Announced.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Title to the eight story apartments at 5200 Sheridan road was conveyed yesterday by the Sheridan Road Building corporation, of which Fred Callahan is president, and Ann Rubenstein is secretary, to Robert E. Straus, who took title for the bondholders' protective committee. The building, which occupies a 225x150 site at the northwest corner of Foster avenue and Sheridan road, was financed by an S. W. Straus & Co. $1,650,000 bond issue in 1926. Both interest and principal defaulted April 1, 1931.

Reorganization plans will be announced later, according to Gottlieb & Schwartz, attorneys in yesterday's transaction. The bondholders' protective committee is composed of Charles C. Irwin, chairman; N. H. Oglesbee, J. C. Wright, Frederick W. Straus, and Robert E. Straus. V. C. Scully is secretary.

5125 Kenmore Building.

Occupancy of the 5125-27 Kenmore avenue apartment building was 84.30% on March 31, 1932, according to Walter C. Palmer, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. The property was originally financed through a Lackner, Butz & Co. $107,500 bond issue, at 6½%. The property is being managed by the Real Estate Management corporation. A bill of foreclosure was filed on Feb. 18, 1932, but no receiver has been appointed as the net income is being accumulated for the bondholders, states Mr. Palmer.

The statement of receipts and disbursements from June 1, 1930, to March 31, 1932, shows:

Receipts:
Gross income	$30,852
Disbursements:
Operating expenses $24,197
Insurance premiums.... 1,210

Buena Terrace Apartments.

Foreclosure proceedings have been instituted but a decree of sale has not yet been entered in the Buena Terrace apartment first mortgage bond issue, which was underwritten by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company. The original issue was $675,000, at 6½%, since reduced to $634,000. No receiver has yet been appointed, the property being managed by the Chicago Title and Trust company and the net income is being turned over to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, trustee.

A statement of cash receipts and disbursements from Jan. 1, 1931 to March 31, 1932, show:

Receipts:
Gross income	$82,838
Disbursements:
Operating expenses $65,512
Other disbursements 16,707	82,219
Excess of receipts over disbursements	$ 609
Balance on hand Jan. 1, 1931	7,749
Cash balance, March 31, 1932	$ 8,358

The occupancy of the Buena Terrace apartments on Dec. 31, 1932, was 61.09 per cent, according to C. J. Olsen, secretary of the Greenebaum bondholders' protective committee.

ENGLAND CUTS DISCOUNT RATE TO 2½ PER CENT

Bankers Say London Works with U. S.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Bank of England reduced its discount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent yesterday. Later in the day the directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in the 3 per cent rediscount rate. Thus, for the first time in a number of years, the English bank rate is lower than the American rate. Moreover, the English rate is now the same as the rediscount rate of the Bank of France.

Bankers were inclined to regard the action of the Bank of England as denoting coöperation between the English institution and the American federal reserve authorities. Both countries have suffered severely from depression and both have sought means to counteract continued deflation of credit and commodity prices. Therefore, it would be natural for them to join in a movement to stimulate trade by a common easy money policy.

Moreover, it is regarded likely that France, the chief gold holding country in Europe, may enter the combination, as the French also are feeling the pinch of world conditions. If this should develop, it probably would result in a stoppage of European gold withdrawals from this country and even a return movement, which would facilitate the credit expansion plans of our reserve system. For several weeks the New York Reserve bank has been expected to reduce its rediscount rate, but such action probably has been delayed in view of the considerable recent exports of gold.

Federal Reserve Report.

That the federal reserve system is continuing its credit expansion policy is attested by its weekly statement, issued yesterday. During the last week the reserve banks purchased an additional $93,386,000 of government obligations, which had the result of throwing that much money into the open money market. Moreover, these purchases conformed with the policy established several weeks ago of buying approximately $100,000,000 of government securities each week. The reserve banks now hold a total of $1,385,267,000 in government securities.

The reserve banks reduced their holdings of bankers' acceptances by $1,803,000, bringing this item down to $42,719,000. At the same time the member banks made a further reduction of $34,428,000 in their borrowings at the reserve banks, bringing such loans down to $471,373,000. Against these moderate borrowings, the member banks now have reserve accounts totaling $2,144,373,000 at the reserve banks. It is the belief of the reserve authorities that sooner or later these funds must be put to use through the medium of commercial loans and thus foster credit expansion. A move in this direction is indicated by the fact that these reserve accounts declined $2,775,000 for the week.

Note Circulation Declines.

Another satisfactory factor in the reserve system statement was a decline of $10,283,000 in federal reserve note circulation, indicating a trickling back to the banks of money heretofore in hoarding. Federal reserve money now outstanding totals $2,272,975,000. Total deposits at the reserve banks increased $35,873,000, due chiefly to enlarged government deposits. Gold reserves declined $36,004,000, but still stand at $2,956,417,000. Total reserves receded $39,096,000. The ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 65.6 per cent, compared with 66.8 per cent last week.

With the decline in the stock market, brokers' loans declined $61,000,000 in the last week to a new low level at $433,000,000, according to the reserve board's weekly summary. This also marks a decline of $1,233,000,000 from a year ago, when the total was $1,671,000,000. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $57,000,000 and interior banks withdrew $4,000,000.

LONDON BROKERS CHEER

LONDON, May 12.—(AP)—The cut today in the Bank of England discount rate was the fifth reduction in less than three months. Announcement of the lowered rate brought forth cheers in the stock exchange, and some additional slight gains were reported on securities of good yield. As usual, the stock exchange had anticipated the reduction by raising values of gilt edged offerings.

London clearing banks today reduced the interest rate paid on deposits from 1 per cent to one-half of 1 per cent. The new rate is the lowest in effect in many years.

EMIL LEDERER MADE CZAR OF ATLANTIC SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 12.—Despite the vigorous opposition of some of the government subsidized trans-Atlantic lines, the appointment of Emil Lederer as the czar of trans-Atlantic carriers was approved unanimously at the end of a three day session of the Atlantic conference at the Hotel George V. here today. Lederer, as the Will Hays of the high seas, will be authorized to look at the books of all shipping companies in order to prevent any unfair competition. It was also decided at the conference that rates recently agreed upon would not be altered.

Bank Heads Give Farewell Dinner to Arthur Reynolds

About 40 of the senior officers of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company gave a farewell dinner last night at the Chicago club to Arthur Reynolds, who resigned as chairman of the board of directors last week. Mr. Reynolds will sail for Europe next Tuesday and on his return will live in California.

Federal Aid for Jobless Affects Bonds

New York, May 12.—(AP)—The bond market receded today, but it did so with apparent reluctance. High grade issues resisted liquidating flurries fairly well. With the exception of secondary railway liens, there was little urgent selling.

United States government loans, which have held around the year's high levels for several weeks, suffered a sinking spell. This was attributed partly to the movement in Washington for large unemployment relief loans and to the various contradictory interpretations of Senator Robinson's proposal for a $2,000,000,000 public works program.

Bankers Discuss Problem.

Some banking authorities were of the opinion that the Robinson scheme did not necessarily mean the floating of new government bond issues. It was pointed out that projects, which would eventually pay for themselves, could be easily financed without any direct government loans if they were underwritten by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

While industrial and utility liens held up well in today's session, the railroads were without friends. Losses of from 1 to around 5 points were recorded by some bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Chesapeake corporation, Rock Island, Colorado and Southern, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, Frisco, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific. Southern Pacific convertible 5s lost 19½ points on the sale of two bonds.

Atchison Bonds Steady.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé general 4s were heavily traded for the loss of 1 point, but the road's adjustment 4s gained 1½ points. Moderate advances were also recorded by liens of Canadian Pacific, Chicago and North Western refunding 5s, New Haven refunding 4½s, and several others. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico loans were down from 3½ to 8½ points.

Foreign obligations were quiet. French government bonds steadied and the Germans eased. Polish, Finnish, Austrian, and Colombian 7s advanced.

A rather decided downdrift again developed in the curb exchange today. Trading quickened a little, but the market remained a thin, sluggish affair. Selling was well distributed through virtually all groups.

Electric Bond and Share remained an active feature, selling off ¾ of a point to 11½. Atlas Utilities was also sold in considerable volume, sagging ½ point to 5. The utility list generally, however, was quiet. Commonwealth Edison lost a point, while Cleveland Electric Illuminating gained 1 point in a small turnover.

Oil Bonds Fairly Firm.

Leaders in the oil group held up fairly well. Net losses in Gulf, Humble and Indiana were kept to ⅛ of a point. Standard of Nebraska, however, tumbled 3½ points in a thin market, and Kentucky lost 1¾.

In the industrials, Deere, which firmed yesterday along with the wheat market, fell back a point as wheat weakened. Other issues losing a point or so included Aluminum company, Carnation company, Sheaffer Pen, and Swift International. Ford of Canada and Swift & Co. were off fractionally. Great Atlantic and Pacific yielded a couple of points. United Shoe Machinery and Singer Manufacturing gained a couple of points each in a few odd lot dealings.

PROFIT SHOWN BY TIDE WATER ASSOCIATED OIL

New York, May 12.—(AP)—An indication of improved conditions in the oil industry is seen in the March 31 quarterly statement of the Tide Water Associated Oil company, showing net profit for the period of $527,602, compared with net loss of $191,575 for the first quarter of 1931. The above profits are after interest, depreciation, depletion, minority interest, taxes, and other charges.

The Tide Water Oil company, a subsidiary, had a net profit of $8,503 in the March quarter, compared with a net loss of $1,145,344 in the March quarter last year. Associated Oil company, another subsidiary, reported for the March quarter net profit of $727,735, equal to 32 cents a share, compared with $1,069,244, or 47 cents a share, in the first three months of 1931.

Farm Board Will Hold On, Declares Chairman Stone

Chairman Stone of the farm board denied yesterday in Washington midwestern reports that the board had been unable to refinance its stabilization wheat holdings and would liquidate them immediately. "Those reports are absolutely untrue," he said. "All loans on the stabilization wheat were renewed by banks this spring. The board has repeatedly said that it would follow rigidly its policy of selling 5,000,000 bushels monthly."

Heinrich F. Albert Leads North German Lloyd Co.

BREMEN, Germany, May 12.—(AP)—Heinrich F. Albert was elected chairman of the board of the North German Lloyd Steamship company today. He was in the United States from 1914 to 1917 on an economic mission for Germany, later became foreign property trustee, and subsequently was a minister in the Cuneo cabinet. He represented Germany at the St. Louis exposition in 1904.

TREASURY DEFICIT RISES; EXPECT IT MAY GO TO 3 BILLION

Washington, D. C., May 12.—(AP)—The government's deficit for the 1932 fiscal year reached $2,513,525,267 on May 10, with prospects of amounting to $3,000,000,000 or more before the end of the fiscal year on June 30. On last Tuesday the government had collected from all sources $1,710,436,405 and had spent $4,229,961,672. The deficit then was nearly three times that for the previous fiscal year.

SEVERAL FIRMS PLAN TO VOTE ON CAPITAL CHANGES

New York, May 12.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation will vote June 15 on the company's proposal to retire 337,682 shares of common stock and reduce capital by $5 each share retired.

Stockholders of Alliance Realty company today approved the plan to change the par value of the common shares to $5 from no par.

Directors of Consolidated Film Industries at a meeting on May 16 will authorize a write down of patents carried on the Dec. 31 balance sheet at $463,281 and good will and other items carried at $1,888,529 to $1.

The committee of minority stockholders of the Union Tobacco company has sent another letter to the class A and common stockholders requesting their coöperation in opposing the company's plan for distributing certain assets to some of the preferred stockholders.

I. T. & T. DROPS TWO SPANIARDS AS DIRECTORS

New York, May 12.—(AP)—All directors of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, with the exception of two Spanish members of the board, were reëlected at the annual meeting, it was announced today.

Conde de Guell and Marquis de Urquijo were the Spanish directors not reëlected. No comment was available from offices of the company as to why they were dropped. Frederick W. Allen, New York banker, was the only new member elected to the board.

No action was taken toward filling the vacancy in the directorate resulting from the death of Ivar Kreuger last March. Kreuger had been placed on the board last year, in connection with the deal whereby I. T. & T. was to have acquired a controlling interest in the Ericsson Telephone company.

SMALLER LOAN NOW SOUGHT BY PENNSYLVANIA

Washington, D. C., May 12.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad today filed a supplemental application reducing from $55,000,000 to $27,500,000 its application for authorization by the interstate commerce commission of a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Public Utilities to Be Subject of Talk at U. of C.

Harry R. Booth, attorney for the Utility Consumers and Investors' league, will lead a round table discussion group at the University of Chicago tonight at 8 o'clock in Social Science Assembly hall, 1126 East 59th street. He will discuss holding companies.

Western Union Profit for Quarter Is $88,088

Western Union Telegraph company reported net income for March of $307,408 after taxes and charges, as contrasted with $744,787 in the like month a year ago; and for the first three months of this year $88,088, against $1,260,185 for the corresponding quarter of last year.

PARIS POLICE CHARGE KREUGER'S FRIENDS DELAYED SUICIDE NEWS

PARIS, May 12.—(AP)—Today's newspapers carried dispatches from New York telling of testimony by a witness in an investigation of Ivar Kreuger's American affairs to the effect that the Paris police had withheld announcement of Kreuger's suicide until certain interests had disposed of their Kreuger stocks. A formal denial of this was issued today at police headquarters. What happened, the police said, was that those of Kreuger's intimates who knew of his death did not notify the police until several hours after the suicide, and it was not until still later that Kreuger's identity was established.

COCA COLA CO. SUED BY ANOTHER STORE SYSTEM

New York, May 12.—(AP)—The Coca Cola company became involved in another legal action today when it was named defendant in two suits brought by The Mirror, a chain of candy stores, which asks damages totaling $1,250,000.

The Mirror alleges that because it entered into contracts to sell Pepsi Cola in its stores, the Coca Cola company has attempted to wreck the capital structure of Mirror, and has tried to intimidate Mirror customers, and that its agents have "stolen goods, food and merchandise" from Mirror stores. For this Mirror asks $1,000,000.

The other suit, for $250,000, is a libel action based on the Coca Cola company's charge that Mirror employés attempted to serve Pepsi Cola to customers when Coca Cola was the drink called for.

The Coca Cola company was sued previously by Loft, Inc., which seeks $5,250,000, and the Pepsi Cola company, Inc., for $2,000,000. The complaints in both actions are similar to those of the Mirror.

SWIFT SHARES LEAD TRADE ON CHICAGO BOARD

Prices on the Chicago exchange receded yesterday in common with the trend in all securities markets. The bulk of the day's 41,000 share turnover represented sales in two stocks, Swift & Co. and Swift International. Each issue was off moderately. Both shares have been unusually active during the last ten days and the strong support they have been given was apparent again yesterday.

Actual net price changes were most of a fractional class. A few issues showed large declines. Commonwealth Edison lost slightly over a point as La Salle street awaited announcement of the company's plans for meeting the June 30 bond maturity. Telephone Bond and Share, an inactive stock, lost 13½ points on a 20 share transaction.

North American Light Reports Earnings Decrease

North American Light and Power company yesterday reported consolidated net earnings for the 12 months ended March 31 of $3,578,573, equivalent to $1.50 a share on the average number of common shares outstanding during the period. This contrasts with net in the preceding 12 months of $5,408,741, or $2.32 a share, on the common. The company is jointly controled by North American company and the Middle West Utilities company.

Bank Clearings Decline in 47 Leading Cities

New York, May 12.—(AP)—Bank clearings of 47 leading cities for the week ended May 11, as reported to Bradstreet's, aggregated $4,733,268,000, a decrease of 16.3 per cent from the preceding week and of 43.5 per cent from the corresponding week a year ago. Part of the decline from the previous week is attributed to the fact that the figures reflect neither mid-monthly nor month-end payments.

3 Receivers Busy with Middle West

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

All three of the men named as receivers of the Middle West Utilities company are taking an active part in untangling the affairs of this holding company, it is learned.

The opinion sometimes heard in La Salle street that Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch merely lent their names to aid Samuel Insull in working out a reorganization is contradicted by the activity these men are showing in the company's affairs.

Mr. McCulloch is devoting most of his time to his task as co-receiver of the company. He recently resigned as chairman of the board of the John R. Thompson company of which he was the active head to become one of the agents of the federal court in administering the company's affairs. Mr. Hurley is regulating his manifold activities in order to give his active attention to his new task.

Leave for New York.

Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Hurley left yesterday for New York to confer with bankers there over National Electric Power company, the top holding unit of Middle West's Atlantic seaboard properties. Accompanying them was Bruce Johnson, their counsel.

Samuel Insull, the third receiver, did not make the journey. While it was stated at the offices of the company that the New York trip lacked special significance, it was regarded as an indication of the co-receivers' part.

The status of National Electric Power and the National Public Service company, its subsidiary, has been radically changed because the parent concern is in receivership. The court action resulted in making the eastern group an almost independent organization. The management has reported progress in putting its house in order.

Bank Loans Are Reduced.

Bank loans have been reduced and all dividend payments have been suspended with the prospect that the companies stand to strengthen their financial positions.

Middle West's interest in National Electric Power system rests entirely in control of the voting stocks. Receivership for the parent concern does not necessarily involve National Electric or its subsidiaries. Middle West has the power to control the annual meeting, but stockholders will not meet again for another 10 months.

That Middle West may eventually dispose of its controlling interest in the eastern group is considered likely. No developments, however, are expected in this direction in the near future.

Wisconsin Power Financing.

The first piece of public financing by one of the Middle West units since the naming of the receivers was announced yesterday. Public offering will be made today of $1,000,000 Wisconsin Power and Light company first lien and refunding mortgage 6 per cent bonds. The issue matures May 1, 1952, and is being offered at 88 and interest. The offering syndicate is headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and includes Paine, Webber & Co. and Hill Joiner & Co. Proceeds are to be used to reimburse the company for expenditures already made and for other corporate purposes. The company's operations center in Wisconsin, but extend into adjacent states.

Cosden Oil Co. Retains Many Properties in Deal

Cosden Oil company of Illinois states that the announcement printed in Tuesday's TRIBUNE that the Conoco Oil company had purchased Cosden Oil was misleading. Only those properties of Cosden in Chicago, Michigan and a part of Wisconsin were involved in the deal, it was stated. Cosden retains 20 bulk stations in Wisconsin, 60 stations in Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska in addition to a number of service stations in that territory. THE TRIBUNE story was based on the announcement of Conoco Oil company.

UNION PACIFIC SLICES DIVIDEND FROM $10 TO $6

Gets Less Income on Investments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 12.—The Union Pacific railroad, one of the few carriers which had not reduced the rate of disbursements to stockholders, today took action to place distributions more in line with current earnings by reducing the quarterly common dividend from $2.50 to $1.50 a share.

The directors' action placed the common stock on a regular $6 annual basis, against the $10 a share which had been paid since 1919. The company has maintained an unbroken record of dividend payments on the common stock since 1900, when the issue was placed on a $3.50 annual basis. Special distributions raised total disbursements on the common in 1914 to $12 a share, and to $11.50 in 1917.

Wall Street Kept in Doubt.

While the liberal yield obtainable on the stock at market levels recently prevailing had given rise to uncertainty over the maintenance of the former $10 basis, Wall street had not definitely concluded that a reduction was likely today in view of the strong treasury position of the company and the relatively satisfactory earnings for 1931.

Net income for 1931 was equal to $9.93 a share, an amount only about $150,000 short of dividend requirements for the year on the $10 basis. It was, however, substantially below the 1930 results when net equaled $15.63.

At the close of 1931 the company was in characteristically strong financial position, with current assets of $69,508,747 and current liabilities of $50,026,437. The former included approximately $39,000,000 of cash and government securities.

For the first three months gross revenue of $27,795,000 was reported, a decrease of nearly $10,000,000 from that of the corresponding 1931 period, while net operating income of $2,733,308 was less than $800,000 smaller than that of a year ago.

Investment Returns Curtailed.

The Union Pacific receives, however, a large part of its income from investment holdings, and revenue from this source has been considerably curtailed.

The Alabama Great Southern railway omitted the semi-annual dividend of $3 on common stock, but declared a semi-annual dividend of $1.50 on preferred. Previously the preferred was on a $2 semi-annual basis.

Six months ago the company omitted the usual semi-annual extra dividends of $1.50 a share on each class of stock. The preferred dividend is payable Aug. 15 to holders of record July 9. The company is controlled by the Southern railway.

Royal Dutch Dividend.

Royal Dutch company declared a final dividend of 6 per cent for 1931, equal at the present rate of exchange for the guilder to approximately 81 cents a share on the New York shares. This compares with an interim dividend of 10 per cent and a final of 7 per cent in 1930, the interim payment being omitted in November, 1931. Shell Transport and Trading company, Ltd., declared a final dividend of 7½ per cent on the common stock, tax free, for 1931.

No interim dividend was paid in November last year, while in 1930 the company paid a final of 7½ per cent and interim of 15 per cent. The dividend on Shell Transport is estimated to equal about 55 cents a share on the American shares.

Burma Oil company, Ltd., declared a final dividend of 12½ per cent less tax, the same as last year, making 17½ per cent for the twelve months. American receipts are traded in on the curb, and announcement of the amount of the American share dividend will be made shortly.

Western Auto Supply.

Directors of Western Auto Supply company of Kansas City declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share each on the class A and class B stocks, placing the issues on a $1 annual basis compared with $2 paid previously.

The Underwood-Elliott-Fisher company declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, compared with 50 cents quarterly paid previously.

Coca Cola International corporation, which controls Coca Cola company, declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $3.50.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 12.—The speculative market received another setback today. Selling went on intermittently in all departments and prices slumped back to approximate the lows they reached early last week. The sales total was less than a million shares.

Railroad shares were bumped anew by the Union Pacific dividend cut and the more active issues of the group slipped through their previous minimums. Union Pacific, itself, gave up 3½ points on the "bad news." New York Central paid further toll on the omission announced by its directorate yesterday by yielding to a new low of 11¾.

Lose 1 to 3 Points.

New Haven, Norfolk and Western, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Atchison and others lost from 1 to 3 points or so. Poor traffic, and the difficulties of obtaining financial aid either from the public or the government are making the picture look more like a cloud of soft coal smoke for the carriers every day.

Public utilities were more sway-backed. Peoples Gas gave up 2½ pcints and Consolidated Gas was under pressure at intervals. The talk was that these issues undoubtedly have a period of stress ahead of them unless Washington gets on the windward side of itself quickly and business takes the other way out.

Movement Is Down.

Price variations elsewhere in the list were not particularly interesting for the reason that they were mainly in one diection—downward. Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Johns-Manville and other issues figuring more prominently in the talk and trading of the day finished showing losses of from 1 to more than 2 points.

United States Steel dipped to 28, but managed still to keep securely above its bear market low. U. S. Steel got its new lease of life from the company's action in making a new cut in the wages of its workers last week.

The news from Washington was still the big thing in board room gossip. Concern seemed to be chiefly over the prospects of an early adjournment of congress. The remarks of Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that discussion of adjournment was merely "idle talk" was supposed to influence some selling.

COMPARATIVE PRICES.

HOGS—Bulk of sales yesterday $3.20@3.60. One month ago 3.80@4.20. One year ago 6.40@7.20. Top yesterday, $3.65; average, $3.35.

CATTLE—Bulk of steers 5.25@6.35. One month ago 5.40@7.00. One year ago 6.75@7.50. Top yesterday, $7.25; average, $5.80.

SHEEP—Fed western lambs 5.50@6.00. One month ago 6.75@7.40. One year ago 7.50@9.50. Top yesterday, $6.00; average, $5.50.

Strong local support gave the hog market a more hopeful appearance yesterday. Large local houses again led the way in better grades where prices moved up 5@10c more on a lively session.

Plainer kinds were neglected, however, and these eased off after the start and closed barely steady. The extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c, to $3.65 and $3.35, respectively.

The spread between plain quality and good to choice grades has been widening more rapidly since larger houses swung aggressively into top classes. Armour, Swift, and Wilson obtained about 2,600 head, practically all good to choice 200@220 lb averages at $3.50@3.60 and 260@290 lb butchers at $3.30@3.40.

Usually at this time of the year the range of hog prices starts to widen out. The extreme range spread out from $2.25 at this time last year to $3.95 by the middle of July. The present range shows a spread of only $1.25. With the inside figure for extremely heavy "packers" down to $2.40 it is obvious that not much of the seasonal spread can come through further decline in packing grades.

Cattle Supply Small.

A short supply of cattle had a tonic effect on the trade yesterday. Only 4,000 arrived and today's estimate calls for 1,000, the smallest Thursday and Friday receipts in recent weeks, or since early in February. Active buying by all interests indicated that they needed supplies. Some in the trade, however, were inclined to regard the advance in prices with some skepticism because of the weak undertone which has existed for several days.

Steers still show mostly 25@35c loss for the week. Only the top quotations are held in line with a week ago. Choice steers averaging 1,343 lbs sold to New York buyers at $7.35, yesterday's top price. The bulk of beef steers brought $5.25@6.35 from local houses. A string of almost 100 mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 704@774 lbs sold at $6.00. Butcher stock sold mostly steady to strong and in spots slightly higher. Calves were firm. Stockers and feeders continued almost at a standstill with quotations weak.

Lambs Slump 25@50c.

Lambs slumped 25@50c in a lifeless market yesterday. Closing sales of aged wool lambs equaled the lowest since Dec. 22. Top Colorados, mates to the $6.25@6.50 stock on Wednesday's session, were sold on the late afternoon rounds yesterday at $6.00. This is the third time this year that the top has been down to $6.00. Prevailing quotations are only 50@75c above the low spot of the winter established in December when top wool stock sold at $5.35. The new crop of springers shared in some of the price cut yesterday, but outstanding lots met good demand. One shipment of 71 lb averages from Colorado brought $8.00. Aged sheep and yearlings remained steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, against 1,013 cattle, 18,804 hogs, and 8,106 sheep the previous Friday and 2,204 cattle, 15,586 hogs, and 14,460 sheep a year ago.

Berlin Stocks Steady on Favorable News

BERLIN, May 12.—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening's reichstag majority and the reduction of the English bank rate caused a firm tone on the boerse. Prices in certain sections yielded somewhat later, but the closing tendency was good.

VARIED FACTORS CAUSE DECLINE IN WHEAT MART

Tired Longs Said to Have Given Up Holdings.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Unconfirmed rumors, later denied from Washington, to the effect that the federal farm board had been notified there would be no further appropriations made by the government for its use and that it would have to liquidate its stock of wheat were in circulation yesterday. This, with weakness in the stock market and with a lack of aggressive support, caused a sharp recession in the price. Stop loss orders were caught on the way down, and many tired longs went out of their holdings, especially those who bought in expectation that the government report on winter wheat would result in a good upturn.

Wheat prices dropped 1⅞@2c from Wednesday's finish to a figure which prevailed before the issuance of both the May and April government reports, although the trade had regarded the latter as sensationally bullish, the May returns suggesting a yield of 346,000,000 bu less than harvested last year. Net losses at the last were 1¾@1⅝c, with May, 54c; old July, 56¼@56¼c; old September, 56⅝@58⅛c, and December, 61⅛c.

Spreaders Active in Wheat.

The decline in the wheat market was orderly despite the depressing conditions, due to a considerable extent to spreading and backspreading between here and Winnipeg and Kansas City. At one time Winnipeg July showed 7c over Chicago, while the difference between Chicago and Kansas City was about the smallest so far. There was also buying against bids on the decline.

Operators who have banked heavily on the bullish government report to advance wheat prices were generally disgusted with the action of the market. Despite the official confirmation of extremely heavy damage, the market has refused to respond, and this has tended to create bearish sentiment. The latter is becoming more pronounced, especially as the action of stocks has suggested general conditions are showing little or no improvement.

Russia After Wheat.

Seaboard reports indicated that three more cargoes of Russian wheat had been sold for immediate shipment to Vladivostok, making 14 cargoes of Canadian and Australian grain so far, but in some quarters it was feared a Vancouver message confirming the sale of 3 cargoes of Wednesday had been construed as fresh business. The latter had been reported previously.

Around 300,000 to 400,000 bu Manitobas and hard winters were claimed to have been disposed of in all positions yesterday. Liverpool wheat was weak and closed ⅞@1⅛c per bu lower, with July at 59⅝c, or 2⅝c over Chicago. Winnipeg was off 1⅝@1⅝c for the day, with May at 61⅝c in Canadian funds.

Corn Closes Lower.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure early, and received fairly good support throughout the day, with the July closing around 24c under the same delivery of wheat compared with 25c a good part of the time on Wednesday. The finish was about the bottom in sympathy with wheat, with net losses of ⅝@1c. May was 29c; July, 32⅛@32¼c; September, 34½@34⅝c, and December, 34¾c at the last.

There was a noticeable lack of eastern buying of cash corn, with sales of 4,000, while purchases to arrive were 31,000 bu.

Oats and rye markets were dominated almost entirely by the action of other grains. Oats finished ⅜@½c lower, with May at 23¼c; July, 22⅝@22¾c; September, 22⅛@22⅝c, and December, 24¼c, while rye was off 1@1⅜c, with May at 38½c; July, 40½c, and September, 41½c. There was talk of export demand for rye, but no sales were indicated.

OCTOBER EGGS HIGHER

October eggs advanced due to active buying on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Although selling at the close erased part of the gain, the delivery closed ¼c higher. Butter was unchanged to ¼c higher. Bullish expectations as to the monthly storage report combined with continued favorable daily reports brought in the buying of October eggs. A heavy block turned over at 16⅜c near the close, but selling worked the price back in the last minute. The four markets reported a net inward movement of stocks, but the total was less than last year. The market held quiet. Sales: Butter, 6 cars; eggs, 82 cars. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—Some few sales of print cloths have been made for contract delivery at new low prices, but many mills are declining offers on the low levels. Finished goods continue to move slowly. Rayon sales are light. Interest is shown by cutters in women's wear coating samples for fall. Raw silk and silk gray goods again declined, with trade sluggish. Burlaps were quiet and weak.

TAX BILL TARIFF DUTIES ASSAILED BY DEMOCRATS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The inclusion in the revenue bill of tariff duties on oil, coal, lumber, and copper, and the "logrolling methods" by which they were put there in the senate finance committee are both "indefensible," five Democratic committee members declared today.

The minority group embodies its views in a report which was submitted shortly before the senate entered into an agreement to lay aside the Glass banking bill and to take up the revenue bill tomorrow.

Those who signed the report opposing the import taxes were: Senators Harrison of Mississippi, George of Georgia, Walsh of Massachusetts, Costigan of Colorado, and Hull of Tennessee.

"Dangerous in Practice."

"We regard the inclusion of these tariffs in the present bill, under all the circumstances, as utterly indefensible," the five Democratic senators stated. "We believe it is unsound in principle and dangerous in practice to attempt to make the present revision of our domestic tax laws the vehicle for tariff tinkering. Furthermore, the prospective revenue yield of these proposed tariff taxes is negligible.

"More important is the fact that these tariffs at best will be of doubtful benefit to domestic producers, may adversely affect domestic consumers and will work most certain injury to our foreign trade and our foreign relations. The probable ultimate consequences of this further attempted tampering with a desperately sick economic situation throughout the world may well occasion the gravest apprehension."

And as for the means by which the tariff provisions were put or kept in the tax bill by members of the finance committee, the senators complained:

Logrolling Is Charged.

"The logrolling methods which have resulted in the incorporation of these particular tariff items, for these items yield no income to the government worth considering, would be indefensible even if the committee were considering a general revision of the tariff; but to resort to the trades, exchange of votes, and on-again-off-again performances that characterize the incorporation of these items in an emergency revenue measure is an exhibition that will raise serious questions in the public mind concerning the capacity of representative government to function promptly and without self-interest in great emergency. Perhaps the least said about the performance the better. We doubt if even the 'victors' are particularly proud of their handiwork."

The oil duties, said the report, would bring in a negligible revenue, but would increase the consumers' bill for oil by 73 million dollars. The coal tariff, it was claimed, would serve merely to replace 600,000 tons of imported coal now used in New England with Pennsylvania coal. A copper tariff, the report asserted, would do more harm than good, and what the lumber tariff amounted to was a desire by Oregon and Washington interests to prevent all countries from selling to the United States, but at the same time expect them to buy from this country.

Urge Their Rejection.

"In brief," the minority report concluded, "these tariffs are riders to a bill whose sole purpose should be to balance the budget and would not be seriously considered by the congress if proposed in a bill of their own because there are no cogent arguments for their imposition. We urge that these 'logrolled' tariffs in a bill seeking to balance the budget deficiency be rejected by the senate as they have already been repudiated and condemned by the house sentiment of the country regardless of party or personal views concerning the protective principle."

MANSFELD RAPS U. S. INVASION OF GRAIN MARKET

Says Competition Is Vital to Farmer.

Supremacy in the grain marketing world, despite any attempt at government invasion, will rest on the final test of competition and service, R. I. Mansfield told grain and stock men yesterday in the series of lectures sponsored by the Association of Grain Commission Merchants of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The regular grain trade, said Mr. Manafield, a director of the Grain Market Analysis club, "will continue to render honest service for every dollar received from the farmer. The margin is narrow, the competition keen. Supremacy will lie with those who know the grain business, who conduct themselves honestly, and who have the farmers' best financial interests at heart."

Traces Early History.

Mr. Mansfield traced the first governmental invasion of this field to the Roman Emperor Diocletian in 301 A. D. when prices in all products were fixed. Congress started directly to fasten itself on the grain trade in 1914, he declared.

"There quickly followed the federal trade investigation through a general food investigation in 1920," he continued, "which found but little to justify it, and in 1926 the McNary-Haugen bill, vetoed by President Coolidge in language which stated 'this particular measure is not framed to aid farmers as a whole and it is furthermore calculated to injure rather than promote the general public welfare.'

"Much of the present economic and agricultural depression is directly traceable to the passage of the grain futures act. This governmental activity through the grain futures administration is comparable to the act of the government agency that throttled and then strangled our railroads," he said, referring to the interstate commerce commission.

"Throttles Grain Market."

"The grain futures act, placing the grain exchanges under the rule of the department of agriculture, was a regulatory, restrictive measure that throttled a 'free, open and competitive grain market,'" he went on.

"The farm board was born after a western promotor sold congress on the idea of 'stabilization,' 'cooperation,' and 'orderly marketing,'" said Mr. Mansfield.

"They are all three pure bunk. The first is a myth; the second a dream, and the third, sheer idiocy.

"The farm board violated the federal laws when it became the world's greatest speculator and practically 'cornered' the United States wheat markets. The so-called cooperative, 'farmer-owned and farmer controlled' was not then, is not now and never will be a farmer's company or run for his benefit. Fortunately for America, a hostile farmer sentiment is blocking the accomplishment of its aim to obtain a monopoly of agricultural trade."

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It is said by close observers in the wheat market, who have been active on both sides of late, that the market is practically devoid of good buying power. The pit element get long on small bulges whenever the market shows any buying by strong houses and unload when the upward movement in prices stops. This makes for narrow fluctuations and an extremely light outside interest. Trade is fearful of being unloaded upon by the farm board. Traders express the belief that should the farm board start to liquidate there might be a moderate decline in prices, followed by a stronger market.

"From a technical standpoint we think the decline has made the market a little healthier and it is quite probable that foreigners will again come in and buy more freely on the break," says S. C. Harris. "At least this has been their attitude for several months past, so that this is likely to provide a cushion. Bullish incentives, however, are lacking and with the strong market again showing weakness speculative confidence is impaired and there is nothing in the way of professional leadership to bring about any sustained advance."

Canadian wheat stocks exclusive of farm holdings and in transit May 6 were 157,789,000 bu as given by Sanford Evans, or 8,000,000 bu more than last year. He reports 85 per cent of the seeding completed in Manitoba, 50 per cent in Saskatchewan, and 40 per cent in Alberta. Wherever wheat is up its appearance is excellent, says Mr. Evans, and the outlook is favorable.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

A moderate export business was reported as under way in Manitobas yesterday with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions. As has been the case for some time past the amount of hard winters sold abroad was underestimated on Wednesday when 400,000 were disposed of, including 80,000 bu to the United Kingdom. The two cargoes reported sold on Tuesday were taken by Spain. No. 2 hard at the gulf was quoted at Chicago July price and at the seaboard at ½c under the future.

Chicago handlers sold 15,000 bu wheat; 4,000 bu corn, and 29,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 50,000 bu wheat to go to store. Purchases of 5,000 bu wheat; 31,000 bu corn and 8,000 bu oats were made to arrive. Charters were reported for 225,000 bu wheat to Buffalo; 100,000 bu corn and 150,000 bu oats to Georgian Bay and 350,000 bu oats to Lake Erie ports. Delivery on May contracts aggregated 139,000 bu wheat; 181,000 bu corn; 15,000 bu oats and 5,000 bu rye.

Basis on cash wheat was somewhat firmer especially on No. 2 yellow hard and No. 2 mixed which were quoted at 1¼@1½c over May. No. 2 red was 1¼@1½c over and No. 2 hard 1¾@2c over the future.
